Inside Snowcapped Mountain 19 Hours

17 Trapped In Caved-In Tunnel Crawl To Safety

GORMAN, Calif. (AP) — Seventeen men, trapped for 19 hours behind a cave-in inside a snowcapped mountain, crawled through a narrow passageway to safety today.

A cheer went up as the men emerged from the entrance to a 1½-mile-long State Water Project tunnel in the Tehachapi Mountains, which separate Northern and Southern California.

Fellow workmen had tried to reach the men from three directions, but feared the men might be trapped as long as four or five days. However, one team—digging head-on through 80 feet of dirt, rock and steel blocking the tunnel-made rapid progress after finding the collapsed steel roof had formed a partial passageway.

"No one felt we would never get out," said one of the trapped men. H.G. Harrison, a construction inspector for the State Department of Water Resources. "But we thought it would take a week to get us out.

"How they got to us as fast as they did I'll never know."

The trapped men laughed, told jokes and ate and drank from supplies lowered through two pipes—four- and eight-inches in diameter—that were undamaged by the cave-in. Their air supply was never in danger and they were warmer—by at least 40 degrees—than rescuers and onlookers standing above ground in 14-degree temperature.

"I wasn't scared, not a bit, declared Roy Willis. "The only reason one of the rescuers worked so hard is I owe him 30 bucks."

"You would expect that many men to have some hysteria," added Harrison, "but there was none."

"You've got to give credit to the guys up top," he added. "They were digging through a hole without timbers. That's damn dangerous."

Rescuers dug through the debris into the chamber, shook hands with the trapped men, and then backtracked to shore up the escape tunnel and cut protruding steel with welding torches.

Harrison, 6-foot-2, and 200 pounds, said the opening was "just barely large enough to squeeze through."

Besides the crew that reached the men, other crews were digging at the side of the collapsed section and sinking a pipe 36 inches in diamater a distance of 200 feet through the roof of the tunnel.

Digging the side drift could have taken five days.

The $33.7 million Carley V. Porter tunnel project is one of four under construction in the Techachapi mountains, part of the $2.8 million California aqueduct which will carry 110 million gallons an hour of Northern California water to Southern California.

Ernie Moore, a superintendent, said workers have tunneled about equal distances—some 1.5 miles—from opposite ends of the tunnel since work started in April 1966. They are expected to complete the remaining 10,000 feet by 1969.

A spokesman for the contractors said the collapsed section will be partially shored up today and then work will stop until after the first of the year.

LBJ Leaves Australia, Reported In Thailand

Rumors Also Heard He Would Stop In Rome To See Pope

By The Associated Press

President Johnson took off from Australia today on his way home, and later was reported to have arrived in Thailand for the night.

There was no direct word from Thailand, but advices received by The Associated Press said the President was understood to be spending the night at Khorat air base, one of the sites the United States has developed for the defense of Thailand and to bomb North Vietnam.

No official confirmation of the trip was expected until the President's departure. That was the pattern followed last year when Johnson visited Cam Ranh Bay in South Vietnam.

Johnson's plane flew north from Melbourne and stopped in Darwin, on the north central coast, for a refueling stop which was not announced in advance.

There have also been rumors the President would stop in Rome to talk with Pope Paul VI.

Talks Slated In Chinaware Industry Pact

The International Brotherhood of Operative Potters and representatives of seven chinaware manufacturing firms will open negotiations Jan. 23 at Pittsburgh to draft a new working agreement replacing the present contract, which expires Jan. 31.

The meetings at the Carlton House in Pittsburgh will cover employes of the Sterling China Co. and Wellsville China Co., both of Wellsville, the Mayer China Division of Shenango Pottery Co. at Beaver Falls, the Buffalo China Co. of Buffalo, N. Y., the Jackson China Co. of Falls Creek, Pa., and the Walker China Co. of Bedford.

The IBOP said its representatives will caucus Jan. 22 in preparation for opening of the negotiations the following day.

Local unions representing the employes include: Local 24, Wellsville, Local 33, Beaver Falls, Local 76, Buffalo, Local 104, Falls Creek, and Local 108, Bedford.

The IBOP and the U. S. Potters Association reached agreement Nov. 27 at Cincinnati on a new three-year pact for the generalware branch of the industry that will run until Nov. 15, 1970.

The value of the "package" agreement was placed at 26 cents hourly over the life of the contract, including three successive annual pay raises of 6 cents hourly. The contract covers 3,800 employes in six plants, including all the major dinnerware firms in the East Liverpool area.

Pound Troop Concentrations In Northern DMZ

B52s Again Blast North Vietnam Targets Despite Threat Of Missiles

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers returned to blast North Vietnamese targets in the demilitarized zone again today despite the threat of more SAM missiles like the three the Reds fired at them in the same area Wednesday night.

The huge high-altitude bombers pounded troop concentrations and artillery positions in the northern half of the DMZ, seven miles north-northwest of the U.S. Marine outpost at Con Thien. Earlier in the day they blasted suspected Communist infiltration routes along the Cambodian border.

At the same time, the U.S. Command disclosed a new amphibious and helicopter assault by Marines along the northern sector where 35,000 Communist troops are believed concentrated.

There was no report of any more SAMs being fired when the B52s returned Friday.

In other raids today, the big bombers pounded two suspected infiltration routes within a few miles of the Cambodian border. One strike was 68 miles northwest of Saigon where supplies filter into War Zone C. The second was 89 miles north of Saigon near the Bu Dop Special Forces camp which the Communists assaulted last month.

The new Marine assault, also aimed at taking Communist pressure off the northern frontier area, was centered about five miles below the demilitarized zone along the coast of Quang Tri Province.

A battalion of Marines, about 1,000 men, landed Thursday morning from helicopters and from ships of the U.S. 7th Fleet.

U.S. headquarters said the only significant action so far occurred shortly before dark Thursday when one Marine company exchanged small arms and machinegun fire with an enemy force of unknown size entrenched in a complex of bunkers. Four Marines were killed and nine were wounded. Communist casualties were not known.

U.S. cruisers and destroyers also turned their big guns on Communist positions along the northern frontier, and fighter-bombers also raked enemy strongpoints.

Flying from carriers in the Tonkin Gulf, Navy A4 Skyhawk bombers attacked a suspected SAM missile site 25 miles north of the DMZ but no damage assessment was announced. Other Skyhawks dropped 250-pound bombs on a North Vietnamese artillery post 10 miles northwest of the U.S. Marine outpost at Gio Linh.

The northeast monsoons confined U.S. air strikes to secondary targets in the southern panhandle of North Vietnam Thursday for the second straight day. U.S. pilots flew 90 missions.

50 Injured When Train Rams Freight In Kansas

WAMEGO, Kan. (AP) — A train crowded with 190 holiday passengers collided at a siding just east of Wamego Thursday night with a freight train. The Kansas highway patrol said some 50 passengers were injured, none seriously.

A check of hospitals in Wamego, and nearby Manhattan and Topeka, Kan., disclosed that only 12 persons apparently remained hospitalized overnight. About 20 others were treated and released.

"The train slowed down and the conductor said we would be pulling over for a freight," Lt. Phillip Way of Ft. Riley, Kan., said. "I was talking to my wife when all of a sudden there was one big thud. The train moved backward and then came to a halt."

The Union Pacific's Portland Rose, Train No. 18, was carrying passengers enroute from the west to Kansas City, 105 miles east of Wamego. The train was made up of four coaches, two baggage cars and a locomotive.

The 70-car Union Pacific freight train was enroute from Kansas City to Los Angeles.

A Union Pacific spokesman in Omaha, Neb., said the Portland Rose pulled onto a siding to let the freight pass and apparently stuck out one end of the siding too far, fouling the main line.

The engine and one baggage car on the Portland Rose turned over, as did eight cars and all

Firm Slates Beginning Of Bridge Check

Two representatives of a Harrisburg (Pa.) consulting firm are scheduled to arrive in East Liverpool Tuesday afternoon to begin an intensive inspection of the 70-year-old Chester Bridge.

The inspection by the Madjeski & Masters firm is part of a $40,000 project authorized by the Ohio Department of Highways for a safety check of the Chester, Ft. Steuben and Pomeroy spans.

Frank Masters Jr. of the consulting firm said two men will arrive in the district Tuesday for preliminary studies of the Chester and Steubenville bridges. Two others are due at the Pomeroy span.

The preliminary check will determine if special equipment, scaffolding, floats or ropes are needed for the full inspection of the bridge, Masters said.

Progress of the inspection will depend upon weather conditions, he added.

$1,000 Stolen During Entry Of City Home

Burglars fled with $1,000 in currency after ransacking an East Liverpool home late Thursday afternoon, police reported.

The money was taken at the home of Mrs. Mary Dauka of 174 Pennsylvania Ave. as the intruders searched all the upstairs bedrooms, officers said. Nothing else was missing.

The home was entered between 4:30 and 5:30 during the owner's absence, officers reported. The intruders first attempted to gain entry by breaking a pane of glass in the front door, Unsuccessful there because the door became jammed, they pushed on a rear storm door, causing the latch inside to snap, officers said.

Another burglary and theft were reported to police Thursday night and early today.

Jud Jones of 1628½ St. George St. said he returned home at 1:52 this morning and found that an intruder had broken into his home by prying at the latch of a lock with a screw driver.

Humphrey Due To Lead Attack Against McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey reportedly has been assigned the job of leading the counter-attack against fellow-Minnesotan Eugene J. McCarthy's challenge to President Johnson's renomination.

Humphrey, sources suggested Thursday, will be the chief administration pitcher in what they see as a campaign doubleheader: one covering the primary period, the other against the GOP nominee in the regular fall campaign.

The assignment, said a knowledgeable administration source, will make "very remote" the speculation Johnson would dump Humphrey as his running mate in 1968.

Humphrey, said the source, "is the administration's strongest advocate, on Vietnam and other issues. More than anybody else he's been out there fighting the good fight, and he'll be the one leading the charge."

Sen. McCarthy's threat—pitched to his opposition to Johnson's Vietnam policies—is likened to a jolt of adrenalin, stirring the party from local precincts to the capital, speeding up decisions and hurrying strategy.

As the strategy shapes up now, the sources said, Humphrey will do most of the traveling, oratory and hand-to-hand combat.

Meanwhile, as one source put it, "the President will be the President."

In other words Johnson will have the White House, with all its limelight, as a campaign platform.

"As the months go on," said one insider, "you'll see Humphrey leading the charge. The President will be on the peri-

Deaths and Funerals

Dorothy M. Johnson

She was born here May 4, 1924, a daughter of the late William H. Johnson and Sara Alice Malone Johnson. She had resided in this area virtually her lifetime. She was a presser at the A & M Dry Cleaning Firm in Steubenville, last working in 1965.

She leaves five brothers, Charles Johnson of Canton, George Johnson of Columbus, Oscar Johnson of Lisbon and Walter Johnson and James Johnson, both of East Liverpool, and five sisters, Mrs. Mildred Osborne, Mrs. Sara Kearns and Mrs. Lucy Leigh, all of East Liverpool, Mrs. Florence Anderwald of Los Angeles and Mrs. Jessie Kail of Beaver Falls.

Services will be held Saturday at 3:30 p. m. at the Martin Funeral Home by the Rev. D. Ross Salisbury, rector of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. Burial will be in Calcutta United Presbyterian Chhrch Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight.

Edward R. Moore

NEW CUMBERLAND — Edward Raymond Moore, 69, of 504 S. Chester St., was pronounced dead on arrival Thursday afternoon at Weirton General Hospital. He had taken ill earlier at home.

A native of New Cumberland, Mr. Moore was born March 4, 1898, a son of the late Samuel Moore and Mary McKenns Moore. He was a World War II Army veteran and served with the 7th Ferrying Group. He was employed at the Advance Metal Products Co. in Weirton and was a watchman when he retired.

He is survived by two brothers, William L. Moore at home and James P. Moore of New Cumberland, and two sisters, Mrs. Grace Moore Cross at home and Mrs. Morgan (Sadie) Snider of Metz, W. Va.

Services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Fields Funeral Home by the Rev. Allen S. Fields of the New Cumberland First Christian Church. Burial will be in New Manchester Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 tonight.

Hanford Bell

Hanford P. Bell, 77, of Middle Run Rd., Chester, died this morning at 5 at City Hospital after a lingering illness.

He was born June 20, 1890. He made his home with a stepson, Daniel Wright.

He also is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary R. Bell, at home; a son, Harry Bell of Akron; a daughter, Mrs. Sylvia Barton of Fontana, Calif.; another step-son, Samuel Wright of East Liverpool, and two stepdaughters, Mrs. Frank (Viola) Dozer of East Liverpool and Mrs. Roy (Mary) Keith of Barberton.

Services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Chester Arner Funeral Chapel. Burial will be in Locust Hill Cemetery.

Friends may call at the chapel tonight, Saturday afternoon and night.

Ohio Edison Sets Work At Stratton Unit

The Ohio Edison Co. plans to spend about $22.8 million of a $74 million budget for 1968 for the installation of additional generating capacity at the W. H. Sammis power plant at nearby Stratton in Jefferson County.

The Stratton work was announced in conjunction with a $375 million capital spending program over the next five years for Ohio Edison and its subsidiary, the Pennsylvania Power Co.

President D. Bruce Mansfield outlined the various projects Thursday afternoon at company headquarters in Akron.

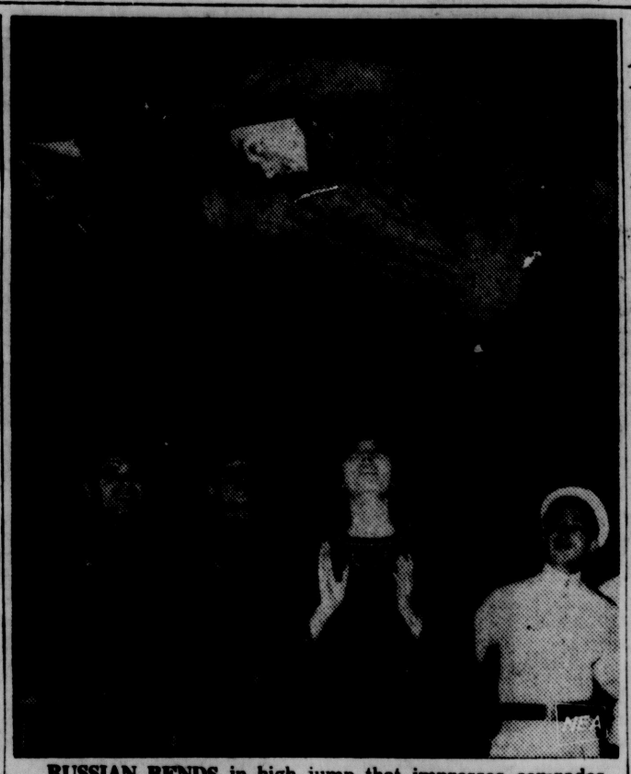

A new 300,000-kilowatt generator is scheduled for operation at the Sammis plant before the first of next year, while a 600,000-kilowatt unit being installed there is expected to be in operation by next fall. A second 600,000-kilowatt unit is scheduled for operation at the plant in 1971.

Interconnections with neighboring companies are involved in three of Ohio Edison's largest transmission construction projects scheduled for next year.

Set for completion next summer is a new 345,000-volt connection with Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., northwest of Akron. An existing interconnection with Toledo Edison will be strengthened by doubling the number of conductors on a 138,000-volt line joining the two companies.

A new 345,000-volt line in the Ohio River area will join the Sammis plant and Wylie Ridge substations of the Monongahela Power Co. in West Virginia.

A line through Medina and Lorain counties will have its northern terminus at a new substation to be built west of Lorain.

Food Service Permit Applications Lagging

LISBON — The Columbiana County Health Department reported today only about 50 per cent of the county's food service operators have applied for 1968 food service licenses.

Applications were mailed the first of December to approximately 200 establishments. Harry Stockdale, county sanitarian, said a new state regulation increases the penalty for lack of a license by Jan. 1 from $10 per day to $100 per day.

The Courthouse will be open only Tuesday through Friday next week because of the holidays.

Auto Injures Youngster, 3

A 3-year-old East Liverpool youngster was in "fair" condition today at City Hospital with multiple injuries suffered Thursday at 2:55 p. m. when he ran into the path of an auto on Bradshaw Ave. at Ravine St.

James Edward Kraft, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kraft of 211 Blakeley St., suffered a possible fracture of the left shoulder and contusions of the chest, ribs and skull when hit by a slow-moving 1962 four-door sedan driven by Mrs. Betty I. Rayl, 32, of 805 Alton St., police reported.

Mrs. Rayl told Patrolman K. J. Montgomery she was driving east about 20 miles an hour when she saw a little boy suddenly run into the street, hesitate a moment and then continue into the path of her car. She applied the brakes, but the youngster was struck by the right front of the car and hurled about five feet, officers said.

Beatrice Balch of 679 Riley Ave., a passenger with Mrs. Rayl, and three other witnesses confirmed her report of the mishap. The witnesses added that Mrs. Rayl was "not driving very fast" and had no chance to avoid striking the child, officers reported.

El Salvador's ancient Mayans were familiar with the wheel but seldom used it.

Youth — Mr. and Mrs. John Huston, co-chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. James Zimmerman, Salem RD 3; Mr. and Mrs. Rolland Stryffeler, Beloit RD 2, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rudebock.

Council — Mr. and Mrs. Richard Neville, Lisbon RD 5, co-chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. Dale McKarns, Kensington; Mr. and Mrs. Leland Baker, Lisbon RD 5, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Murray.

Organization and Maintenance — Murray, chairman; Mrs. Neville, Mrs. Farmer, Robert Herold, Alliance RD 5; John Bartels, Salem RD 1, and Carl Wollam, East Liverpool RD 3.

Mrs. Arlan Hoopes, Beloit RD 2, organization director, Irey and Frischkorn reported on the leadership training session they attended in Columbus.

Elizabeth Farmer reported that the women's committee had a coverdish dinner for the December meeting and sent a gift to each person at the County Home.

The directors discussed having a recognition dinner for young couples and publishing a newsletter to be sent to all members.

Greenisen, chairman of the membership committee, announced the 1968 membership is 410, compared with a county goal of 670. He said a membership drive kickoff meeting will be held Jan. 15 and teams will report at the recognitiin dinner Jan. 22.

Flames Destroy 3-Car Garage In Guilford District

GUILFORD LAKE — Fire of undetermined origin leveled a large two-story garage Thursday at the Floyd Stinson property on County Rd. 411, about 300 yards west of Depot Rd.

Stinson was at work at the Eljer Co. in Salem when the family discovered the fire. The building, a former machinery shed, was large enough for three cars.

Guilford Lake and Hanoverton units of the Hanover Township volunteer fire department answered the alarm at 11:45 a.m., and were on the scene until 5 p.m.

Timbers and a coal pile burned through the night. The fire fed on baled hay stored upstairs and was fanned by a stiff wind. Firemen protected other buildings.

Mrs. Stinson said they have insurance on the house — the former Eldon Whinery place — but she is not sure whether it covers the garage.

Humphrey

phery. He won't be in the forefront to a significant extent."

"Undoubtedly," said another source, "the President won't be able to resist campaigning later, but mainly he'll leave it to Humphrey."

In the preconvention phase of the campaigning, Humphrey plans to visit "all the critical states," according to a source.

The critical states, he said, are those with primaries, the big industrial states and those where a Democratic Senate seat is under strong attack.

Humphrey has already struck at McCarthy, his old colleague in Minnesota's Democratic-Farmer-Labor party.

At a meeting Dec. 9 of more than 1,000 Minnesota party officials Humphrey in effect accused McCarthy of short-circuiting party unity. And the party state central committee adopted a resolution supporting Johnson and Humphrey.

The vice president, said an observer who has been both a political friend and foe of Humphrey, "revels in such combat. He's really a tiger.

"He doesn't mind going into the pit with McCarthy. Hell, he enjoys it."

In an exclusive interview Thursday, Dr. Martin Luther King told The Associated Press in Atlanta he views New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as the only Republican who could beat President Johnson next year.

But the civil rights leader added he felt former Vice President Richard M. Nixon would get the GOP nod "even though they themselves know he can't win."

Burglary

Nothing was taken, he told officers.

Jones added that he believes unknown persons have been entering his home and making long distance telephone calls, as he has been receiving large bills for calls he did not make.

Meanwhile, Kenneth Talbott of 1623 Cleveland Ave. told officers a basketball, a football and a pair of child's glasses were stolen from the auto of his son, Kenneth Talbott of W. 6th St., while it was parked at the father's home last night. The report was filed at 10:35.

Nothing was taken, he told officers.

Jones added that he believes unknown persons have been entering his home and making long distance telephone calls, as he has been receiving large bills for calls he did not make.

Meanwhile, Kenneth Talbott of 1623 Cleveland Ave. told officers a basketball, a football and a pair of child's glasses were stolen from the auto of his son, Kenneth Talbott of W. 6th St., while it was parked at the father's home last night. The report was filed at 10:35.

A Job For Congress

Specifically, he said the "conjunction of an immense military establishment and a large arms industry" was "new in the American experience" and "we must not fail to comprehend its grave implications."

"We must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence . . . . by the military-industrial complex," he said, because "the potential for the disastrous rise of misplaced power" existed there.

The Treasury has just announced that military spending in November was the lowest it has been since June. Even at that, the figure still is more than $6 billion in one month.

Military spending for the first five months of the fiscal year that started July 1 totals $31.56 billion. At this rate, the 12-month total would hit $75.7 billion.

President Eisenhower was worried about excessive power that could rise from a huge military-industrial marriage. There is no indication of a plot to usurp the power of the government and establish a military oligarchy.

There is danger, nevertheless, in top-heavy defense spending and an economy geared to military hardware production. The biggest portion of the U. S. budget dollar goes for defense spending.

The breakdown won't change significantly when the Vietnam war ends, because there always is a need to replace obsolete defensive weapons with current models.

A certain amount of military production obviously is healthy for the economy. It keeps things moving. But over-stimulation can wreck the economy, especially if it tails off for lack of a war.

Domestic program spending suffers when too much of a nation's wealth is thrown into defense spending.

Normally, defense appropriations are untouchable during wartime. Much of the defense spending that will be handled by the second session of the 90th Congress will have no direct bearing on the Vietnam War. Even funds appropriated for Vietnam should be scrutinized thoroughly.

One of the jobs before Congress when it convenes next January is a thorough investigation of defense spending. Hopefully, some constructive recommendations toward a reduction in the total will be forthcoming.

Keeping In Step

Any proposals for providing water in the St. Clair Township areas other than the one already approved by the Columbiana County Commissioners deserve study by the commissioners.

Opponents of the $621,000 construction project, for which a $240,000 federal grant has been authorized, have suggested a well system rather than the East Liverpool water supply as the basic source.

Some previous reports indicate wells might not provide sufficient water for the community. But, unless this can be substantiated, the suggestion rates an honest perusal by the commissioners.

The point is, that wells or a dammed creek or the city's Ohio River supply are needed to provide water which is not only a requirement right now but is vital for the real growth of St. Clair Township and the whole southeastern part of Columbiana County.

If wells are the answer, let the project proceed on that basis. If the city water supply is termed the more efficient source, on with it! Whatever course, the distribution system and storage facilities can be erected, using the county and federal money, and even if the water source is changed later, the water system will be installed, serving the present customers and ready to serve new.

St. Clair Township and East Liverpool no longer can afford the imagined plots and counter plots and differences of opinion which become obstacles to action. While this goes on, other townships and communities are cooperating to win industry, highways, housing projects, expanded services and federal grants which put them another step or two in front of us.

Closer Odds, Please?

The weatherman, an unsentimental realist and odds - making scientist, has put a minimum 5 to 1 chance ratio against a white Christmas for the tri - state area.

So who needs a white Christmas? Who wants to dig out the car on Christmas morning? Who wants to tramp in snow to visit the neighbors for a gift perusal? The kids with the sleds can wait another week or two! Folks in Florida and California get by without a flaky holiday, right?

But we wish the odds were a little closer, just the same. . .

Expect No Loyal Opposition

Suddenly, in the persuasive presence of Lyndon B. Johnson, President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam sees no reason he cannot talk informally with representatives of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

What is still to be learned is whether the talks could come to any substantial agreement.

Beyond that, what is still to be learned is whether the current government of South Vietnam in Saigon could earn enough confidence to dream about a loyal opposition at some point in the distant future.

It hardly seems likely.

The civil war being fought in South Vietnam, like civil wars fought elsewhere in this century and the 19th century, is not subject to easy reconciliation. Otherwise, it wouldn't be a civil war.

The fact that always should have loomed largest in the long-range strategic view of Southeast Asia was the do-or-die determination of these people who had fought the Japanese in World War II, the French after World War and were willing to fight Americans with the same ferocity.

The militarists advising President Kennedy and President Johnson were confident that they could subdue the Viet Cong without raising a sweat. Now, years later, the Johnson administration is talking hopefully about negotiating with the Viet Cong for the pacification of South Vietnam.

It is heartening to know the president of South Vietnam is willing to sit down with the National Liberation Front's negotiators. Whether they are willing to sit down with him is the question.

They Never Know When To Stop

If Mayor John V. Lindsay's New York City administration has been infiltrated by Mafia racketeers, as indicated by Grand Jury indictments and continuing investigations by the district attorney's office, the political moral is blunt enough to bowl over a case-hardened party boss.

There is no way to live with this style of corruption.

The terrifying thing about Mafia-style corruption is that its operators never know when to stop. They recognize no cutoff point. The only thing they know is their own style. They are unrestrained by rules outside their closed society.

Having no point of satiety, a Mafia-style racketeer is on the take for keeps. He has no scruples about the possibility of ruining other people. He couldn't care less about New York City and John V. Lindsay. If it came to a chance to racketeer at the expense of a church, well and good.

Not infrequently, people wonder why there is so much excitement about evidence that the Mafia is operating in the United States.

The reason is the modus operandi of these Sicilian gangsters. They are the absolutists of the criminal world. They stop at nothing. No law-respecting society can tolerate their presence, because they make and live by their own laws.

The Lindsay administration was bound to encounter them. The young mayor has been visibly shaken by his first head-on collision, because it entailed apparent betrayal by a trusted associate. The Mafia stops at nothing.

Purely Personal Observations

I have renewed my pledge to stay away from whistleball games until the game is restored to the players and until the players, themselves, are restored to a reasonable over-all height. Thus, if a team has two seven-footers, the other three would have to average five and one-third inches apiece, to keep the over-all height under 30 feet. Any questions?

Would you believe there are no fewer than 1,800 bridges in the United States 40 years old and older? The answer is Yes. I also would believe that upward of 90 per cent of them could not pass inspection by a competent inspector.

I would not burn my Social Security card in despair if spokesmen for the executive departments of our Great Good Government occasionally told the U.S. Supreme Court what it could do with rulings that were unrealistic. I see nothing sacrosanct about judicial rulings.

Letters from soldiers in Vietnam make my heart ache. They try hard to believe they are there at the right time for the right reason, but they have doubts like most people back home. If they expressed them in a letter, there would be the dickens to pay.

The funny thing about the girl in the red Corvair is my discovery that while I was speculating about who she was and where she worked she went to the root of the matter and learned all about the fellow who was writing about her, a discovery that only now has come to light.

They are making a musical of "Elmer Gantry." I have a hunch Sinclair Lewis must be laughing himself sick in a quiet corner of the boiler room down yonder.

Nothing accelerates the spread of Asian flu like Christmas, according to the medical profession. All those jolly good fellows getting together, all that amiable kissing and exuberant handshaking and hugging. There's a germ in every contact.

My heart goes out to Mayor Lindsay of New York, who has discovered what most public officials must discover sooner or later — that their friends are more to be feared than their enemies.

VICTOR RIESEL

'Rocky' Building For Future

BAL HARBOUR — The labor giants who turned their massive gathering here into a mini-Democratic nominating convention certainly are among the best informed political men in the nation — and they have firsthand knowledge that Nelson A. Rockefeller is running hard for the Republican nomination and is building a stop-Nixon machine.

Victor Riesel

The New York governor, hoping to weld some powerful labor leaders into that machine, tried to rope some of them off the Johnson bandwagon by dispatching an emissary to the AFL-CIO convention some days before the "Lyndon Rodeo," as the delegates here called it.

That emissary was — and will continue to be — Maryland's new young governor, Spiro Agnew. This isn't strange since, as few are aware, the Marylander practiced labor law before taking office. Some of his best clients were sections of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters. Agnew drove here from the Republican Governors Conference held over the Dec. 9 weekend in the Breakers at Palm Beach some 60 miles away.

He tried hard to keep labor leaders, once in the Rockefeller camp, from defecting. Amidst the whoop-de-do sentiment for the President and his Cabinet, Agnew failed to move many. But he will continue to try.

He'll continue because Rockefeller must be able to show that he can carry labor districts in the big industrial areas if he is to convince G.O.P. delegates that his chances are better than Dick Nixon's. Cutting into the big city vote has always been the strategy of Republican National Chairman Ray Bliss. Rockefeller has been saying he is the only Republican who can do this. And thus, in a tight national election, chip enough votes away from the Democrats in their strongholds to win the big states.

DURING HIS VISIT here shortly after the windup of the Republican conference, Gov. Agnew singled out one of the labor movement's most influential vice presidents, the Seafarers' President Paul Hall. Observers here believe that in any showdown fight with other union chiefs, Hall, who also heads the huge Maritime Trades Dept., could muster the support of leaders of 10 million of the AFL-CIO's 14 million members.

Hall, who has been one of the administration's sharpest critics, and Gov. Agnew talked privately for a long time in the Hotel Americana. The governor spoke of his own respect for former Pennsylvania Governor William Scranton but said that with the odds going against Michigan's Governor Romney, he (Agnew), now believed that only Rockefeller could defeat Lyndon Johnson.

The Maryland governor got a friendly reception from the big seafarer but not much encouragement. Critical though he is, Hall is for Mr. Johnson and will campaign for him. In fact, Hall started last week with a sledgehammer attack on Robert Kennedy. This did not go unnoticed by President Johnson who thanked the seafarer when they shook hands on the convention platform last Tuesday night. The President was heard to say something like, "Thanks for the unkind words about Bobby."

Actually, Nelson Rockefeller had planned to move behind the AFL-CIO convention scenes in person. He wanted to dash down from Palm Beach to see another of the big labor federation's skyrocketing leaders, Jerry Wurf, head of the swiftly growing State, County and Municipal Employes.

Rockefeller had hoped to make peace with Wurf and other union chiefs who have been blasting him publicly and privately for recognizing the independent New York Civil Service Employes Assn. as the organization representing all civil service employes in the state. This froze out the powerful AFL-CIO. However, when Mr. Rockefeller learned he would get an arctic reception on this sunny beachhead, he flew home.

BUT EVEN WITH him back in New York and Agnew back in Annapolis, Rockefeller was well represented here by at least five men with wide labor contacts.

And they worked almost round the clock, hounding the lobbies, the restaurants and the private suites real hard. Among them were four New York State officials, and one banker.

One, Jay Kramer, is chairman of the State Labor Relations Board, two are deputy industrial commissioners, and one heads another big state agency.

They made little headway, not only because they found the boiling resentment over the Civil Service Employes Assn. recognition still too hot to handle, but also because they had learned that former Republican National Chairman William Miller, Barry Goldwater's vice presidential running mate, had been seeking conservative support in the West and Southwest for Gov. Rockefeller. And with the approval of the governor himself.

Just before the AFL-CIO convention closing, the leader of one of the movement's biggest national unions told this correspondent:

"You know I like Rocky, and that I worked for his reelection. But now look at how he is wooing the conservatives at the same time he's got his fellows down here. He has Bill Miller making the rounds lining up the Goldwater people, seeking out fellows in the Reagan camp, telling them one thing and us another.

"Who says Rocky is not running? Who says he's awaiting a draft? He's running, all right, or his fellows would not be all over the place."

Slump Ahead?

Unpleasant news sometimes serves a worthy purpose. It can awaken the people to demand that drifting and floundering by their government be replaced by policies based on a realistic and constructive approach.

Congress has adjourned, but together with the President it has left the people frustrated and fearful as the nation faces the most serious crisis in the national economy since the 1930s.

In 1931, for instance, most European countries, including Great Britain and Germany, abandoned the gold standard in an effort to cure rising inflation.

Europe's action caused the United States in March 1933 to impose an embargo on the export of gold. This culminated in the revaluation of gold in 1934 — something being widely discussed again today.

Such a move could have a direct impact on exports and imports generally and, of course, particularly on American companies engaged in world trade.

CONGRESS ALONE cannot make fiscal or monetary policies.

The Democratic party has a majority in both houses but the soundness of the President's leadership is being questioned even by members of his own party.

It is certainly significant to note that the Republican Coordinating Committee issued through the Republican National Committee a pessimistic survey of the present economic situation in America. The report says:

"The United States is at the brink of a fiscal crisis, the full dimensions of which are not yet clear. International confidence in the dollar is being severely tested. Our dwindling gold supply continues to flow out of the country. Inflation is a grim realty. Interest rates are higher than during last year's serious 'credit crunch.' They are the highest in some fifty years, for government, for business, for the home builder and the home buyer. . . .

"In spite of the administration's boast of unrivaled prosperty, unemployment among America's workers is increasing. . . . inflation is rampant and will get worse . . . the cost of living is escalating . . . The purchasing power of the nation's wage earners has declined and those who must live on a fixed income are having more and more trouble making ends meet . . . eight years of deficits and irresponsibile spending have brought the nation to the brink of financial crisis."

What can be done about it? Many people will say the Republican statement is partisan.

The New York Times, however, which has been supporting President Johnson on domestic policies for some time, says:

"Unfortunately, the Treasury, along with everybody else in the administration, has not given sufficient attention to the problem of the dollar. . . .

"From late in 1965, when it resisted the Federal Reserve's early attempt to counter inflation, the Treasury has consistently fumbled away its opportunity to gain control over both the federal budget and the balance of payments. . . .

"This unhealthy situation does not represent a fundamental weakness in the dollar, which might be extraordinarily painful and difficult to cure. It stems from a mismanagement of the dollar. . . . it is the Treasury, not the dollar, that is at bay, and the antidote is a forceful and constructive policy that demonstrates a real determination to bring the budget and the payments deficit under control."

THE ADMINISTRATION, however, has gone on spending at record-breaking levels.

Though a costly war is in progress, expenditures for "welfare" have not been materially reduced.

Wage and price controls have not been imposed.

In 1930, 1931 and 1932, the valiant efforts of the incumbent administration to apply policies of governmental intervention proved too late, and the dilly-dallying of 1967 may turn out to be a painful analogy.

The lesson of history shows that a course of "guns and butter, too," may seem to get votes at the beginning, but it also points up that in the end the national economy cannot be inflated without running the risk of the deflation that ensues.

The year 1968 will be one of decision. The critical question is whether a big depression will get under way or whether the national economy will this time be saved from disaster.

Rockefeller had hoped to make peace with Wurf and other union chiefs who have been blasting him publicly and privately for recognizing the independent New York Civil Service Employes Assn. as the organization representing all civil service employes in the state. This froze out the powerful AFL-CIO. However, when Mr. Rockefeller learned he would get an arctic reception on this sunny beachhead, he flew home.

BUT EVEN WITH him back in New York and Agnew back in Annapolis, Rockefeller was well represented here by at least five men with wide labor contacts.

And they worked almost round the clock, hounding the lobbies, the restaurants and the private suites real hard. Among them were four New York State officials, and one banker.

One, Jay Kramer, is chairman of the State Labor Relations Board, two are deputy industrial commissioners, and one heads another big state agency.

They made little headway, not only because they found the boiling resentment over the Civil Service Employes Assn. recognition still too hot to handle, but also because they had learned that former Republican National Chairman William Miller, Barry Goldwater's vice presidential running mate, had been seeking conservative support in the West and Southwest for Gov. Rockefeller. And with the approval of the governor himself.

"You know I like Rocky, and that I worked for his reelection. But now look at how he is wooing the conservatives at the same time he's got his fellows down here. He has Bill Miller making the rounds lining up the Goldwater people, seeking out fellows in the Reagan camp, telling them one thing and us another.

"Who says Rocky is not running? Who says he's awaiting a draft? He's running, all right, or his fellows would not be all over the place."

Slump Ahead?

Unpleasant news sometimes serves a worthy purpose. It can awaken the people to demand that drifting and floundering by their government be replaced by policies based on a realistic and constructive approach.

Congress has adjourned, but together with the President it has left the people frustrated and fearful as the nation faces the most serious crisis in the national economy since the 1930s.

In 1931, for instance, most European countries, including Great Britain and Germany, abandoned the gold standard in an effort to cure rising inflation.

Europe's action caused the United States in March 1933 to impose an embargo on the export of gold. This culminated in the revaluation of gold in 1934 — something being widely discussed again today.

Such a move could have a direct impact on exports and imports generally and, of course, particularly on American companies engaged in world trade.

CONGRESS ALONE cannot make fiscal or monetary policies.

The Democratic party has a majority in both houses but the soundness of the President's leadership is being questioned even by members of his own party.

It is certainly significant to note that the Republican Coordinating Committee issued through the Republican National Committee a pessimistic survey of the present economic situation in America. The report says:

"The United States is at the brink of a fiscal crisis, the full dimensions of which are not yet clear. International confidence in the dollar is being severely tested. Our dwindling gold supply continues to flow out of the country. Inflation is a grim realty. Interest rates are higher than during last year's serious 'credit crunch.' They are the highest in some fifty years, for government, for business, for the home builder and the home buyer. . . .

"In spite of the administration's boast of unrivaled prosperty, unemployment among America's workers is increasing. . . . inflation is rampant and will get worse . . . the cost of living is escalating . . . The purchasing power of the nation's wage earners has declined and those who must live on a fixed income are having more and more trouble making ends meet . . . eight years of deficits and irresponsibile spending have brought the nation to the brink of financial crisis."

What can be done about it? Many people will say the Republican statement is partisan.

The New York Times, however, which has been supporting President Johnson on domestic policies for some time, says:

"Unfortunately, the Treasury, along with everybody else in the administration, has not given sufficient attention to the problem of the dollar. . . .

"From late in 1965, when it resisted the Federal Reserve's early attempt to counter inflation, the Treasury has consistently fumbled away its opportunity to gain control over both the federal budget and the balance of payments. . . .

"This unhealthy situation does not represent a fundamental weakness in the dollar, which might be extraordinarily painful and difficult to cure. It stems from a mismanagement of the dollar. . . . it is the Treasury, not the dollar, that is at bay, and the antidote is a forceful and constructive policy that demonstrates a real determination to bring the budget and the payments deficit under control."

THE ADMINISTRATION, however, has gone on spending at record-breaking levels.

Though a costly war is in progress, expenditures for "welfare" have not been materially reduced.

Wage and price controls have not been imposed.

In 1930, 1931 and 1932, the valiant efforts of the incumbent administration to apply policies of governmental intervention proved too late, and the dilly-dallying of 1967 may turn out to be a painful analogy.

The lesson of history shows that a course of "guns and butter, too," may seem to get votes at the beginning, but it also points up that in the end the national economy cannot be inflated without running the risk of the deflation that ensues.

The year 1968 will be one of decision. The critical question is whether a big depression will get under way or whether the national economy will this time be saved from disaster.

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO — Richard Evans, a student at Ohio University, Athens, arrived to spend the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Evans of Vine St.

Miss Effie Enochs, a student at Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., arrived to spend the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Enochs of Newell.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Councilman - at-large John G. Hill of Globe St. went deer hunting for the first time and came back with his first buck.

TEN YEARS AGO — The two-week campaign for a building fund at the Calcutta United Presbyterian Church netted $36,000.

"The Beauty of Christmas" was the program topic presented by Mrs. Harold Kaufman when the Travelers Club met at the home of Mrs. G. R. Donaldson of Thompson Ave.

Master Sgt. Gordon D. Welch, husband of Mrs. Pauline Welch of 405 6th St., Wellsville, has received his second Army commendation medal for meritorious service.

He is currently serving in Korea, but received the citation for his duties as operations sergeant with the 68th Maintenance Battalion at Ft. Campbell, Ky.

A career soldier, he has been in the Army 18 years and has been in Korea since August. He received his first commendation medal in 1966.

He is the son of Howard Welch of Toronto.

Marine Sgt. R. Scott Musuraca, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Musuraca of 2601 St. Clair Ave., arrived home Thursday morning from Vietnam. He had been stationed in Dong Ha, near the Demilitarized Zone.

Musuraca, on 30 - day leave, will return to Vietnam, where he was wounded in action earlier.

Pvt. Michael J. Coleman, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Coleman of Irish Ridge Rd., is visiting his parents on leave for 15 days, en route from Ft. Lee, Va., to Ft. Benning, Ga.

He attended accounting and stock school and a repair school at Ft. Lee and will be training in the paratroopers at Ft. Benning. A 1965 graduate of East Liverpool High School, he enlisted in June.

Board Of Health Acts On Food Regulations

Regulations covering food establishments and setting up standards to be maintained were given a first reading when the Board of Health met Thursday night.

Board members said the regulations, if passed, will conform with those already enacted by the county health board.

The regulations, in addition to setting up standards covering operation, maintenance and sanitation, outline definitions of "food establishment, board of health, health commission, fixtures, utensils, food, mobile food establishments, operator and unwholesomeness" and provide for the approval of plans and equipment implemented by the business places.

It also will provide for the issuance of permits. The standards and definitions, according to the legislation, are for the protection of the public health.

Mrs. Luella Bevan, registrar of vital statistics, reported 101 births (52 males—49 females) and 56 deaths (36 males and 20 females) in the city during the period from Nov. 16 to Nov. 21.

Nurse Selma Ladzinske reported 178 visitations and cases attended. Sanitarian Ben Weber made 124 inspections and Health Commissioner Jack Bonner reported 116 calls.

Bills amounting to about $2,180 were paid including $2,014 for salaries.

Also attending were Dr. C. M. Mayberry, Donald Mackey, and Howard Claypool, clerk.

The next meeting will be Jan. 18.

Varied Program Given At Grange

A Christmas program was presented by the youth of the Hookstown Grange Thursday night at the grange hall. They were assisted by the junior members.

The program included: Poem, Kay Floyd; reading, Marilyn Soisson; pantomime, Barbara Steele and Mrs. William Thompson; Scripture, with responses group singing of carols.

The junior matron, Mrs. Chester Elliott, and her assistant, Mrs. Richard Floyd, presented gifts to junior members. The subordinate members, instead of a gift exchange, will present a gift to a needy family.

Permission was granted for the senior class of South Side High School to hold a party at the hall Tuesday. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Carl Soisson. A card was signed for Jessie Martin, a member who is in the hospital.

The next meeting will be Jan. 4 at 8 p. m. in the grange hall.

observer at Millport, reported an official high of 66, 1 degree below the record 67 which he has recorded for the month on Dec. 6, 1956. He said there have been many Christmas days when the mercury has gone as high as 60.

He pointed out the weather 10 years ago was similar to the present pattern — with a high of 60 at one point and a sharp drop to 23 following. The entire month of December in 1958 was the coldest on record, he said.

Thursday's weather in Buckeye country was spotted with tornado watches in the northern and western sections of Ohio and in the extreme southeastern area of the state. None developed, however.

Several severe thunderstorms struck Northwest Ohio during evening. More than three inches of rain fell in Toledo. Some homes were flooded and overflowing storm sewers sent water into the streets.

Some wind damage was reported in the Van Wert area where windows were broken at the county courthouse. The wind storm apparently was spawned by a tornado which touched down near Bluffton, Ind. about 30 miles west of the Ohio border.

Record high temperatures were recorded in Cincinnati, Akron-Canton, Columbus and Cleveland. Cincinnati shot up to 68 degrees, Cleveland and Akron-Canton reported 65 and Columbus, 64.

The highest mark in the state was reported at Chesapeake—a summerlike 70 degrees.

ly report on aircraft losses announced that 767 American warplanes have been lost in combat over North Vietnam, one more than previously announced As usual the additional loss was not explained.

Around Saigon, Viet Cong guerrillas stepped up their terrorist and sabotage activities in an apparent show of strength prior to the annual Christmas truce.

A U.S. spokesman said there were 14 terrorist incidents reported in the Saigon area in the last week, "a fairly large number for Saigon in one week."

Five American servicemen were wounded this morning by a grenade thrown from a motorbike into a group waiting at a bus stop. The terrorist escaped.

Seven other American servicemen have been wounded in the past week in terror attacks in Saigon, while five Vietnamese have been killed and 25 wounded.

River Traffic Is Opened At Fallen Bridge

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (AP)—The Ohio River at the site of the Silver Bridge collapse has been opened for traffic but with several restrictions.

Col. William E. Falck of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, which has been coordinating recovery operations, said Thursday navigation will be allowed in a 225-foot mid-channel area over the fallen bridge.

Falck said boats also will be restricted to those with a draw of 13.5 feet or less.

He pointed out traffic might be halted several times because of recovery work at the bridge. Falck estimated it could take until next Wednesday for the backlog of 40 tows with their barges to pass the restricted area.

The death count from the bridge disaster stood at 32 today. State Police said no additional bodies have been found in the river since about noon Thursday.

Wayne Young, Ohio University basketballer from Hamden, O., had perfect grades from the second grade to the final grading period of his junior year in college, until a "B" in German reduced his straight 4.0 to a 3.95.

Firm Begins School Work

The one-story, steel and masonry building will be constructed on a 15-acre tract along the south side of Route 172 three miles west of Lisbon.

Riley Construction Co. of Salem has the general contract at $218,844. Robert F. Beatty of East Liverpool, the architect, met yesterday with Riley and the subcontractors — Smith Drilling Co. of Lisbon, well, $2,361; Firestone Electric Co. of Salem, electric, $55,756, and heating and ventilating, $54,827, and C. J. Little & Son Co. of Youngstown, plumbing, $39,465.

The bids and other expenses total $391,528. The county has $348,365 for the project, including a federal grant of $107,000 and $241,365 from a one - mill levy which voters approved two years ago.

The school is named in memory of the former county welfare director who died Sept. 30, 1966, a few hours after he was stricken in his office here.

Classes for the retarded now are held in the old school building at Elkton and in a store building in Lisbon.

4-H'ers Receive Congress Report

LISBON — Columbiana County Junior leaders, made up of older 4-H'ers, met Thursday night at St. George Parish Hall here and heard three members report on the national 4-H Club Congress last month in Chicago.

Dave Holmes of Winona led the Ohio delegation to Chicago, and was master of ceremonies for one of the banquets. Reports were also given by John Heinbuch of Winona and Alan Gibson of Salem Rd.

Dave Wilhelm of Salem RD 3, president, presided. Fr. Stewart Platt of St. George Church talked on the Christmas message. The leaders packed a box of food for the county welfare department, and went caroling in Lisbon.

Ohio University's best all-time basketball record was hung up by the 1963-64 team which finished 21-6 and was one of the final eight teams left in NCAA post-season play as it advanced to the Mid-East Regional finals.

Mystery Santa

Newell Girl Gets Early Greetings

Santa came early again this year to the delight of a Newell youngster.

It's the second year the jolly old gent has left Christmas cards for Kristen Nalley, 4, daughter of Squire Lloyd Nalley and his wife. Just as it happened a year ago, Kristen began receiving the cards about a week ago.

The Nalleys, who reside at 514 Grant St., left for a time Wednesday night and when they returned still another card was found, this time in the back door.

Mrs. Nalley said her husband found another card this morning in the mailbox when he left for work.

Last year the cards came every day for a week and a half before Christmas and all contained notes from "Santa." The notes arrived at different times and so attempts to locate the benefactor were futile.

As far as the family can determine, Kristen is the only girl in the area to receive the early visits from "Santa".

GOP Shows High Interest In Elections For House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are showing more than usual interest in next November's election for the House of Representatives for two reasons.

First, control of the House may be within their grasp for the first time since the 1952 election. Second, the 1968 presidential election might wind up being settled by the House.

Republicans now hold 187 of 435 House seats and need 31 more for control. They have set their sights mainly on 34 marginal Democratic seats won by less than 55 per cent in 1966.

Even if they fail to win House control, however, Republicans could pick up enough seats to elect a Republican president if splinter party candidates siphon off enough votes to prevent either of the major nominees from winning a majority of electoral votes.

If no candidate gets a majority of electoral votes—in this case 270 of a total 538—the election would be thrown into the House. This last happened in 1824 but appears a long-shot possibility again in 1968.

Former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, already preparing his presidential campaign, is considered likely to win some Southern states, possibly including Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Georgia.

Although President Johnson carried all but five states in 1964, Republicans have forged a comeback and now hold governorships in 26 of the 50 states with a total of 302 electoral votes. The 24 Democratic-held states include the four with considerable Wallace strength.

If the presidential election goes into the House, each state has one vote so that whichever party controls the state's delegation gets its votes. Evenly divided states, plus the District of Columbia which has no congressional delegation, would presumably be unable to vote.

Democrats now control 29 delegations, Republicans 18 and three—Illinois, Montana and Oregon—are evenly split.

Republicans would only need to pick up one seat in the three evenly split states and in four others—Kentucky, Nevada, Pennsylvania and Tennessee—to take control of seven more delegations and deadlock the two parties at 25-25 in the House.

In 11 other states, Republicans need one seat to deadlock the delegation and two to capture it—Alabama, Arkansas, Colorado, Maine, Maryland, Hawaii, Massachusetts, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Rhode Island and Virginia.

A gain of two seats in just one of these states, when added to he one-seat gains in the other seven, would give the GOP control of 26 state delegations—enough to elect a president—with only nine more seats than they now hold.

Of these 18 states, Republicans have the added advantage of holding 12 governorships.

This is why House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford told last week's Republican Governors Association meeting in Palm Beach, Fla., that "the odds on our picking up eight more state delegations are not as bad as they look."

24 Youngsters Are Entertained By Midland Lions

Gifts and prizes were presented the children.

Larry Bruno, teacher and coach at Beaver Falls High School, presented a magic act. Group singing was led by Maureen McGeehan. The club extended sympathy to Victor Dray of East Liverpool on the death of his mother, Mrs. Sadie Dray.

A board of directors meeting will be held at President Henry Cannon's home on 11th St. Dec. 28.

The next regular meeting will be Jan. 4 at the Willows.

Innocent Plea Filed In Marijuana Arrest

He is John Falone of the Cannons Mills Rd.

A preliminary hearing was set for Jan. 2 and he was released without bond.

Burglar Grabs $24 At Wellsville Station

Once inside, the burglar forced open a cabinet with a screwdriver and removed $24 in receipts picked up from the meter collection boxes.

Youth Waits Jury After Guilty Plea

Albert White, 18, of Midland Heights pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary at a preliminary hearing Thursday afternoon before Squire Paul McGeehan at the Midland Borough building.

White will be held for the March term of the Beaver County grand jury.

White and two juveniles were apprehended early Sunday morning in the burglary of the Charles Tepsic Grocery Store on Tuscarawas Rd., Ohioville Borough.

The two juveniles, 16 and 17, were turned over to Beaver County authorities at Allencrest.

River Traffic Is Opened At Fallen Bridge

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (AP)—The Ohio River at the site of the Silver Bridge collapse has been opened for traffic but with several restrictions.

Col. William E. Falck of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, which has been coordinating recovery operations, said Thursday navigation will be allowed in a 225-foot mid-channel area over the fallen bridge.

Falck said boats also will be restricted to those with a draw of 13.5 feet or less.

He pointed out traffic might be halted several times because of recovery work at the bridge. Falck estimated it could take until next Wednesday for the backlog of 40 tows with their barges to pass the restricted area.

The death count from the bridge disaster stood at 32 today. State Police said no additional bodies have been found in the river since about noon Thursday.

Wayne Young, Ohio University basketballer from Hamden, O., had perfect grades from the second grade to the final grading period of his junior year in college, until a "B" in German reduced his straight 4.0 to a 3.95.

Firm Begins School Work

The one-story, steel and masonry building will be constructed on a 15-acre tract along the south side of Route 172 three miles west of Lisbon.

Riley Construction Co. of Salem has the general contract at $218,844. Robert F. Beatty of East Liverpool, the architect, met yesterday with Riley and the subcontractors — Smith Drilling Co. of Lisbon, well, $2,361; Firestone Electric Co. of Salem, electric, $55,756, and heating and ventilating, $54,827, and C. J. Little & Son Co. of Youngstown, plumbing, $39,465.

The bids and other expenses total $391,528. The county has $348,365 for the project, including a federal grant of $107,000 and $241,365 from a one - mill levy which voters approved two years ago.

The school is named in memory of the former county welfare director who died Sept. 30, 1966, a few hours after he was stricken in his office here.

Classes for the retarded now are held in the old school building at Elkton and in a store building in Lisbon.

4-H'ers Receive Congress Report

LISBON — Columbiana County Junior leaders, made up of older 4-H'ers, met Thursday night at St. George Parish Hall here and heard three members report on the national 4-H Club Congress last month in Chicago.

Dave Holmes of Winona led the Ohio delegation to Chicago, and was master of ceremonies for one of the banquets. Reports were also given by John Heinbuch of Winona and Alan Gibson of Salem Rd.

Dave Wilhelm of Salem RD 3, president, presided. Fr. Stewart Platt of St. George Church talked on the Christmas message. The leaders packed a box of food for the county welfare department, and went caroling in Lisbon.

Ohio University's best all-time basketball record was hung up by the 1963-64 team which finished 21-6 and was one of the final eight teams left in NCAA post-season play as it advanced to the Mid-East Regional finals.

Mystery Santa

Newell Girl Gets Early Greetings

Santa came early again this year to the delight of a Newell youngster.

It's the second year the jolly old gent has left Christmas cards for Kristen Nalley, 4, daughter of Squire Lloyd Nalley and his wife. Just as it happened a year ago, Kristen began receiving the cards about a week ago.

Mrs. Nalley told The Review today the cards began coming Tuesday, when one was placed in the front door. It contained a picture of "Santa" on the cover and inside the quote, "Another picture of me, and time is getting scarce."

The Nalleys, who reside at 514 Grant St., left for a time Wednesday night and when they returned still another card was found, this time in the back door.

Mrs. Nalley said her husband found another card this morning in the mailbox when he left for work.

Last year the cards came every day for a week and a half before Christmas and all contained notes from "Santa." The notes arrived at different times and so attempts to locate the benefactor were futile.

As far as the family can determine, Kristen is the only girl in the area to receive the early visits from "Santa".

GOP Shows High Interest In Elections For House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are showing more than usual interest in next November's election for the House of Representatives for two reasons.

First, control of the House may be within their grasp for the first time since the 1952 election. Second, the 1968 presidential election might wind up being settled by the House.

Republicans now hold 187 of 435 House seats and need 31 more for control. They have set their sights mainly on 34 marginal Democratic seats won by less than 55 per cent in 1966.

Even if they fail to win House control, however, Republicans could pick up enough seats to elect a Republican president if splinter party candidates siphon off enough votes to prevent either of the major nominees from winning a majority of electoral votes.

If no candidate gets a majority of electoral votes—in this case 270 of a total 538—the election would be thrown into the House. This last happened in 1824 but appears a long-shot possibility again in 1968.

Former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, already preparing his presidential campaign, is considered likely to win some Southern states, possibly including Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Georgia.

Fulbright Tells Constituents U.S. In Vietnam 'A Mistake'

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. J. William Fulbright is telling his Arkansas constituents U.S. involvements in Vietnam is a mistake and "the best support we can give our troops is to seek an end to the fighting by a negotiated settlement."

"I am convinced from all the evidence presented thus far this war is not worth the price we are paying," said Fulbright, who will be running for re-election next year.

He added, in a Thursday report to his constituents:

"This was not a case of aggression, as we have been led to believe, but rather a civil war between two factions of Vietnamese.

'Our involvement has been a mistake and we seem unwilling to acknowledge that mistake and proceed to a settlement of some sort."

Fulbright's letter on Vietnam came a day after the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which he heads, made public the statement of a top administration official that resolutions seeking congressional support on the war were drafted in advance of a Communist naval engagement which led to House and Senate action.

The Sept. 20, 1966 testimony of William P. Bundy, assistant secretary of state, dealt with preliminary drafts of the so-called Gulf of Tonkin resolution, That measure, adopted by Congress on Aug. 7, 1964, declared support of "all necessary measures" to repel aggression in Vietnam.

Johnson proposed the measure and Congress approved it after the administration reported Communist torpedo boats had attacked U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin on Aug. 2 and 4, 1964.

"We had contingent drafts, which however did not very closely resemble the draft, for some time prior to that," Bundy told the Foreign Relations Committee.

"What do you mean," Fulbright asked him, "prior to when?"

"Prior to August 1964," Bundy said. "But this is a matter of normal contingency planning. No serious thought had been given to it, to the best of my knowledge, prior to the Gulf of Tonkin."

Bundy said he personally prepared one advance draft. He said it was normal planning and common prudence that led the administration to make ready drafts of a proposed resolution of congressional support—in case "things might take a more drastic turn."

Fulbright has argued that expansion of the U.S. role in the Vietnam war to its current dimensions never was contemplated by Congress when it approved the resolution.

Johnson

tion's interim prime minister, John McEwen, and leaders of South Vietnam, South Korea, New Zealand, Thailand and the Philippines—America's allies in the Vietnam war—as well as with Indonesia's foreign minister, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore.

His meeting with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu ended with a declaration that the two men agreed on ways to promote peace in Vietnaam. The statement seemed to make clear that Johnson and Thieu agreed on the advisability of informal talks between Thieu's officials and representatives of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, without being committed to formal talks with the Front as an organization.

The statement also said the two leaders saw no sign North Vietnam was ready to talk peace and agreed "in these circumstances there was no alternative to continuing appropriate military actions."

The President received Australia's assurances that its pro-American Vietnam policy won't change and heard from Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik on Indonesia's economic needs. A White House spokesman said there was a brief reference to the fact that the United States was contributing about one third of that need, about $100 million, but it was not a new commitment.

Before the service in Melbourne Thursday for Holt, who disappeared last Sunday while swimming in heavy surf off the southeast coast, Johnson called on the prime minister's widow to express his condolences. He was met by Holt's three stepsons, Nicholas, Andrew and Samuel, and was applauded by a crowd of 200.

At the service, the Anglican primate of Australia, Archbishop Philip N.W. Strong, compared the loss of Holt to that of President Kennedy.

"In both cases an outstanding life and career was cut short when each seemed to be making a unique contribution both to the life of his nation and the world," he said.

Holt, 59, had been in the Australian government since 1940 and had been prime minister since January 1966. Archbishop Strong praised his measures to bring Australia closer to other countries.

Fulbright Tells Constituents U.S. In Vietnam 'A Mistake'

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. J. William Fulbright is telling his Arkansas constituents U.S. involvements in Vietnam is a mistake and "the best support we can give our troops is to seek an end to the fighting by a negotiated settlement."

"I am convinced from all the evidence presented thus far this war is not worth the price we are paying," said Fulbright, who will be running for re-election next year.

He added, in a Thursday report to his constituents:

"This was not a case of aggression, as we have been led to believe, but rather a civil war between two factions of Vietnamese.

'Our involvement has been a mistake and we seem unwilling to acknowledge that mistake and proceed to a settlement of some sort."

Fulbright's letter on Vietnam came a day after the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which he heads, made public the statement of a top administration official that resolutions seeking congressional support on the war were drafted in advance of a Communist naval engagement which led to House and Senate action.

The Sept. 20, 1966 testimony of William P. Bundy, assistant secretary of state, dealt with preliminary drafts of the so-called Gulf of Tonkin resolution, That measure, adopted by Congress on Aug. 7, 1964, declared support of "all necessary measures" to repel aggression in Vietnam.

Johnson proposed the measure and Congress approved it after the administration reported Communist torpedo boats had attacked U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin on Aug. 2 and 4, 1964.

"We had contingent drafts, which however did not very closely resemble the draft, for some time prior to that," Bundy told the Foreign Relations Committee.

"What do you mean," Fulbright asked him, "prior to when?"

"Prior to August 1964," Bundy said. "But this is a matter of normal contingency planning. No serious thought had been given to it, to the best of my knowledge, prior to the Gulf of Tonkin."

Bundy said he personally prepared one advance draft. He said it was normal planning and common prudence that led the administration to make ready drafts of a proposed resolution of congressional support—in case "things might take a more drastic turn."

Fulbright has argued that expansion of the U.S. role in the Vietnam war to its current dimensions never was contemplated by Congress when it approved the resolution.

Johnson

tion's interim prime minister, John McEwen, and leaders of South Vietnam, South Korea, New Zealand, Thailand and the Philippines—America's allies in the Vietnam war—as well as with Indonesia's foreign minister, British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore.

His meeting with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu ended with a declaration that the two men agreed on ways to promote peace in Vietnaam. The statement seemed to make clear that Johnson and Thieu agreed on the advisability of informal talks between Thieu's officials and representatives of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, without being committed to formal talks with the Front as an organization.

The statement also said the two leaders saw no sign North Vietnam was ready to talk peace and agreed "in these circumstances there was no alternative to continuing appropriate military actions."

The President received Australia's assurances that its pro-American Vietnam policy won't change and heard from Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik on Indonesia's economic needs. A White House spokesman said there was a brief reference to the fact that the United States was contributing about one third of that need, about $100 million, but it was not a new commitment.

Before the service in Melbourne Thursday for Holt, who disappeared last Sunday while swimming in heavy surf off the southeast coast, Johnson called on the prime minister's widow to express his condolences. He was met by Holt's three stepsons, Nicholas, Andrew and Samuel, and was applauded by a crowd of 200.

At the service, the Anglican primate of Australia, Archbishop Philip N.W. Strong, compared the loss of Holt to that of President Kennedy.

"In both cases an outstanding life and career was cut short when each seemed to be making a unique contribution both to the life of his nation and the world," he said.

Holt, 59, had been in the Australian government since 1940 and had been prime minister since January 1966. Archbishop Strong praised his measures to bring Australia closer to other countries.

Rita Faye Richards Wed To William L. Christen

A double-ring ceremony united in marriage Miss Rita Faye Richards, daughter of Mrs. Betty Richards of Cannons Mills, and William Laird Christen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Christen of Glenmoor, Dec. 9 at 7 p.m. in the Glenmoor United Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. James A. McCollum officiated for the ceremony before an altar background of palms, ferns and candelabra. Satin bows marked the family pews.

Miss Mary Compa sang "I Believe" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Helen Densmore presented a half-hour recital of organ music.

GIVEN IN marriage by her uncle, Charles Wayne Richards, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of peau de soie and lace. The neckline and long, bell-shaped sleeves of the Empire-style bodice were scalloped. The skirt featured a chapel-length train.

Her elbow-length veil of illusion was attached to the headpiece her mother wore when she was married. She carried a cascade arrangement of white roses centered with a white orchid. In observing the traditions, she borrowed the pearl drop necklace from the bridegroom's mother.

Miss Charlotte Stutler, maid of honor, was attired in an Empire-style gown designed with a forest green velvet bodice and mint-green crepe sheath skirt.

Bridesmaids were Miss Marlene Dillon and Miss Linda McCoy. Their gowns were fashioned identically to that of the maid of honor, but with maroon color bodices and pale pink skirts. All the attendants had matching headpieces and carried Colonial bouquets.

Patty Richards, sister of the bride, was flower girl. She was dressed identically as the bride. Ronald Christen, the bridegroom's brother, was ringbearer.

Aides were Mrs. Freda Tomlison, Mrs. Bertha Alice Kidder, Mrs. Shirley Shaw, Mrs. Sarah Eckles, Mrs. Mary Bowyer and Mrs. Ruth Ann Yehl.

MRS. WILLIAM CHRISTEN

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—What is a good way to make use of several bottles containing just a drop or two of perfume?

A.—Try adding a few drops of inexpensive baby oil to this leftover perfume. This will not only make a nice bath oil, but one capful in your tub will add a fine softness and fragrance to your skin.

Q.—What is a quick and easy way to clean indoor shutters?

A.—Spray some liquid wax on a paintbrush — or your vacuum cleaner brush attachment—and go over the shutters as though you were painting them. Does a real fine job.

GIVEN IN marriage by her uncle, Charles Wayne Richards, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of peau de soie and lace. The neckline and long, bell-shaped sleeves of the Empire-style bodice were scalloped. The skirt featured a chapel-length train.

Her elbow-length veil of illusion was attached to the headpiece her mother wore when she was married. She carried a cascade arrangement of white roses centered with a white orchid. In observing the traditions, she borrowed the pearl drop necklace from the bridegroom's mother.

Miss Charlotte Stutler, maid of honor, was attired in an Empire-style gown designed with a forest green velvet bodice and mint-green crepe sheath skirt.

Bridesmaids were Miss Marlene Dillon and Miss Linda McCoy. Their gowns were fashioned identically to that of the maid of honor, but with maroon color bodices and pale pink skirts. All the attendants had matching headpieces and carried Colonial bouquets.

Patty Richards, sister of the bride, was flower girl. She was dressed identically as the bride. Ronald Christen, the bridegroom's brother, was ringbearer.

Aides were Mrs. Freda Tomlison, Mrs. Bertha Alice Kidder, Mrs. Shirley Shaw, Mrs. Sarah Eckles, Mrs. Mary Bowyer and Mrs. Ruth Ann Yehl.

MRS. WILLIAM CHRISTEN

Q.—What is a good way to make use of several bottles containing just a drop or two of perfume?

A.—Try adding a few drops of inexpensive baby oil to this leftover perfume. This will not only make a nice bath oil, but one capful in your tub will add a fine softness and fragrance to your skin.

Q.—What is a quick and easy way to clean indoor shutters?

A.—Spray some liquid wax on a paintbrush — or your vacuum cleaner brush attachment—and go over the shutters as though you were painting them. Does a real fine job.

Adopted Boy To Be With Them

Merriest Christmas Yet Awaited By Deaf Couple

TORRANCE, Calif. (AP) — Wayne and Madeline Christensen smiled and nodded. Their fingers flew rapidly in sign language. Yes, the deaf couple agreed, this will be their merriest Christmas.

For with them to stay is Scott, a blue-eyed, red-haired 2-year-old with normal hearing, whom a judge finally let the deaf-mute couple adopt last September after a year-long court fight.

"We hope," Mrs. Christensen signaled through an interpreter, "that it will be a lot easier now for other deaf parents to adopt children."

The Christensens had become Scott's foster parents through the county Department of Adoptions when he was one month old. But eight months later a judge turned down their petition for adoption on grounds the couple could not provide a normal home and the child was taken from them.

The case brought the Christensens wide support.

"Leading deaf educators, 90 per cent of them children of deaf parents, turned on fire hoses of help," says the couple's attorney, Ivan E. Lawrecce. "There were letters and telegrams from every state."

State courts overturned the first ruling on grounds of bias and another judge granted the adoption after the couple's 6-year-old foster daughter Janett testified: "We have a home with love in it."

At the couple's modern house in this industrial Los Angeles suburb, a decorated tree sparkles in the living room and Christmas lights gleam from the eaves.

Mrs. Christensen, 43, can speak indistinctly. When Scott reached for a glowing Christmas tree ornament, she pulled his hand away and cautioned loudly: "Hot'."

Scott already has learned the sign language signals for dog, cat, airplane, water, eat, bed, milk, shoes and toilet. A bright light, turned on by an electronic gadget, in the Christensen's bedroom awakens them when he cries.

Christensen, 48, is a $146-a-week drill-press operator at the Garrett Corp.'s nearby Air Research plant. The couple may adopt Janett who was placed with them when she was 2 by her deaf mother.

The future? Mrs. Christensen signaled that the parents will encourage the children to go to college. Janett said, "I want to go to college. I want to be a nurse."

Police Holding Youth In Fatal Shooting

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police are holding Carl Livingston of Cincinnati in connection with the fatal shooting of Nolan Moore following a gang fight Thursday.

Livingston, 18, is charged with first - degree manslaughter in the incident that occurred in a vacant lot in the northeastern section of Cincinnati.

Police said Moore, 17, was shot in the head with a .22 caliber rifle after Livingston and Moore engaged in a fist-fight.

Livingston surrendered to police about four hours after the shooting.

Annual Yule Fete Held By Citizens Here

The annual Christmas party of the East Liverpool Senior Citizens Group was attended by 173 Thursday afternoon at the parish hall of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Martha Cunningham and her committee, assisted by the men members. The invocation was given by the Rev. D. Ross Salisbury.

Santa distributed the exchange gifts. An appropriate Christmas program followed, with Rev. Salisbury discussing a "Blessed and Joyful Christmas." The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Anna Osborn, sang four carols, with Mrs. Nell Pelley at the piano. Group singing and games were also featured.

The corsage was received by Mrs. Alice Howell.

Elected Officials In Beaver Will Receive Oath Of Office

The oath of office and loyalty oath to elected officials of Beaver County will be administered Dec. 29 at 10:30 a. m. by President Judge Ralph F. Scalera.

He also will give the oath to Judge James E. Rowley for a full term on the bench Dec. 30 at 10:30 a. m. Both ceremonies will be in Courtroom No. 1 at the Courthouse in Beaver.

The oath will be administered to commissioners, the controller, treasurer, district attorney, corner, sheriff, recorder of deeds, prothonotary, clerk of courts and register of wills.

A reception will follow. The public is invited to both the ceremony and reception. Special exercises will be held for Judge Rowley.

Court will be opened by the chief tipstaff and court crier, J. Gus Karakitsos. The invocation will be given by the Rev. Karl W. Bowman Jr. of the Mt. Carmel United Presbyterian Church, of which Judge Rowley is a member.

James S. Ruffner, president of the Beaver County Bar Association, President Judge Frank E. Reed, Judge John N. Sawyer and former President Judge Morgan H. Sohn will speak briefly.

Judge Rowley's father, Myron E. Rowley, will present his son's commission and Judge Rowley's son, Daniel Agnew Rowley, will invest his father will the judicial robe.

Tractor Mishap Fatal

Armco Blames Human Error In Plant Accident

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Executives of Armco Steel Corp. reported Thursday that human, not mechanical error was behind Monday's accident in which six persons were killed and 24 injured when a ladle fell and splashed a work area with molten metal.

"The ladle of molten metal fell because the crane hooks were not hooked onto the ladle in accordance with standard written safety practices," the company said Thursday.

The ladle containing 30 tons of molten pig iron plunged 40 feet as a crane moved it to an open hearth furnace.

Eleven men remained hospitalized today, none now in critical condition.

A task force of executives from Armco's Middletown, Ohio, head office concluded that a part was not seated properly in the bottom of one hook of the crane, which had been renovated this fall and restored to service three weeks ago.

Q.—How can I avoid damaging a nylon zipper with my hot iron?

A.—By placing a double thickness of medium - weight woolen material over the closed zipper placket. The heat of the iron will not affect the zipper, and the area will still be pressed very nicely.

Q.—How can I remove troublesome salt rings from my snow boots and galoshes?

Q.—How can I deal with scratches on dark wood furniture?

Some jolly new advice:

You better watch out. Because on Christmas Eve, Christmas morning and night, long distance lines are jammed with holiday calls. Avoid the rush. Get your calls through quick as a wink by having the numbers handy and dialing the calls yourself. Hint: Take advantage of the usual afternoon lulls—dial early. There's no need to wait for evening. With Christmas on Monday, low weekend rates are in effect all three days long! Check the front pages of your phone book for direct distance dialing information. And, if you do run into a busy signal when dialing your calls, please be patient and try again. And have a very Merry Christmas.

*Anywhere in the U. S. (except Alaska and Hawaii) for a 3-minute station-to-station call, any night after 7 and all day Saturday, Sunday and Christmas!

The oath of office and loyalty oath to elected officials of Beaver County will be administered Dec. 29 at 10:30 a. m. by President Judge Ralph F. Scalera.

He also will give the oath to Judge James E. Rowley for a full term on the bench Dec. 30 at 10:30 a. m. Both ceremonies will be in Courtroom No. 1 at the Courthouse in Beaver.

The oath will be administered to commissioners, the controller, treasurer, district attorney, corner, sheriff, recorder of deeds, prothonotary, clerk of courts and register of wills.

A reception will follow. The public is invited to both the ceremony and reception. Special exercises will be held for Judge Rowley.

Court will be opened by the chief tipstaff and court crier, J. Gus Karakitsos. The invocation will be given by the Rev. Karl W. Bowman Jr. of the Mt. Carmel United Presbyterian Church, of which Judge Rowley is a member.

James S. Ruffner, president of the Beaver County Bar Association, President Judge Frank E. Reed, Judge John N. Sawyer and former President Judge Morgan H. Sohn will speak briefly.

Judge Rowley's father, Myron E. Rowley, will present his son's commission and Judge Rowley's son, Daniel Agnew Rowley, will invest his father will the judicial robe.

Tractor Mishap Fatal

Armco Blames Human Error In Plant Accident

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Executives of Armco Steel Corp. reported Thursday that human, not mechanical error was behind Monday's accident in which six persons were killed and 24 injured when a ladle fell and splashed a work area with molten metal.

"The ladle of molten metal fell because the crane hooks were not hooked onto the ladle in accordance with standard written safety practices," the company said Thursday.

The ladle containing 30 tons of molten pig iron plunged 40 feet as a crane moved it to an open hearth furnace.

Eleven men remained hospitalized today, none now in critical condition.

A task force of executives from Armco's Middletown, Ohio, head office concluded that a part was not seated properly in the bottom of one hook of the crane, which had been renovated this fall and restored to service three weeks ago.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I avoid damaging a nylon zipper with my hot iron?

A.—By placing a double thickness of medium - weight woolen material over the closed zipper placket. The heat of the iron will not affect the zipper, and the area will still be pressed very nicely.

Q.—How can I remove troublesome salt rings from my snow boots and galoshes?

Q.—How can I deal with scratches on dark wood furniture?

Some jolly new advice:

You better watch out. Because on Christmas Eve, Christmas morning and night, long distance lines are jammed with holiday calls. Avoid the rush. Get your calls through quick as a wink by having the numbers handy and dialing the calls yourself. Hint: Take advantage of the usual afternoon lulls—dial early. There's no need to wait for evening. With Christmas on Monday, low weekend rates are in effect all three days long! Check the front pages of your phone book for direct distance dialing information. And, if you do run into a busy signal when dialing your calls, please be patient and try again. And have a very Merry Christmas.

*Anywhere in the U. S. (except Alaska and Hawaii) for a 3-minute station-to-station call, any night after 7 and all day Saturday, Sunday and Christmas!

Burns Gives Dean The Title

When it comes to making show business look easy, nobody tops George Burns, the nonchalant flicker of cigar ashes. Yet George says he's a piker at the game compared to Dean Martin.

Hal Humphrey

"I've never seen anyone like Dean," reports George. "You're lucky if he turns up the day his show is to be taped, and even then he spends most of the time sitting in his dressing room watching the rehearsal on a TV monitor while Greg Garrison, the producer, goes through Dean's paces.

-:-

"I JUST TAPED another show with Dean for Jan. 18, and the only time I saw him was on stage during the taping," says George. "No one gets panicky on his show. He won't allow it.

"I don't want to mention them by name, but there was a sister act booked to sing on this same show I'm on, and they wanted to sing three songs and do a bit with Dean. Garrison told them there was only a spot for two songs and nothing with Dean.

"Well, they said they wouldn't go on if they couldn't do three songs and a bit with Dean. Garrison shrugged his shoulders and said, 'Okay, don't go on,' and they left.

"Now this is the day of the show, but did anyone panic? No, sir. Somebody scrambled around and found two fellows who didn't want to go on with Dean and would do just two numbers.

"ALL THIS TIME Dean is in his dressing room, not even knowing what was going on. He thought when the sisters walked off that it was a funny exit somebody had dreamed up."

This no-panic quality prevailing on the Martin show originates with Dean himself, and George is convinced it's for real.

"Oh, maybe quietly at home during the week he may sneak a look at the script, but you'd better not mention that because NBC might find out and fire him," George adds, grinning around his cigar.

But George believes this is the way Dean is. It's his way of doing things, and he just grew into it.

DEAN DIDN'T sit back one day and say to himself, "I'm going to take things easy.' It's the way he works, that's all," says George. "And how can you be a flop, if you're not trying to be a hit?"

George would have us believe that he can't work the way Dean does, although watching George deliver one of those easy dialogs, one gets the impression he's saying whatever pops into his mind.

Dean has a script, too, but according to George, Dean ad-libs around it plenty.

"Of course, after I was lucky enough to meet Gracie, I never had to say anything but 'How's your brother?' and then Gracie would be on for 17 minutes.

"After that she'd finish with an Irish jig and I'd point to her feet. I got so I could point with either hand, too," recalls George of the days when he and his late partner and wife were a team.

IN THE Dean Martin Show of Jan. 18 George does a monolog, then chats and sings with Dean and later does a number with a 19-year-old girl singer, Lisa Miller, who used to be with a group called "The Kids From Next Door."

"My big song is 'Don't Take Me Home,'" says George. "It was written as a sequel to 'I'll Be Coming Back to You, Liza, When I Finish With the Kaiser,' which I sang on Dean's show last season."

If George isn't allowed to sing (as only he can sing), he won't take the job, no matter what the money is. Besides the singing, he smokes big cigars, plays bridge a lot and swims 750 feet in his pool every morning. He did have his own TV production company, but gave it up ("Too much work").

GEORGE BURNS will be 72 in January, but looks a good 15 years younger. In February he will appear at the Palmer House in Chicago, the only in-person performance he'll be doing aside from Las Vegas.

"The last time I worked in Chicago was during the 1933 World's Fair at the Chicago Theater with Gracie, and on the bill with us was Sally Rand, who everyone thought was very risque. Hell, she had two fans big enough to cover her and the whole audience," George says.

Wheeling Man Fined After Truck Accident

A Wheeling man was fined Thursday night after an accident in New Cumberland yesterday afternoon in which his truck struck guardrails and turned over on its side.

Edward Groux, 32, of 1150 Cherry Hill Rd., paid $10 and costs when he appeared before Squire John D. Herron, charged by New Cumberland Police Chief William Webster with failure to have his vehicle under control.

Groux was charged after he lost control of his truck, owned by the Niedergall Packing Co., on Route 66. He was not injured.

The accident occurred about 3:45.

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — How about the care of cork floor tiles?

A.—This type of tile is given a steel-disc polish at the factory, a process that seals them, or a thick coating of vinyl plastic. They should be kept well waxed, and any type of wax can be used, but self-polishing waxes are best for them. Cork tile floors can be washed with soap or detergent and warm water, and spots can be scoured with steel wool. No other finish than wax is recommended.

Q.—How can I do a good job of washing nylon curtains?

A.—By dipping them up and down in good suds, then hanging them immediately on a clothesline and turning the hose on them. This removes all traces of the suds and decreases the chances of creases.

Q.—How can I cause iron-on patches to stick better to clothing?

A.—Place a piece of aluminum foil under the area to be patched and another piece over it before ironing with a hot iron. This helps to concentrate the heat on the patch and make it adhere much better.

Q.—How can I freshen suede gloves?

Inspiration For 'Giving Away'

Heart's desire is of the spirit. A homemaker found the perfect inspiration for losing, a plan by which she "gave away" her excess pounds. You will like her wonderful letter.

Ida Jean Kain

"For several years it had been gain, diet — regain, diet.

All my life I have loved food, so I felt I had to have an appetite depressant to reduce. I got a prescription from my doctor. For two or three years when I wanted to have a go at reducing again, I could do so only with the aid of pills. I never succeeded in getting down to desirable weight. I was able to lose some weight, but alas, the pounds aways came back on.

"One day as I was about to write out a check for a refill, my eyes rested upon a plea from Boy's Town. I thought how much good those few dollars would do if I sent them to be used for that worthy cause. On the spur of the moment I wrote the check to Boy's Town — instead of trying to buy a loss of appetite.

"THEN I took the special stamps and stuck one on the refrigerator door. I also placed other stamps wherever snack materials were stored. When a box of canly or other fatteners came into the house, I pasted a stamp on it to remind me.

"This has been a wonderful experience. I have lost 14 pounds and I am still losing satisfactorily. The price of every pill I no longer take is applied toward my favorite charity. Physically I look and feel much better. And best of all, I feel so much better spiritually because I am helping others as well as myself.

"I have reached the point where I do not need a reminder. I am confident that once I am back to my right weight, I will stay there. Just sign my message "A Happy Loser with Ten Pounds To Go."

What an inspiration for giving and losing! Bless her loving heart. We would appreciate hearing again from this inspired dieter.

LBJ Administration Now Has Night Club Performer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration now has a bonafide night club performer to pit against recording star Everett M. Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader.

Ambassador James W. Symington, 40, dapper chief of protocol at the State Department and son of Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., sang and joked for more than an hour Thursday night at the Blue Room, one of Washington's fancier night spots.

"You may wonder why I'm doing this," Symington told a capacity audience that included several top government officials. "Is it because Sen. Dirksen is the hippie of the Hill" Or, he joked, "Is it because Ralph Nader is doing a study of protocol?"

Nader achieved prominence by probing auto safety.

Symington told of columnist Art Buchwald, whose parents, he said, marveled at little Arthur's brilliance as he waddled around with a dictionary on his head, saying "book, book."

"And he was only 14 years old," Symington said.

Buchwald introduced Symington for his one-night stand.

"I think he's going into politics," Buchwald said before the show. "It used to be you announced it. Now you sing."

Symington, an accomplished guitarist, said his appearance was to drum up financial support for a project of the Washington Guitar Club, which hopes to buy musical instruments and provide lessons for needy Washington youngsters showing talent potential. He left blank checks at the door for anyone wishing to contribute.

He said later he hadn't worked out a specific fee with the Blue Room management.

Dirksen sells a lot of record albums and California's Gov. Ronald Reagan and U.S. Sen. George Murphy, both Republicans, had successful film careers. But one spectator at the Blue Room expressed doubt there's a solid trend toward blending government and show business careers.

Recalling another former movie favorite's recent loss in a GOP congressional primary in California, Sen. Joseph Tydings, D-Md., said: "I think Shirley Temple stopped the trend."

Jim Snyder, who has piloted Ohio University cage fortunes the past 18 years, was admitted to the university's Athletic Hall of Fame last fall. He was a star on the 1941 Ohio cage team which was runnerup in the National Invitational tourney that year.

'Safety Break' Stops Slated For Pennsy Drivers

HARRISBURG (AP) — There won't be a single excuse for drowsy drivers on the state's major arteries during the holiday weekends.

Free coffee will be served at restaurants displaying the "Safety Break" signs from 5 p.m. Friday to 6 a.m. Tuesday on both the Christmas and New Year's weekends.

State Police Commissioner Frank McKetta, meanwhile, reminded motorists Thursday that increased patrols will be manning Pennsylvania highways over the 78-hour Christmas and New Year's weekends.

McKetta said all troop commanders have been directed to place all available manpower on patrol for the two weekends. The concentrated patrols both holidays will begin at 6 p.m. Friday and end at midnight Monday.

Acquires Company

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cook Coffee Co. of Cleveland announced Thursday it has acquired Consolidated Sales Co., owner and operator of two discount stores in Louisville, Ky., through an exchange of stock. The amount of stock involved was not disclosed.

GEORGE BURNS will be 72 in January, but looks a good 15 years younger. In February he will appear at the Palmer House in Chicago, the only in-person performance he'll be doing aside from Las Vegas.

"The last time I worked in Chicago was during the 1933 World's Fair at the Chicago Theater with Gracie, and on the bill with us was Sally Rand, who everyone thought was very risque. Hell, she had two fans big enough to cover her and the whole audience," George says.

Fumes Claim Lives Of 2 Steelworkers

George Fithen, 55, and Frank Means, 63, both of nearby Mingo Junction, were working on a platform near a gas washer for a blast furnace.

Wheeling Man Fined After Truck Accident

A Wheeling man was fined Thursday night after an accident in New Cumberland yesterday afternoon in which his truck struck guardrails and turned over on its side.

Edward Groux, 32, of 1150 Cherry Hill Rd., paid $10 and costs when he appeared before Squire John D. Herron, charged by New Cumberland Police Chief William Webster with failure to have his vehicle under control.

Groux was charged after he lost control of his truck, owned by the Niedergall Packing Co., on Route 66. He was not injured.

The accident occurred about 3:45.

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. — How about the care of cork floor tiles?

A.—This type of tile is given a steel-disc polish at the factory, a process that seals them, or a thick coating of vinyl plastic. They should be kept well waxed, and any type of wax can be used, but self-polishing waxes are best for them. Cork tile floors can be washed with soap or detergent and warm water, and spots can be scoured with steel wool. No other finish than wax is recommended.

Q.—How can I do a good job of washing nylon curtains?

A.—By dipping them up and down in good suds, then hanging them immediately on a clothesline and turning the hose on them. This removes all traces of the suds and decreases the chances of creases.

Q.—How can I cause iron-on patches to stick better to clothing?

A.—Place a piece of aluminum foil under the area to be patched and another piece over it before ironing with a hot iron. This helps to concentrate the heat on the patch and make it adhere much better.

Q.—How can I freshen suede gloves?

Inspiration For 'Giving Away'

Heart's desire is of the spirit. A homemaker found the perfect inspiration for losing, a plan by which she "gave away" her excess pounds. You will like her wonderful letter.

Ida Jean Kain

"For several years it had been gain, diet — regain, diet. All my life I have loved food, so I felt I had to have an appetite depressant to reduce. I got a prescription from my doctor. For two or three years when I wanted to have a go at reducing again, I could do so only with the aid of pills. I never succeeded in getting down to desirable weight. I was able to lose some weight, but alas, the pounds aways came back on.

"One day as I was about to write out a check for a refill, my eyes rested upon a plea from Boy's Town. I thought how much good those few dollars would do if I sent them to be used for that worthy cause. On the spur of the moment I wrote the check to Boy's Town — instead of trying to buy a loss of appetite.

"THEN I took the special stamps and stuck one on the refrigerator door. I also placed other stamps wherever snack materials were stored. When a box of canly or other fatteners came into the house, I pasted a stamp on it to remind me.

"This has been a wonderful experience. I have lost 14 pounds and I am still losing satisfactorily. The price of every pill I no longer take is applied toward my favorite charity. Physically I look and feel much better. And best of all, I feel so much better spiritually because I am helping others as well as myself.

"I have reached the point where I do not need a reminder. I am confident that once I am back to my right weight, I will stay there. Just sign my message "A Happy Loser with Ten Pounds To Go."

What an inspiration for giving and losing! Bless her loving heart. We would appreciate hearing again from this inspired dieter.

LBJ Administration Now Has Night Club Performer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration now has a bonafide night club performer to pit against recording star Everett M. Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader.

Ambassador James W. Symington, 40, dapper chief of protocol at the State Department and son of Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., sang and joked for more than an hour Thursday night at the Blue Room, one of Washington's fancier night spots.

"You may wonder why I'm doing this," Symington told a capacity audience that included several top government officials. "Is it because Sen. Dirksen is the hippie of the Hill" Or, he joked, "Is it because Ralph Nader is doing a study of protocol?"

Nader achieved prominence by probing auto safety.

Symington told of columnist Art Buchwald, whose parents, he said, marveled at little Arthur's brilliance as he waddled around with a dictionary on his head, saying "book, book."

"And he was only 14 years old," Symington said.

Buchwald introduced Symington for his one-night stand.

"I think he's going into politics," Buchwald said before the show. "It used to be you announced it. Now you sing."

Symington, an accomplished guitarist, said his appearance was to drum up financial support for a project of the Washington Guitar Club, which hopes to buy musical instruments and provide lessons for needy Washington youngsters showing talent potential. He left blank checks at the door for anyone wishing to contribute.

He said later he hadn't worked out a specific fee with the Blue Room management.

Dirksen sells a lot of record albums and California's Gov. Ronald Reagan and U.S. Sen. George Murphy, both Republicans, had successful film careers. But one spectator at the Blue Room expressed doubt there's a solid trend toward blending government and show business careers.

Recalling another former movie favorite's recent loss in a GOP congressional primary in California, Sen. Joseph Tydings, D-Md., said: "I think Shirley Temple stopped the trend."

Jim Snyder, who has piloted Ohio University cage fortunes the past 18 years, was admitted to the university's Athletic Hall of Fame last fall. He was a star on the 1941 Ohio cage team which was runnerup in the National Invitational tourney that year.

'Safety Break' Stops Slated For Pennsy Drivers

HARRISBURG (AP) — There won't be a single excuse for drowsy drivers on the state's major arteries during the holiday weekends.

Free coffee will be served at restaurants displaying the "Safety Break" signs from 5 p.m. Friday to 6 a.m. Tuesday on both the Christmas and New Year's weekends.

State Police Commissioner Frank McKetta, meanwhile, reminded motorists Thursday that increased patrols will be manning Pennsylvania highways over the 78-hour Christmas and New Year's weekends.

McKetta said all troop commanders have been directed to place all available manpower on patrol for the two weekends. The concentrated patrols both holidays will begin at 6 p.m. Friday and end at midnight Monday.

Acquires Company

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cook Coffee Co. of Cleveland announced Thursday it has acquired Consolidated Sales Co., owner and operator of two discount stores in Louisville, Ky., through an exchange of stock. The amount of stock involved was not disclosed.

2 'Polar Bear' Camps Planned By Boy Scouts

LISBON — Columbiana Council, Boy Scouts of America, is planning "polar Bear" camps two weekends in January at Camp McKinley near Lisbon.

Scouts from the Cherokee District — the southern half of Columbiana County, plus Chester and Newell — will camp Jan. 12-14, with Bob Mellinger and Bill Rayburn in charge.

Shawnee (northern) district will be at McKinley Jan. 19-21 under the leadership of Wilson Baughman and Doc Kern.

Bennett D. Taylor Jr., council executive, says Camp McKinley is being used more than ever and, on some weekends, "we have had to turn campers away." Arrangements for camping can be made by calling council headquarters at Lisbon.

The executive calls leaders' attention to a new policy on liquid fuel: "No liquid fuel or appliances that require it will be used at any council- or district-sponsored events."

This action was taken by camping and activities committees of the two districts and council and will apply at the 1968 polar bear camps.

While the policy cannot be enforced at unit - sponsored camping trips to areas other than on council property, the committees urge units to observe the policy in the interest of safety.

The December issue of the council's newsletter "The Packett," calls Winona Troop 88 the camping champion for 1967. Scoutmaster Carroll Greene and Scouts posted a record of 38 days and nights in camp.

Taylor said Columbiana Council will send a delegation to the Philmont Scout ranch at Cimarron, N. M., next July. Twenty-three boys and three adult leaders made the trip this year.

At present, Columbiana Council has been allotted only 10 spaces for the Cimarron trek. Taylor said these will be issued on a first-come basis. The $175 cost includes all expenses. Scouts may register by sending a $10 deposit to the council office.

Sale Of Dog Licenses Will Begin On Jan. 2

LISBON — Columbiana County will begin the sale of 1968 dog licenses Jan 2, Auditor Kenneth Bell has announced.

Application forms for the tags will be mailed Dec. 29 to approximately 12.000 residents.

Bell said 16,993 licenses have been sold this year compared with a record 17,147 in 1966.

A LICENSE is required for any dog over three months old. Fees are the same as this year —$2 per dog and $10 for a kennel.

A $1 penalty will be charged dog owners who have not obtained licenses by Jan. 20. The penalty for kennel owners is $5.

Dog owners may handle the entire transaction by mail by filling in the application form and returning it with the fee to the dog license department in the Courthouse. The tag and certificate will be forwarded to the owner.

Owners may apply for licenses at any of 31 agencies in 16 communities. They should take with them the entire form they receive in the mail, Bell said.

PERSONS who never have ordered a dog license may get an application blank at the Courthouse or at any of the following agencies:

Lisbon Area News

Mrs. Esther DeTemple 424-5965

LISBON — Some 100 were present for the children's Christmas party Wednesday evening at St. Jacob's United Church of Christ.

Mrs. William Ring was mistress of ceremonies for the program, beginning with group singing.

The program also included: Reading, Leslie Zellers; recitations, Marlene McMillan, Neil Baker, Eddie Sitler, Bret Apple, Michelle Montgomery, and Kathy Fieldhouse; vocal selections, Steve Sitler, Lynn Ring and Susan Carnes; piano duet, Sherry Tullis and Lynn Ring; clarinet and trumpet selections, Mary Cook, Marlene and Darlene Guy.

Mrs. John Halverstadt was in charge of devotions and Mrs. Ring narrated and illustrated with chalk sketches the story of the "Littlest Angel."

Prayer was led by Mrs. Howard Wilhelm, with the children responding.

Lunch was served by the committee.

Club Holds Dinner, Social

The Amie "8" Club held its Christmas meeting Wednesday evening, with dinner at Timberlanes in Salem followed by a social at the home of Mrs. Eugene Tolson of E. Chestnut St.

Mrs. John Rodu and Mrs. Richard Kuhns received honors at cards.

Mrs. Thomas Washam of McKinley Ave. will entertain Jan. 13.

D. of A. Group Meets

For their Christmas meeting, the Past Councilors Club of the D. of A. Lodge had dinner Wednesday evening at the Hotel Wick and then returned to the lodge hall.

A gift exchange was held and games were played.

The next meeting will be Jan. 9. The luncheon committee includes Olive Ogle, Mildred Westover and Virginia Williams.

Candlelight Service Planned

A candlelight service will be held at the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church at 9:15 Christmas eve, with Holy Communion being observed.

Christmas morning, at 10 o'clock, Communion will be given those who could not attend the previous evening service.

Lisbon Personals

Mrs. George C. Porter of W. Lincoln Way returned home Wednesday from South Side unit of Youngstown Hospital, where she underwent surgery in November.

D. of A. Holds Party

Thirty - three were present Thursday night when the Daughters of America held their Christmas party at the lodge hall. Dinner was served at 6:30.

There was an exchange of gifts and Deputy Laura Wright and District Deputy Mildred Hiscox presented a gift to each person present.

Mildred McCord conducted a brief business session when the group made plans to serve the Kiwanis Club next Thursday noon.

The next meeting will be Dec. 28. The Jan. 4 session will feature installation of officers.

125 Attend Yule Event

The First Christian Church held its Sunday School Christmas party Thursday evening at the church, with some 125 in attendance.

Beginning the program, the chapel choir sang two Christmas selections. Each of the various departments participated in the program. George Berdine led a playlet, "What Does Christmas Mean to you?"

At the conclusion, each group went to its own class room, where refreshments were served and gifts exchanged.

Employes Hold Party

The group presented Stacey with a gift and he in turn remembered them with gifts.

They then returned to Lisbon and spent a social time at the home of Mrs. Manuel Birk of the Webber Apts. on N. Market St.

Commissioners OK Allotments, Action On Road

LISBON — Columbiana County commissioners Thursday approved two allotments and accepted land for a road dedication.

The other plat approved is Williams Park 2nd addition in Section 22, Yellow Creek Township. It has 5.9 acres in lots and 8-10ths of an acre in roads. The owners are Mildred and Richard Ball and Ruth and William E. Williams.

Land owners Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Schiederer, Olive Ewing, Robert Ewing, Gene Liber, Carol Liber and Russell W. Liber dedicated a total of 2.89 acres for Township Rd. 893 (Ganders Flats Rd.), which runs east from Route 30 east of Lisbon to Hutton Rd. in Elkrun Township.

The eastern outlet to Route 154 (Lisbon - Elkton Rd.) will be cut off with the construction of Route 11 — the limited access freeway from Lake Erie to the Ohio River — and the improvement of T.R. 893 will be necessary.

Water Pressure Back To Normal

A tapping machine which stuck in a water main on Broadway in Wellsville Thursday was removed without major difficulty and the water pressure was back to normal today.

Safety - Service Direrton Fred Baldasare said six or seven fire hydrants were opened in the area for about three minutes reducing the line pressure and allowing street employes to remove the machine.

A tap for a home service line was started Thursday morning on 6th and Broadway when a valve on the machine became defective and employes could not complete the work or remove the machine.

Quads To Be 4 Months Old On Christmas Day

FLORISSANT, Mo. (AP) — There's Rick who is 9, Debbie 8, Karen 6, Craig 5, Brenda 4, Kevin 2, and Brian, Mark, Paul and Dwayne. The last four members of the Fahrenkrog family will all be four months old on Christmas Day.

"My friends always ask how I can stand it," Ruth Fahrenkrog, 34, said, "but the babies don't bother me at all. It's the older ones, when they fight, that get me."

The quads were born Aug. 25 in a St. Louis hospital, but the fact that all four were boys provided the only surprise. Doctors had told Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fahrenkrog they could expect four.

"It's been hectic," the husband and father said, "but it's generally quiet between 11 o'clock and five in the morning." Fahrenkrog, an engineer for a St. Louis architectural firm, then added: "After all that's pretty good with 10 kids."

As for Christmas shopping, "Well that's been a two-shift affair," said Mrs. Fahrenkrog.

"Yes," said the 37-year-old father, "she's done the shopping and I've picked up the bills."

Brian, Mark, Paul and Dwayne, normaly mentioned in their order of birth, have all been pronounced healthy by the family doctor. The attending physician at birth said the boys were about average for premature babies.

The boys are not identical and Mrs. Fahrenkrog can tell them apart at a glance. But their father admits to a bit of a recognition problem.

The Fahrenkrogs reside in a five-room, brick-faced bungalow in this St. Louis suburb. The father said there is no room for expansion at their present home.

"I guess we're looking for a dormitory," he added.

King Says Rockefeller Only GOP Hope To Defeat LBJ

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., says the Republicans probably would lose most of the Negro vote and the presidency next year by nominating Richard M. Nixon.

King said Thursday in an exclusive interview that the only Republican potential candidate who could defeat President Lyndon B. Johnson is New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

"Rockefeller would probably be the first Republican in recent years to get a majority of Negro votes if he were the nominee," King said. The New York governor would descisively split both the Negro and labor votes, King said, and "would get the great group of disenchanted independent voters."

But, King said, neither Nixon nor Gov. Ronald Reagan of California—another Republican possibility—could carry the Negro vote against Johnson.

"I'm not optimistic about the Republicans nominating Rockefeller because the Republicans have a kind of chronic obsession for losing," King said.

King said he was not endorsing a candidate.

King said his announced plan for massive, disruptive demonstrations next spring in the nation's capital to demand jobs or income for the poor would reflect "a consensus in the nation itself for what we are demanding."

Mayors of large cities, businessmen and other groups favor action now in massive doses, King said. "So the climate is alive in the nation and the thing to do is to mobile this public opinion and give them a movement through which they can say to Congress, 'This must be done.'"

King said experience has shown that Congress never moves until it is pressured to do so.

He was asked if his inviting antiwar groups to join the movement would kill its chances of favorable response from Congress.

"I think not," he said. "I think the power of this movement will be numbers and perseverance. We hope to make this movement so massive and monumental that it can't be ignored, no matter who is in it."

King said President Johnson must crusade for his programs to eliminate urban blight and guarantee jobs or income. "Whenever the President really crusades for something, he generally gets it," King said.

The name "bobbies" as applied to London's policemen comes from the nickname of their founder, Sir Robert Peel.

Motorist Injured In Bid To Avoid Striking Animal

A Salineville area driver was slightly injured and his car heavily damaged when it wrecked near Lisbon after he swerved off Route 154 to avoid hitting a dog.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Francis A. Wargo, 56, of Salineville RD 2 was headed west about six miles east of Lisbon when he came upon the dog. He swerved and the car went off the north side of the highway into a ditch and rolled over.

He suffered minor cuts. There was extensive damage to his 1962 sedan, the patrol said.

2 'Polar Bear' Camps Planned By Boy Scouts

LISBON — Columbiana Council, Boy Scouts of America, is planning "polar Bear" camps two weekends in January at Camp McKinley near Lisbon.

Scouts from the Cherokee District — the southern half of Columbiana County, plus Chester and Newell — will camp Jan. 12-14, with Bob Mellinger and Bill Rayburn in charge.

Shawnee (northern) district will be at McKinley Jan. 19-21 under the leadership of Wilson Baughman and Doc Kern.

Bennett D. Taylor Jr., council executive, says Camp McKinley is being used more than ever and, on some weekends, "we have had to turn campers away." Arrangements for camping can be made by calling council headquarters at Lisbon.

The executive calls leaders' attention to a new policy on liquid fuel: "No liquid fuel or appliances that require it will be used at any council- or district-sponsored events."

This action was taken by camping and activities committees of the two districts and council and will apply at the 1968 polar bear camps.

While the policy cannot be enforced at unit - sponsored camping trips to areas other than on council property, the committees urge units to observe the policy in the interest of safety.

The December issue of the council's newsletter "The Packett," calls Winona Troop 88 the camping champion for 1967. Scoutmaster Carroll Greene and Scouts posted a record of 38 days and nights in camp.

Taylor said Columbiana Council will send a delegation to the Philmont Scout ranch at Cimarron, N. M., next July. Twenty-three boys and three adult leaders made the trip this year.

At present, Columbiana Council has been allotted only 10 spaces for the Cimarron trek. Taylor said these will be issued on a first-come basis. The $175 cost includes all expenses. Scouts may register by sending a $10 deposit to the council office.

Sale Of Dog Licenses Will Begin On Jan. 2

LISBON — Columbiana County will begin the sale of 1968 dog licenses Jan 2, Auditor Kenneth Bell has announced.

Application forms for the tags will be mailed Dec. 29 to approximately 12,000 residents.

Bell said 16,993 licenses have been sold this year compared with a record 17,147 in 1966.

A LICENSE is required for any dog over three months old. Fees are the same as this year —$2 per dog and $10 for a kennel.

A $1 penalty will be charged dog owners who have not obtained licenses by Jan. 20. The penalty for kennel owners is $5.

Dog owners may handle the entire transaction by mail by filling in the application form and returning it with the fee to the dog license department in the Courthouse. The tag and certificate will be forwarded to the owner.

Owners may apply for licenses at any of 31 agencies in 16 communities. They should take with them the entire form they receive in the mail, Bell said.

PERSONS who never have ordered a dog license may get an application blank at the Courthouse or at any of the following agencies:

East Liverpool — Auto Club, 213 E. 4th St.; Heimie's, 521 Washington St.; Pat's Pharmacy, 1216 Avondale St.; Bloor's Pharmacy, 1010 Pennsylvania Ave.; Blankenship Insurance, 510 Walnut St.; Barbara Gulutz, City Hall; Pickens Grocery, Shadyside, and Potters Lumber Co. and L. & M. Commissioners OK Allotments, Action On Road

LISBON — Columbiana County commissioners Thursday approved two allotments and accepted land for a road dedication.

The other plat approved is Williams Park 2nd addition in Section 22, Yellow Creek Township. It has 5.9 acres in lots and 8-10ths of an acre in roads. The owners are Mildred and Richard Ball and Ruth and William E. Williams.

Land owners Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Schiederer, Olive Ewing, Robert Ewing, Gene Liber, Carol Liber and Russell W. Liber dedicated a total of 2.89 acres for Township Rd. 893 (Ganders Flats Rd.), which runs east from Route 30 east of Lisbon to Hutton Rd. in Elkrun Township.

The eastern outlet to Route 154 (Lisbon - Elkton Rd.) will be cut off with the construction of Route 11 — the limited access freeway from Lake Erie to the Ohio River — and the improvement of T.R. 893 will be necessary.

Water Pressure Back To Normal

A tapping machine which stuck in a water main on Broadway in Wellsville Thursday was removed without major difficulty and the water pressure was back to normal today.

Safety - Service Direrton Fred Baldasare said six or seven fire hydrants were opened in the area for about three minutes reducing the line pressure and allowing street employes to remove the machine.

A tap for a home service line was started Thursday morning on 6th and Broadway when a valve on the machine became defective and employes could not complete the work or remove the machine.

Quads To Be 4 Months Old On Christmas Day

FLORISSANT, Mo. (AP) — There's Rick who is 9, Debbie 8, Karen 6, Craig 5, Brenda 4, Kevin 2, and Brian, Mark, Paul and Dwayne. The last four members of the Fahrenkrog family will all be four months old on Christmas Day.

Buying Little More At Higher Prices

Ohio Christmas Shoppers Are Choosier This Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Christmas shoppers in Ohio are choosier this year and they seem to be buying a little more at higher prices.

"The public is buying much better priced merchandise," reported John Macklin, executive director of the Columbus Retail Merchants Association.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland confirmed sales at metropolitan department stores in its district — portions of Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and West Virginia — were up. It estimated Christmas sales for the week ending Dec. 9 were up 3 per cent over the same week a year ago.

The trend toward increased buying of quality merchandise appeared to be general over Ohio.

A 39-day transit strike failed to dampen buying at Cincinnati where a spokesman for Shillito's, a Federated department store, said "sales are running ahead of last year."

The Christmas shopping hit its peak this week but in spite of the usual last frantic days no major stock shortages were reported.

Highbee's, May Co. and Halle Bros., all Cleveland department stores report excellent sales.

Largest gains over 1966 for the week ending Dec. 9 were Toledo 10 per cent; Columbus 9 per cent and Akron 8 per cent. Cleveland was less than a half of one per cent ahead for the week.

In East Liverpool, a usually heavy snow area, boots aren't moving well, merchants report. There has only been one big snow in East Liverpool so far this year.

During 11-Day Holiday Recess

60 Revision Proposals To Be Studied By ConCon

In a final burst of activity, 17 proposals were introduced from the floor Thursday during a post-recess session. They included suggestions to create a new family court, exempt senior citizens from real estate taxes and retain the controversial minor judiciary system.

The family court proposal, submitted by delegate Henry E. Rea of Pittsburgh, calls for the creation of a special court in each county with a population of more than 150,000 to handle marriage, divorce, adoption, juvenile delinquency and support cases.

Three proposals were introduced to retain, but overhaul, the minor judiciary system composed of justices of the peace, aldermen and magistrates.

Delegate James D. Morton of Pittsburgh suggested that JPs be elected from legislative districts rather than from wards, districts, boroughs and townships. Morton's plan also would eliminate the fee system and limit the authority of JPs to criminal cases.

A proposal introduced by delegate Gerald E. Ruth of York called for the creation of justice of the peace courts with jurisdiction over summary, misdemeanor and civil cases involving not more than $500.

"The minor judiciary, especially in the rural areas, are providing a service to Pennsylvania citizens," Ruth said. "It is a service that cannot be replaced by community courts that cannot be located in each borough or township."

A third proposal, submitted by delegates Richard L. Huggins of McKeesport and John J. Redick of Pittsburgh, would permit cities, boroughs, towns and Townships to elect one JP for each 10,000 residents.

A Pennsylvania Bar Association court reform plan, already before the convention, would supplant the minor judiciary with a system of community courts.

Other proposals introduced Thursday would:

— Eliminate the constitutional debt limit for both local government units and state government.

— Abolish all real estate tax exemptions, including those now given to churches.

— Permit the state to give tax credits to corporations that undertake redevelopment projects.

Although the full convention will not return to Harrisburg until Jan. 2, four major standing committees have scheduled public hearings during the recess. To date, 17 organizations or individuals have asked for time to testify.

The hearing schedule:

Judiciary — Dec. 27, 9:30 a.m.; Local Government, Dec. 28, 9:30 a.m.; Legislative Apportionment — Dec 29, 9:30 a.m.; and Taxation and State Finance — Dec. 29, 1:30 p. m.

All sessions are to be held in Room 132 of the State Finance Building.

Buying Little More At Higher Prices

Ohio Christmas Shoppers Are Choosier This Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Christmas shoppers in Ohio are choosier this year and they seem to be buying a little more at higher prices.

"The public is buying much better priced merchandise," reported John Macklin, executive director of the Columbus Retail Merchants Association.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland confirmed sales at metropolitan department stores in its district — portions of Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and West Virginia — were up. It estimated Christmas sales for the week ending Dec. 9 were up 3 per cent over the same week a year ago.

The trend toward increased buying of quality merchandise appeared to be general over Ohio.

Earl Remy, manager of Marion's Montgomery Ward store, said "purchasers (there) are interested in higher quality merchandise."

A 39-day transit strike failed to dampen buying at Cincinnati where a spokesman for Shillito's, a Federated department store, said "sales are running ahead of last year."

The Christmas shopping hit its peak this week but in spite of the usual last frantic days no major stock shortages were reported.

Highbee's, May Co. and Halle Bros., all Cleveland department stores report excellent sales.

Largest gains over 1966 for the week ending Dec. 9 were Toledo 10 per cent; Columbus 9 per cent and Akron 8 per cent. Cleveland was less than a half of one per cent ahead for the week.

In East Liverpool, a usually heavy snow area, boots aren't moving well, merchants report. There has only been one big snow in East Liverpool so far this year.

During 11-Day Holiday Recess

60 Revision Proposals To Be Studied By ConCon

In a final burst of activity, 17 proposals were introduced from the floor Thursday during a post-recess session. They included suggestions to create a new family court, exempt senior citizens from real estate taxes and retain the controversial minor judiciary system.

The family court proposal, submitted by delegate Henry E. Rea of Pittsburgh, calls for the creation of a special court in each county with a population of more than 150,000 to handle marriage, divorce, adoption, juvenile delinquency and support cases.

Three proposals were introduced to retain, but overhaul, the minor judiciary system composed of justices of the peace, aldermen and magistrates.

Delegate James D. Morton of Pittsburgh suggested that JPs be elected from legislative districts rather than from wards, districts, boroughs and townships. Morton's plan also would eliminate the fee system and limit the authority of JPs to criminal cases.

A proposal introduced by delegate Gerald E. Ruth of York called for the creation of justice of the peace courts with jurisdiction over summary, misdemeanor and civil cases involving not more than $500.

"The minor judiciary, especially in the rural areas, are providing a service to Pennsylvania citizens," Ruth said. "It is a service that cannot be replaced by community courts that cannot be located in each borough or township."

A third proposal, submitted by delegates Richard L. Huggins of McKeesport and John J. Redick of Pittsburgh, would permit cities, boroughs, towns and Townships to elect one JP for each 10,000 residents.

A Pennsylvania Bar Association court reform plan, already before the convention, would supplant the minor judiciary with a system of community courts.

Other proposals introduced Thursday would:

— Eliminate the constitutional debt limit for both local government units and state government.

— Abolish all real estate tax exemptions, including those now given to churches.

— Permit the state to give tax credits to corporations that undertake redevelopment projects.

Although the full convention will not return to Harrisburg until Jan. 2, four major standing committees have scheduled public hearings during the recess. To date, 17 organizations or individuals have asked for time to testify.

The hearing schedule:

Judiciary — Dec. 27, 9:30 a.m.; Local Government, Dec. 28, 9:30 a.m.; Legislative Apportionment — Dec 29, 9:30 a.m.; and Taxation and State Finance — Dec. 29, 1:30 p. m.

All sessions are to be held in Room 132 of the State Finance Building.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: What do you think of a man who:

1. Has never been wrong in his life.

2. Has moved 26 times in 14 years of marriage because he "likes a change of scenery."

3. Has never set down at the table without complaining about the food.

4. Spends $50 for cowboy boots and raises the roof off the house when his wife buys their little girl a pair of ballet slippers for $4.98.

5. Sneaks out of bed on Sunday morning and goes to a good restaurant for a huge breakfast all by himself.

6. Was nowhere around when his three children were born.

7. Walks out of his own home when his in-laws are visiting because they don't agree with him on the war in Vietnam.

8. Chews hard candy or potato chips when he telephones his mother because he knows the crunching drives her crazy.

It sounds unbelievable, doesn't it? Well, the man is my husband. Although I'm not a very good writer, I'm a smart woman. Yet I can't figure out what the clod is trying to prove.

I hope you will print this letter. Maybe if he sees how he looks in the newspaper he will straighten up and fly right. — BATTLE FATIGUE.

Dear Bat: Don't expect miracles, Lady. I'm printing your letter for other wives who write. Your husband will make their husbands look good.

Let Dad Do It

Dear Ann: Our son, Sam, who is 19 and a sophomore in college, was required to write a theme on some kind of business venture. It had to be "practical, imaginative and workable."

Sam asked his dad's help with the assignment. Instead of giving the boy a few ideas, Sam's father threw himself into the project body and soul. He spent several hours on the theme, took it down to the office, dictated it to his secretary and had it all typed up.

He then handed over the finished project to Sam who was delighted, naturally, since it had saved him hours of work.

I'm annoyed with my husband for doing this. He says I'm all wet, that the theme was "fun" and he hopes Sam asks his help again. I have no doubt that he will. May I have your views? — MEAN MOTHER.

Dear Mother: Sam knows he is not being honest when he hands in a theme he did not write. It's bad enough when a friend helps pull off this cutie but when a boy's father helps him cheat, it's outrageous.

I hope your husband won't be too shocked when his son gets caught at some crooked act of a more serious nature. If he asks you, "Where did I fail?" you can tell him.

On The Ropes

Dear Ann: Our daughter is getting married next month and we have had so many arguments that I'm ready to buy her a ladder and tell her to elope.

Now she has decided to wear white gloves with her wedding gown because she saw it in a movie.

She does not remember what the bride did when the groom put the ring on her finger. She says he must have put the ring on over the glove. This does not sound right to me. Please give us your opinion. — ROUND 6.

Dear Round: A wedding ring over a glove makes no sense. If your daughter wants to wear gloves, she should remove them when she reaches the altar.

-:-

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

3 Research Grants Awarded By Area Heart Association

The three-county Heart Association of Eastern Ohio (Columbiana, Mahoning and Trumbull) has announced three research grants totaling $9,300, according to Dr. Angelo Riberi of Youngstown, chairman of the Research Review Committee there.

One of the grants has been awarded to Dr. Edward Kessler, director of the Renal Research Laboratory at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Youngstown. The grant of $3,150, to be used through the next calendar year, went to Dr. Kessler, who, with research assistant Ronald C. Hughes, continues to study data related to how several body forces might prove interrelated in the control of salt elimination. Such information is important since it bears directly upon the interruption of health and development of disease. The study also may provide data applicable to the treatment of shock.

The other two grants announced by Dr. Riberi went to a doctor and a research fellow, both of whom are conducting research studies and experiments at Ohio State University.

Dr. Samuel A. Marable was awarded a grant of $1,150 in partial support of his research on "An Experimental Evaluation of Celiac Axis Compression." A third grant of $4,000 to recipient Sanford P. Bishop, a research fellow, will provide him with part of the means to continue investigating promising leads uncovered last year in his research proposal to learn more of the causes of congestive heart failure.

Research, education (of professionals and laymen) and community service are actively supported by the Heart Association of Eastern Ohio.

Mrs. Kay Price, executive director of the Heart Association office in Youngstown, said the grants named above come from the funds collected during Heart Month each February and through gifts received continuously through the year, 70 per cent of which are allocated in the area and the state.

Car Rams Tow Truck In Industry Borough

Extensive damage resulted to both vehicles in a mishap Wednesday at 11:30 a. m. on Engle Rd., Industry Borough.

Patrolman Roy Hohenshell said a station wagon operated by Agnes M. Knight, 44, of Industry RD 1 hit a wrecker truck towing a car. The truck was operated by George Thompson, 44, of 112 Midland Ave., Midland.

Mrs. Knight told police something happened to the steering mechanism, causing her to lose control. Thompson said he saw the car go out of control and moved to the extreme right, but could not avoid the collision.

In another accident at 11:30 p. m., Police Chief Ray Hendershot said an unidentified motorist knocked down two mail boxes on the Industry - Fairview Rd. near the Oak Grove Cemetery.

Judge Clears Doctor Of Illegal Abortion

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)— Mahoning County Common Pleas Judge Forrest J. Cavalier found Dr. Herbert C. Blackmann Jr., of Youngstown, innocent Thursday of a charge of performing an illegal abortion on an Ohio State University coed here last March 3.

The 22-year-old coed testified she made two visits to the osteopathic physician's office and that he performed the abortion on the second visit.

PATROL COMMANDER. Sgt. Ralph Mitchell has begun his duties as commander of the Ohio Highway Patrol Post at Lisbon. Sgt. Mitchell, a native of Youngstown, was transferred from Massillon to replace Sgt. R.J. Rizzo, who was promoted to patrol lieutenant on Turnpike duty.

175 Attend Yule Playlets Given At Chester School

About 175 attended a Christmas program presented by second- and third-grade pupils during a meeting of the Chester Primary Parent - Teacher Association Wednesday night.

A playlet, "Christmas Butterfly," was presented by third - grade students under the direction of Mrs. Winifred Helzler, teacher. The second - grade boys and girls, directed by Mrs. Bonnie Johnson and Mrs. Mary Lee VanDevender, teachers, presented a playlet, "Christmas Is a Time of Giving."

The second - grade students also sang carols in English and Spanish, with Miss Judy Harrington at the piano.

The next regular meeting will be Jan. 8.

Combined Trash Pickups Planned After Christmas

With trash collections suspended Monday because of Christmas, the refuse routes ordinarily serviced on Monday and Tuesday will be combined for a single collection on Tuesday, Incinerator Supt. John Melvin reminded householders today.

The combined route will cover these streets:

Smithfield St., Orchard Grove Ave., Princeton Ave., Columbia Ave., Oliver St., Fairmont St., Highland Colony, Gardendale, Maplewood to the city limits, Park Blvd., Beechwood, Armstrong Ln., Mayberry Ln., Hill Blvd., Manor Ln., Midway Ln., Cain St., St. Clair Ave.

Fairview St., Division St., Hague Ave., Shadyside Ave., Church St., Denver St., Edwards Ave., Park Pl., Jethro, W. 8th St., Ridgeway Ave., Fenton St., Moore St., Claiborne St., May St., Florence St., John St., Burford St., Alton St. and California Hollow.

The same combined schedule will be used on the New Year's weekend, with the collections set for Tuesday, Jan. 2, Melvin added.

Pneumonia Fatal

NEW YORK (AP) — Stephen B. Botsford, 48, president of the New Yorker magazine from 1956 to 1961, died of pneumonia Wednesday. Botsford, a stepson of Raoul H. Fleischmann, one of the founders and principle owners of the magazine, quit the presidency to devote his time to writing.

Sentence Set In Car Death

Judge Joel H. Sharp of Common Pleas Court in Lisbon imposed sentence Thursday on Daryl Lee Jackson, 18, of 1068 Jennings Ave., convicted Nov. 14 of a charge of traffic manslaughter.

The court suspended five months of a six-month jail sentence and $300 of a $500 fine, and ordered the youth not to drive for one year.

Jackson was indicted in September for a May 26 accident that killed one of his passengers, Jerry Canne, 17, formerly of 143 Thompson Ave.

The youths were returning from a senior class party near Grimms Bridge. The 1966 compact Jackson was driving skidded broadside on a curve and struck rocks and a tree.

Judge Sharp granted defense counsel's motion for a stay of execution of sentence pending appeal. The youth was released under $1,000 bond.

Servicemen Give Thanks For Kits Sent By Groups

"Thank you very much for your Christmas Ditty bags. They arrived in good shape. . .We are located in a very isolated area and the gifts will be highly appreciated by the servicemen stationed at the Cam Ranh Air Base, Vietnam".

This acknowledgement was received by the Area Red Cross Chapter for the 150 Christmas Ditty bags which were made by community organizations under the leadership of Mrs. Robert Wells, production chairman for the chapter.

The Christmas kits were mailed by the local chapter in November, part of a national Red Cross program for servicemen and women in Vietnam. The local chapter also sent 50 kits for servicewomen.

Hope, Entertainers Visit U.S. 7th Fleet

SFB (AP) — Bob Hope and his troupe of 60 entertainers visited the U.S. 7th Fleet off the coast of North Vietnam Wednesday and Thursday, then flew back to Thailand, their base for their Christmas visit to American troops in the Vietnam war.

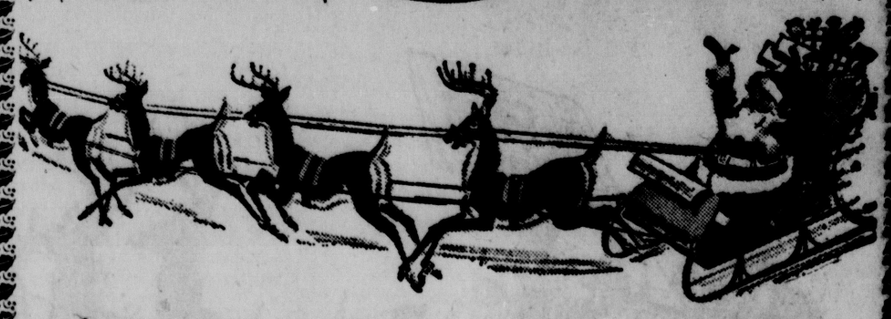

The entertainers landed on the aircraft carrier Ranger late Wednesday, visited the men aboard the ship and gave their show Thursday. Then they flew to the carrier Coral Sea for another show.

During Hope's night on the Ranger, the ship's chaplain included these words in his evening prayer over the public address system; "Thank you, Lord, for calm seas. There is nothing as humorless as a seasick comedian."

Stage Designer Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Albert R. Johnson, 57, stage set designer for more than 100 Broadway shows, died Thursday of a vascular ailment. Among shows for which Johnson did the set were "Of Thee I Sing" and currently running "What Did I Do Wrong."

Car Rams Tow Truck In Industry Borough

Extensive damage resulted to both vehicles in a mishap Wednesday at 11:30 a. m. on Engle Rd., Industry Borough.

Patrolman Roy Hohenshell said a station wagon operated by Agnes M. Knight, 44, of Industry RD 1 hit a wrecker truck towing a car. The truck was operated by George Thompson, 44, of 112 Midland Ave., Midland.

Mrs. Knight told police something happened to the steering mechanism, causing her to lose control. Thompson said he saw the car go out of control and moved to the extreme right, but could not avoid the collision.

In another accident at 11:30 p. m., Police Chief Ray Hendershot said an unidentified motorist knocked down two mail boxes on the Industry - Fairview Rd. near the Oak Grove Cemetery.

Judge Clears Doctor Of Illegal Abortion

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)— Mahoning County Common Pleas Judge Forrest J. Cavalier found Dr. Herbert C. Blackmann Jr., of Youngstown, innocent Thursday of a charge of performing an illegal abortion on an Ohio State University coed here last March 3.

The 22-year-old coed testified she made two visits to the osteopathic physician's office and that he performed the abortion on the second visit.

175 Attend Yule Playlets Given At Chester School

About 175 attended a Christmas program presented by second- and third-grade pupils during a meeting of the Chester Primary Parent - Teacher Association Wednesday night.

A playlet, "Christmas Butterfly," was presented by third - grade students under the direction of Mrs. Winifred Helzler, teacher. The second - grade boys and girls, directed by Mrs. Bonnie Johnson and Mrs. Mary Lee VanDevender, teachers, presented a playlet, "Christmas Is a Time of Giving."

The second - grade students also sang carols in English and Spanish, with Miss Judy Harrington at the piano.

The next regular meeting will be Jan. 8.

The same combined schedule will be used on the New Year's weekend, with the collections set for Tuesday, Jan. 2, Melvin added.

Pneumonia Fatal

NEW YORK (AP) — Stephen B. Botsford, 48, president of the New Yorker magazine from 1956 to 1961, died of pneumonia Wednesday. Botsford, a stepson of Raoul H. Fleischmann, one of the founders and principle owners of the magazine, quit the presidency to devote his time to writing.

Sentence Set In Car Death

Judge Joel H. Sharp of Common Pleas Court in Lisbon imposed sentence Thursday on Daryl Lee Jackson, 18, of 1068 Jennings Ave., convicted Nov. 14 of a charge of traffic manslaughter.

The court suspended five months of a six-month jail sentence and $300 of a $500 fine, and ordered the youth not to drive for one year.

Jackson was indicted in September for a May 26 accident that killed one of his passengers, Jerry Canne, 17, formerly of 143 Thompson Ave.

The youths were returning from a senior class party near Grimms Bridge. The 1966 compact Jackson was driving skidded broadside on a curve and struck rocks and a tree.

Judge Sharp granted defense counsel's motion for a stay of execution of sentence pending appeal. The youth was released under $1,000 bond.

Servicemen Give Thanks For Kits Sent By Groups

"Thank you very much for your Christmas Ditty bags. They arrived in good shape. . .We are located in a very isolated area and the gifts will be highly appreciated by the servicemen stationed at the Cam Ranh Air Base, Vietnam".

This acknowledgement was received by the Area Red Cross Chapter for the 150 Christmas Ditty bags which were made by community organizations under the leadership of Mrs. Robert Wells, production chairman for the chapter.

The Christmas kits were mailed by the local chapter in November, part of a national Red Cross program for servicemen and women in Vietnam. The local chapter also sent 50 kits for servicewomen.

Hope, Entertainers Visit U.S. 7th Fleet

SFB (AP) — Bob Hope and his troupe of 60 entertainers visited the U.S. 7th Fleet off the coast of North Vietnam Wednesday and Thursday, then flew back to Thailand, their base for their Christmas visit to American troops in the Vietnam war.

The entertainers landed on the aircraft carrier Ranger late Wednesday, visited the men aboard the ship and gave their show Thursday. Then they flew to the carrier Coral Sea for another show.

During Hope's night on the Ranger, the ship's chaplain included these words in his evening prayer over the public address system; "Thank you, Lord, for calm seas. There is nothing as humorless as a seasick comedian."

Stage Designer Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Albert R. Johnson, 57, stage set designer for more than 100 Broadway shows, died Thursday of a vascular ailment. Among shows for which Johnson did the set were "Of Thee I Sing" and currently running "What Did I Do Wrong."

Millions Going Home For Christmas

Holiday Transportation Rush Hits Peak Today

Airlines, railroads and bus lines geared up today to handle the first peak push of the holiday travel season as millions of Americans crisscrossed the country trying to get home for Christmas.

Although the transportation rush began about a week ago, most carriers said the peak days would be today and Jan. 2. Some lines predicted passenger volume records for the period.

Continuing a trend of recent years, many airlines also reported heavy bookings to resort areas including Miami, Hawaii, Mexico and the Caribbean islands.

The National Safety Council in Chicago estimated that the extra millions of drivers on the nation's streets and highways over the weekend would mean from 625 to 725 fatalities.

The Air Transport Association in Washington reported that air lines nationwide were providing 150,000 additional daily seats on scheduled flights during the periods from Dec. 15-23 and Jan. 1-7.

During the same period last year the lines provided 100,000 extra daily seats. An ATS spokesman said this year was "probably the greatest additional service in airline history."

Railroads also added service but at least three lines said they did not expect to handle record crowds unless bad weather forced airlines to cancel flights and made driving hazardous.

Greyhound Bus Lines' Chicago headquarters said that since Dec. 15 it had moved 75,000 troops—the equivalent of five divisions—on holiday leave from Army installations around the nation.

Spokesmen for Continental Trailways bus line in Dallas said its operations were at about the same level as last but down from preholiday estimates due to the snow storms in the Southwest.

Resort travel was particularly heavy with Miami reporting the largest holiday crowd of tourists on record. The top Miami Beach hotels said the Christmas week had been booked solidly for a month.

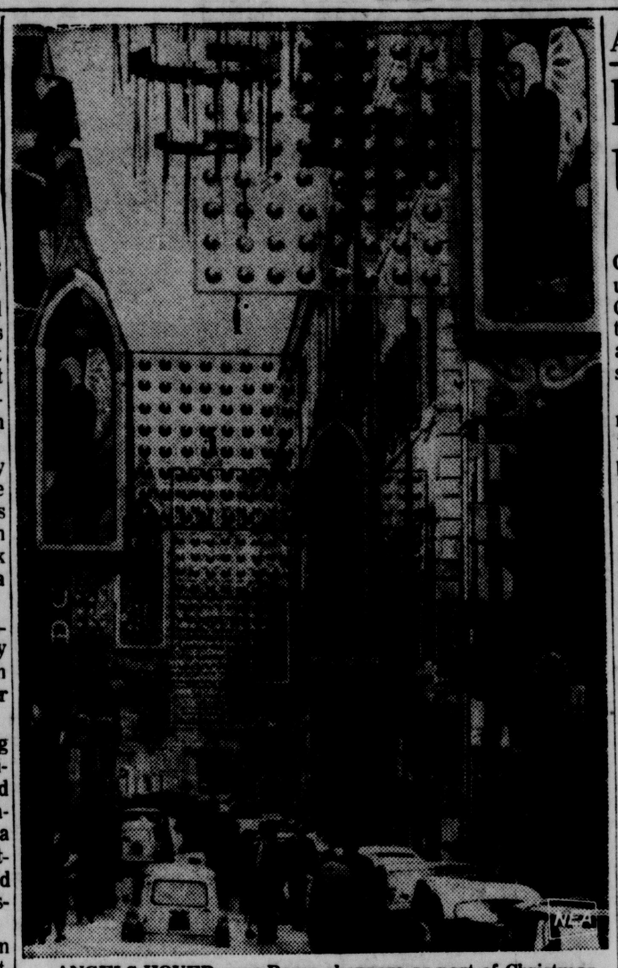

An Eastern Air Lines spokesman said it expected holiday travel to Miami would show an increase of 45 per cent over 1966.

In the West the most striking increase was on flights to Hawaii. A Pan American World Airways spokesman said, "Hawaii, like Mexico, has become a popular place to spend Christmas." United Air Lines said "business over there is fantastic."

The Hawaii Hotel Association said bookings during the Christmas period were "tight" particularly in Waikiki.

In New York City the New Haven Railroad scheduled nine extra commuter trains this afternoon from Grand Central terminal to handle the expected haul of communters getting an early start on the weekend.

And the Port of New York Authority estimated a record 460,000 passengers would pass through Kennedy, La Guardia and Newark airports during the five-day period ending Tuesday.

Stuart Erwin, 64, Taken Suddenly

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Stuart Erwin, 64, who won screen and television fame playing lovable boobs, is dead here of a heart attack.

Actress June Collyer, his wife of 36 years, found him unconscious on the bathroom floor in their apartment. A physician who pronounced him dead said Erwin had a history of heart trouble.

Stu, as he was universally called, stood 5 feet 9 and specialized in roles as Mr. Average Guy or a well meaning bumbler with a bewildered, dead-pan expression.

Relatively inactive in recent years, he still was seen in reruns of his television series, "The Trouble With Father."

Besides Miss Collyer, a sister of Bud Collyer, TV master of ceremonies, Erwin leaves a son, Stuart Jr.; a daughter, Judy, and four grandchildren.

Assembly Ends 1967 Session

Pennsylvania Legislators Up Own Pension Benefits

HARRISBURG (AP) — The General Assembly has wrapped up its 1967 session in time for Christmas and, in the process, the lawmakers slipped a package under the tree for themselves.

The package consisted of $1 million in pay increases for legislative leaders and staff employes and upgraded pension benefits for every member of the House and Senate.

While the House completed action on the salary and pension bills Thursday, the Senate approved $104 million in appropriations for the three state-related universities.

Minutes later, the gavels fell in both chambers and the 1967 session became history.

Undoubtedly, the major accomplishment of the General Assembly this year was in the area of constitutional revision, including the call of the Constitutional Convention.

Gov. Shafer called attention to this in assessing the record of his administration during its first year. However, he also cited proposals that had to be held over until next year because of the prolonged legislative stalemate over taxes.

"Once the smoke and fire from the tax battle are gone, Pennsylvanians whose vision have been obscured will clearly see a new Pennsylvania rising from the programs we have defended and fought so hard for," Shafer said.

"This session represents a total exercise in futility and is devoid of any accomplishment," Fineman told newsmen in a floor interview.

"The blame must be laid squarely on the doorstep of the governor and the Republican leadership who have failed to push the programs that are contained in the Republican platform. The only outstanding feature of the entire year was the imposition of an unwarranted and unfair tax program."

The General Assembly is scheduled to convene its 1968 session on Jan. 2, at which time it may consider a few of the carry-over Shafer proposals in position for a final vote. These include creation of a borrowing authority to float $30 million in bonds for urban mass transportation assistance and an increase in the minimum wage, plus unemployment compensation and workmen's compensation benefits.

After a week of clean-up work, when it returns Jan. 2, the legislature plans to recess until March so that the Constitutional Convention may continue to utilize the House chamber with a minimum of interference.

More Aspirants Report Expense; Deadline's Today

More candidates who sought office at the Nov. 7 general election have filed sworn statements of campaign expenses with the County Election Board, seeking to beat the deadline for the reports at 4 p. m. today.

The latest local aspirants to file were Councilman Floyd Murray, returned to the First Ward seat, who said he spent $30.14, and James F. Cunningham, an unsuccessful candidate for a Council - at - large seat, who reported expenses of $75.65. Both are Democrats.

Twenty-seven aspirants had not filed the reports at mid-morning, including two officials-elect. State law prohibits the board from issuing certificates of election to winners if they do not enter the reports by the deadline. All East Liverpool officials-elect have filed the reports.

The statements are required of all candidates, whether or not they were successful, and from individuals and committees that supported or opposed any candidate or issue. Candidates who do not file by the deadline also will be barred from seeking public office again for five years.

Survived Without Food Or Water

Woman, 77, Fair After Being Bound Up 7 Days

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An elderly woman is hospitalized in fair condition today after surviving seven days without food or water while lying bound hand and foot on a cellar floor.

Robbers posing as church collectors forced their way into Mrs. Lotta Keller's house last Friday.

They forced the 77-year-old woman into the basement, lashed her hands and feet with clothesline and taped her mouth shut with adhesive tape.

Police and neighbors broke into the house in Pittsburgh's Mount Washington section Thursday after neighbors failed to see Mrs. Keller for a long period and mail and newspapers accumulated on her porch.

She was rushed to Mercy Hospital. Doctors said she was suffering from dehydration and exposure, but was in good condition.

They said Mrs. Keller, described as a "fair sized woman," lived off her body's stored fats and fluids.

When authorities broke into the home, Miss Mary Stewart, 23, a neighbor, said they called out but didn't get an immediate answer.

"Then she called to us and said, 'I'm down in the cellar, come on down,'" said Miss Stewart.

"She was so cold," said Miss Stewart. "She wanted to reach for our hands because she was so glad to see us."

Mrs. Keller, police said, managed to work the gag loose. She tried sawing through the clothesline by rubbing the rope against the edge of a laundry tub and water heater, but soon ran out of strength and gave up.

Both of Mrs. Keller's hands were swollen and she had a few bruises and cuts.

"She has excellent resistance to exposure and she was in good physical condition," a doctor said. "Otherwise, she would not have survived."

Miss Stewart's mother, Mrs. George Stewart, became suspicious when she noticed Mrs. Keller's kitchen light on since last Friday.

"I knew Mrs. Keller wasn't the kind to leave her light burning," she said and sounded the alarm.

Greek Publisher Claims She Escaped From House Arrest

LONDON (AP) — Greece's leading woman publisher claimed today that she slipped past her guards and escaped from house arrest in Athens a week ago, but the military junta in her homeland claimed she was released last Friday and was free to come or go at will.

But in Athens, Minister of Public Order I. Tzevelekos told newsmen: "She was released from house arrest on Friday. She was free to come and go. She did not ask for permission to leave the country, but had she done so we would not have hampered her."

The woman left behind her husband and two sons, 19 and 20 years old. Asked if she feared reprisal sagainst them, she replied: "I am not happy about that."

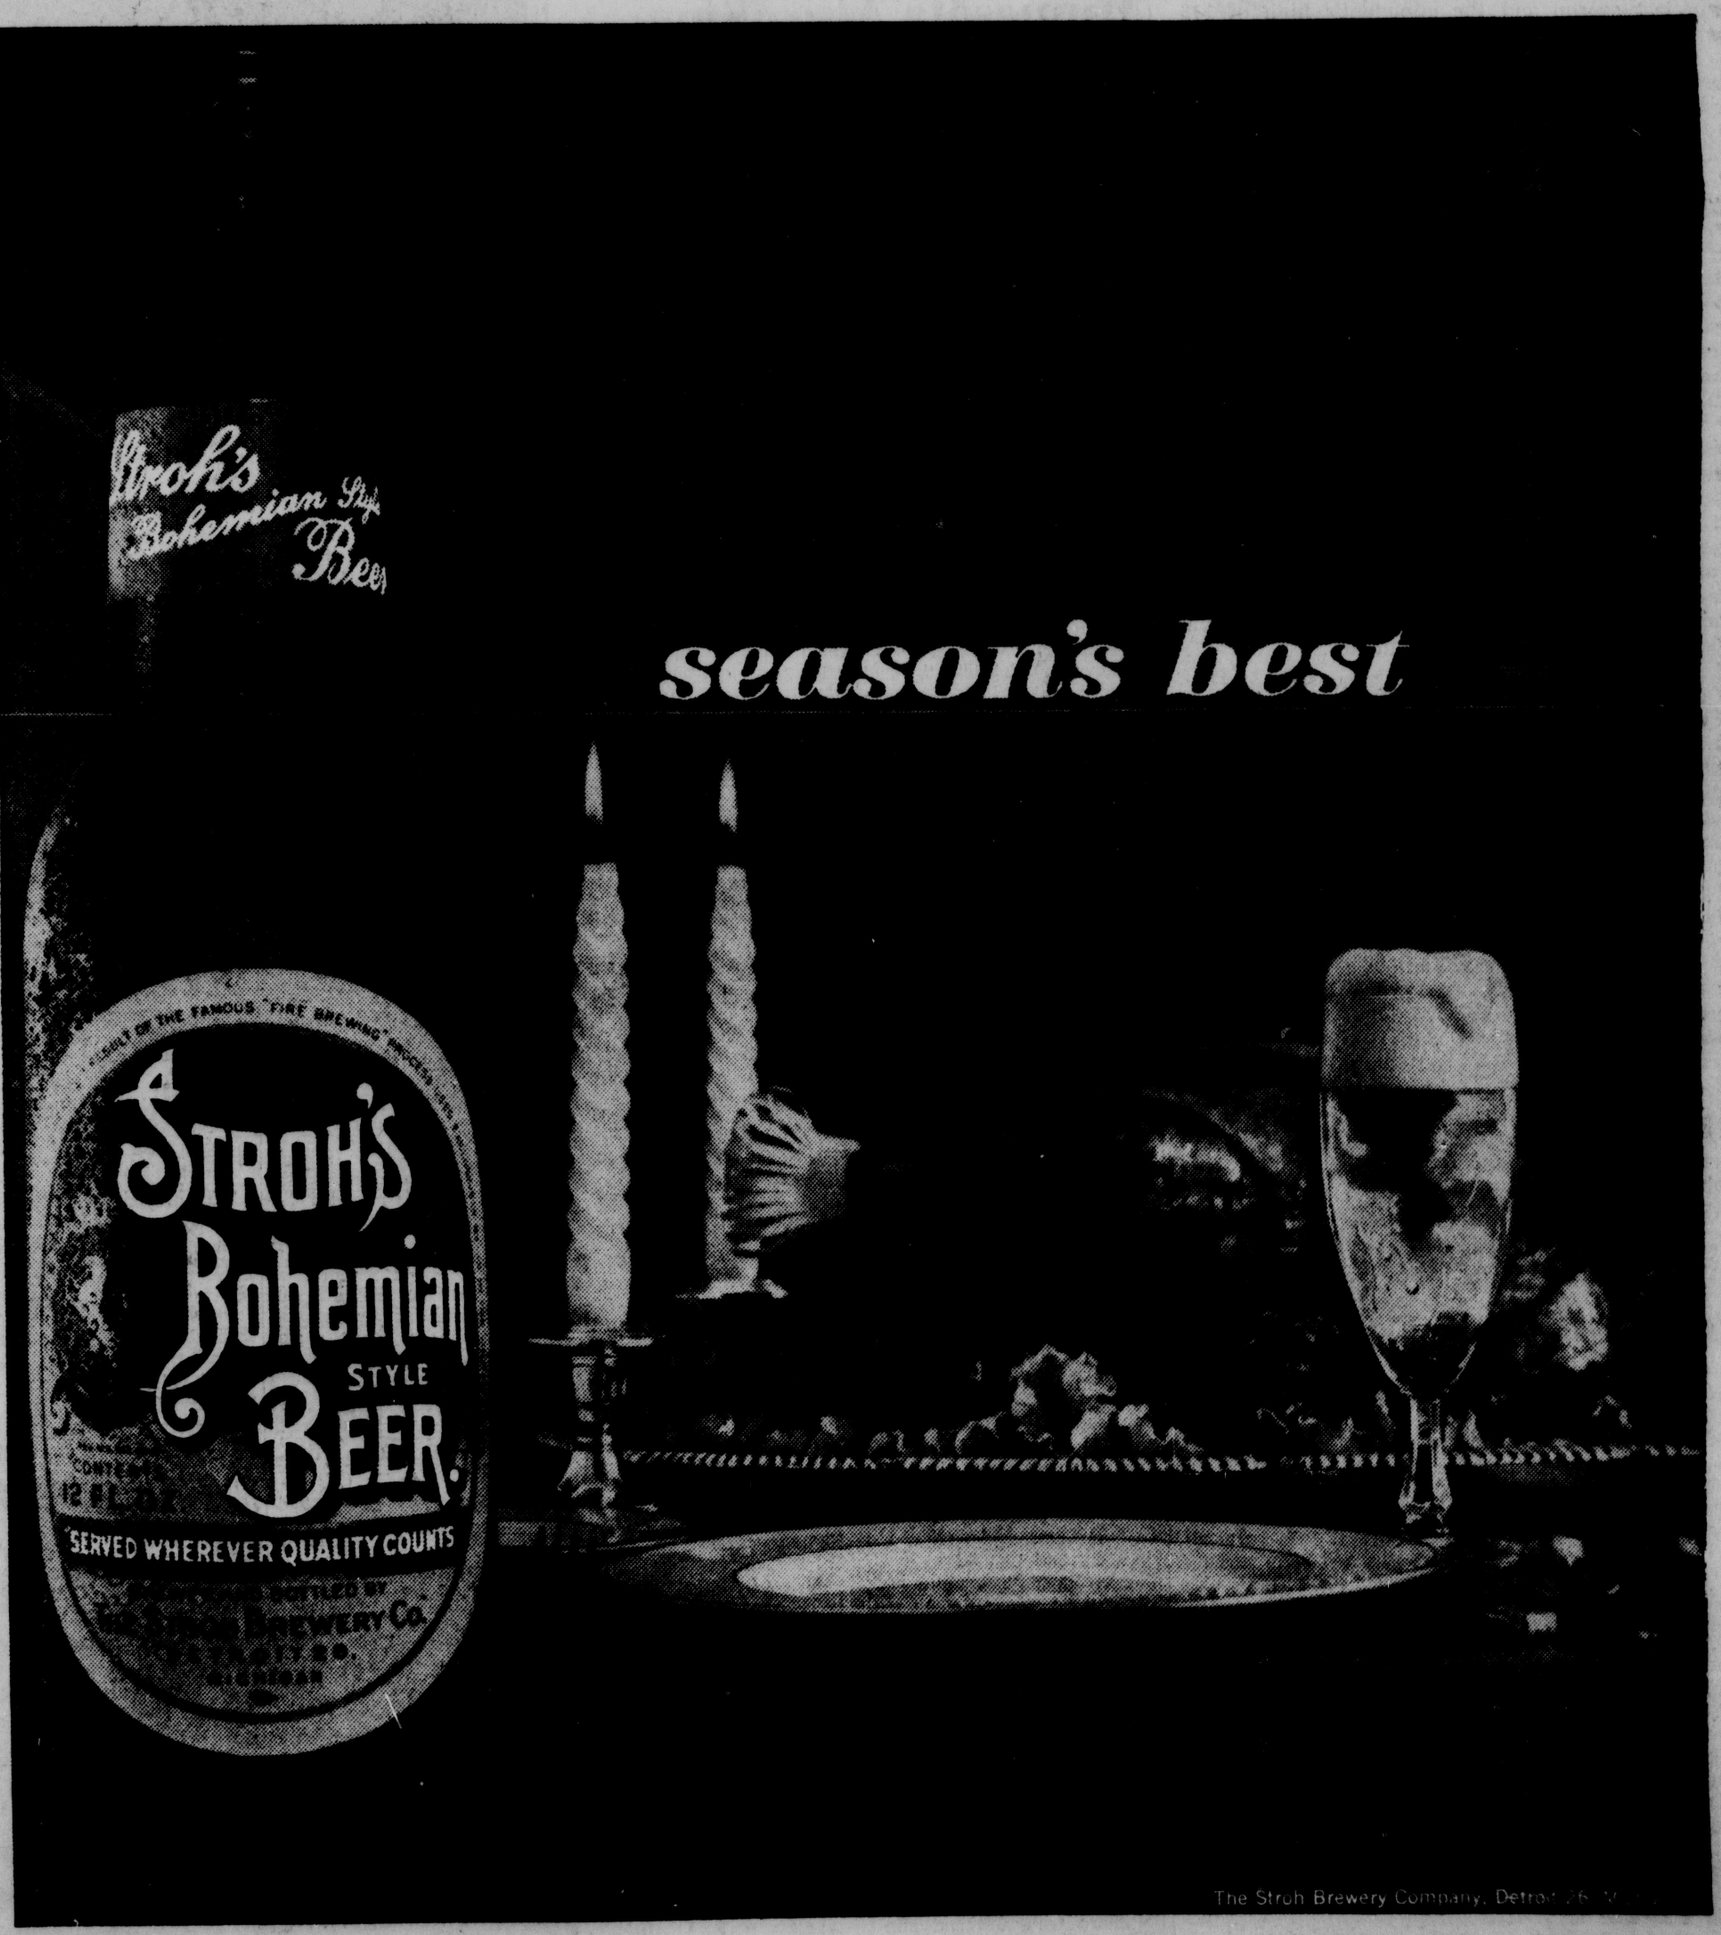

Mrs. Vlachos said King Constantine's attempt to overthrow Greece's military dictatorship was "amateurish."

"Everybody in Greece knew about it," she said. "It had to fail. It was impossible."

She said after the king's countercoup failed, she decided to leave Greece because "I would have to wait for a long time for something to happen again." She said she would apply for political asylum in Britain.

Mrs. Keller, police said, managed to work the gag loose. She tried sawing through the clothesline by rubbing the rope against the edge of a laundry tub and water heater, but soon ran out of strength and gave up.

Both of Mrs. Keller's hands were swollen and she had a few bruises and cuts.

"She has excellent resistance to exposure and she was in good physical condition," a doctor said. "Otherwise, she would not have survived."

Miss Stewart's mother, Mrs. George Stewart, became suspicious when she noticed Mrs. Keller's kitchen light on since last Friday.

"I knew Mrs. Keller wasn't the kind to leave her light burning," she said and sounded the alarm.

Greek Publisher Claims She Escaped From House Arrest

LONDON (AP) — Greece's leading woman publisher claimed today that she slipped past her guards and escaped from house arrest in Athens a week ago, but the military junta in her homeland claimed she was released last Friday and was free to come or go at will.

But in Athens, Minister of Public Order I. Tzevelekos told newsmen: "She was released from house arrest on Friday. She was free to come and go. She did not ask for permission to leave the country, but had she done so we would not have hampered her."

The woman left behind her husband and two sons, 19 and 20 years old. Asked if she feared reprisal sagainst them, she replied: "I am not happy about that."

Mrs. Vlachos said King Constantine's attempt to overthrow Greece's military dictatorship was "amateurish."

"Everybody in Greece knew about it," she said. "It had to fail. It was impossible."

She said after the king's countercoup failed, she decided to leave Greece because "I would have to wait for a long time for something to happen again." She said she would apply for political asylum in Britain.

Since 1945 the Mountaineers have compiled a 235-25 record on their home court at Morgantown. WVU won 57 games in a row at home from 1945-49. Six of the 25 home court losses came in 1954, a 12-11 year overall. Aside from a 14-15 mark in 1965, West Virginia has not had a losing record since 1944.

Probably the two best years in Mountaineer history were 1958 and 1959, when Jerry West was a sophomore and junior. The first season WVU lost only to Duke in 27 games prior to the NCAA tournament and then was upset by Manhattan, 89-84, in the first round. The next year the Mountaineers got all the way to the NCAA finals before being edged by California, 71-70, and posted a 29-5 overall record. In 1946 a 24-3 record was chalked up, one of the losses coming in the second round of the NIT to Kentucky, 59-51.

All-Americans, aside from the 6-3 West, were 6-4 Rod Hundley, just before him, and 6-4 Rod Thorn, just afterward. Center on the WVU All-America team would be 6-9 Mark Workman, who played in 1950-52. Rounding out the five is 6-3 Leland Byrd, an All-American in 1947.

West, in 1960 and 1959, had two of the three best seasons in WVU history, with 29.3 and 26.6 averages. Hundley comes in between. West averaged 24.8 over his career, Hundley 24.5. Lloyd Sharrer averaged 13.4 rebounds a game and West was second at 13.3. Workman had the best single season, at 17.5 a game in 1952. Carl Head, who graduated last year, hit 53.3 per cent of his shots in 1966 and 52.9 per cent in 1967, the two best marks in the school's history.

Hundley holds the scoring record with 54 points against Furman in 1957. West grabbed 31 rebounds against GW in 1960, tying the mark of Mack Isner against VPI in 1952. The team high of 127 points was tied against George Washington last season and the opponent's high of 118 was tied by Syracuse last year also.

Over the years West Virginia has gotten the better of most opponents, but a few who hold advantages over the Mountaineers are Allegheny 12-10, Duke 14-4, Duquesne 16-5, Kentucky 8-4, Marietta 15-12, NYU 10-7, Navy 7-5, Syracuse 8-5 and Temple 17-16. Longest series is with Pitt, WVU leading 56-50.

The 1967-68 roster shows 9 of the 16 players are not from West Virginia. The freshman team has 12 of 15 players from the Mountain State, however. Marv Snowden of Pittsburgh Schenley, who left school after playing five games for the freshmen last year, was the best shooter on the freshman team, both from the field and the foul line. He also averaged 19.8 ppg.

THE PIPERS' nine-game win streak is the longest by a Pittsburgh sports team since the Pirates posted a nine-gamer in May 1965. Art Heyman, who hasn't played in a losing effort since he joined the Pipers from New Jersey, is known as "King Arthur" to his teammates.

THERE'S AN amusing article in this week's TV guide concerning the competitiveness between the marching bands that put on halftime shows during football games on TV. What the sponsors and the bands fail to realize is that a true football fan will never watch a halftime show, but turn to another channel to watch another football game during the halftime. And it's a rare Saturday or Sunday that there aren't at least two football games on at once.

MIDLAND'S Norm Vanlier is the leading scorer for St. Francis, Pa., which is 4-2 on the year with a 98.0 average. Vanlier has scored 113 points in six games for a 18.8 average. Bill Snodgrass, a sophomore who led Mercer to its Class B championship two years ago, is averaging 20.0 for the Frankies, but has missed one game. Vanlier is hitting 43.7 per cent of his field goals, 67.4 per cent of his foul shots and is the second best rebounder on the team with a 11.7 average.

Daryle Lamonica Named Most Valuable In AFL

By CHARLES MCMURTRY
Associated Press Sports Writer

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A quarterback whose best season at Notre Dame was 5-5, who was drafted 24th by a team that never started him, then traded him away, is 1967's Most Valuable Player in the American Football League.

He is Daryle Lamonica of the Oakland Raiders, champion of the AFL's Western Division. His selection by 27 sports writers and 'casters for The Associated Press award was announced Thursday.

Informed of the honor as he was putting on his uniform, Lamonica gasped, "O-o-o-h!" in surprise, then exclaimed: "I'm almost speechless.

"That's one of the highest honors I've ever had. It's a once in a lifetime thing. It is fantastic. It's really kind of a shock — and a great feeling.

"I can't give my teammates enough credit. I made a lot of mistakes. They are patient all season and helped me a lot."

Oakland's Coach of the Year, John Rauch, also selected for The AP by sports writers and sports casters, warmly applauded Daryle's selection.

Rauch — in only his second year as a head coach — is responsible for the trade that brought Lamonica from Buffalo last spring. He patiently tutored Lamonica in the intricacies of his complex offense system.

Under them, Oakland won the Western title with a 12-1 mark and goes for an AFL record in the regular season finale here Sunday against Buffalo. San Diego set the record at 12-2 in 1961.

Buffalo tied it in 1964, when it won the championship. Lamonica, a reserve quarterback, came off the bench five times to win games in which the Bills were trailing.

In addition to the East Liverpool-Aliquippa game at the M.A. tonight, there are four other area clashes tonight and one tomorrow.

Wellsville hopes to rebound from a 66-34 trouncing by Steubenville Central when it travels to Beaver Falls to engage the Tigers of former East Liverpool coach Frank Chan. Beaver Falls is one of the weaker teams in WPIAL Section 3, but they are still a powerful aggregation, sporting a 4-1 mark so far. The lone loss was to New Brighton, 70-69, with wins coming over Beaver 61-57, Mercer 86-53, Hickory 60-47 and Pittsburgh Oliver 87-41. Last year Beaver Falls was 9-13, 3-11 in Section 3 play. Darrell Jones, Bill Ross and Jerome Johnson are the top returnees for the Tigers. Jones and Johnson are 6-1, Ross 6-3. Roger Peterson, 6-3, and Dan Davis, 6-0, are other standouts.

Bob Dawson's team, 3-2, is led by Tom McClain, averaging 14.6, and Jerry Wyse, hitting 13.2.

Midland, 2-3, also hopes to rebound, having been smothered 74-36 by East Liverpool Friday. The Leopards entertain Burgettstown, a Class B school that won its first game Tuesday, a 48-45 decision over West Allegheny. Losses came to South Side Beaver 77-53, Canon McMillan 86-55, Weirton Madonna 72-65 and Hopewell 101-50. Dave Vanlier is averaging 18.4 to lead Ed Olkowski's team and Howard Leak is next with 14.0.

South Side, 4-2, travels to Sewickley Academy. The Panthers, which have been a high school for only a few years, lost to Neville 58-53 Tuesday. Ron Peden leads John Nace's team with a 19.5 average, and Dan Hartzell is hitting at 12.7 and Tom Doak at 11.7.

Western Beaver, which won its first after seven losses Tuesday, will be hard pressed to make it two in a row. The Golden Beavers host powerful Monaca, 5-0. The Indians have bested Seneca Valley 99-57, Ambridge 97-81, Quaker Valley 105-70, North Catholic 81-45 and Coraopolis 97-49 for a 95.8 ppg mark. Sam Liberatore leads John Dudo's club with a 14.0 average, but close behind are Chuck Kelker at 13.3, Darryl Dye at 12.7 and John Petchel at 11.3.

Saturday night Leetonia travels to North Jackson. Art Kovacs' Bears, off for two weeks, sport a 2-1 mark. Allen Gibson leads the team with a 16.7 average, Ed Casey is at 14.0, Jay Bland 10.7 and Dan Bell 10.3.

Pipers Win 10th Straight; Minnesota Also Wins

By The Associated Press

The Pittsburgh Pipers are putting all kinds of pressure on the Minnesota Muskies, but Minnesota seems to be bearing up under it all right.

The Pipers won their 10th straight American Basketball Association game Thursday night, downing Houston 114-105, but the Muskies beat New Jersey 105-94 to keep its one-game grasp on the Eastern Division lead over red-hot Pittsburgh.

In other ABA games Thursday night, Dallas beat Kentucky 120-99 and Oakland downed Denver 116-94.

The Pipers and Mavericks were tied no less than 14 times in their game at Pittsburgh before a pair of baskets by Art Heyman put the Pipers ahead for good. Connie Hawkins led the Pittsburgh scorers with 29 points and Jerry Pettway led Houston with 23.

Minnesota didn't take the lead for good until early in the fourth quarter. Mel Daniels had 23 points for the Muskies and Tony Jackson had 21 for the Americans in the game in Minnesota.

Dallas' 21-point victory margin was the largest it has ever enjoyed. The balanced Chaparral attack had seven players in double figures with Bob Verga getting 24. Darel Carrier had 28 points to lead the Colonels in a game at Dallas.

Oakland erupted for 38 points in the fourth quarter against Denver in breaking up what had been a close game on the West Coast. The Oaks opened up a 91-87 lead with five minutes to play and then pulled away. The Rockets were held to 19 points in the last period.

Levern Tart, the league's top scorer, paced the balanced Oakland attack with 27 points. Wayne Hightower was high for Denver with 23.

Earl Monroe scored 21 of his 25 points in the second half and Kevin Loughery and Ray Scott added 21 points each to lead the Bullets to victory. Keith Erickson had a career high of 34 points for the Bulls in the contest at Chicago.

Yastrzemski (Who Else) Wins Slugging Title In AL

Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota was third with .558, followed by Al Kaline of Detroit with .541 and Frank Howard of Washington with .511.

Yastrzemski, whose .536 mark topped AL sluggers in 1965, also drew 91 walks, including 11 intentional, and was hit by four pitches. He grounded into just five double plays, compared with the league high of 21 by Baltimore's Brooks Robinson.

Killebrew drew 131 walks to lead the league for the second straight year. He and Bill Freehan of Detroit tied for the most intentional walks with 15 each. Howard struck out the most times, 155.

The champion Red Sox won the team slugging title with a .395 percentage. Detroit was second with .376, followed by Baltimore with .372 and Minnesota with .369.

Cronin announced that 24 major league records and 23 AL marks were broken during the 1967 season. In addition, 19 major league records and 12 AL marks were equalled.

Chicago relief pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm extended five of his individual career major league records. They were most consecutive errorless games (247), most games as a reliever (813), most games won in relief (107), most games finished in relief (515), and most innings pitched in relief (1,570).

Mickey Mantle of New York and Dean Chance of Minnesota broke two major league marks. Mantle's were most career strikeouts (1,613) and most years striking out 100 or more times (8). Chance set his records for a pitcher by striking out 58 times for a four year total of 251.

The Yankees set a major league club record with 100 homers, the 44th season in which they have hit 100 or more.

The American League's 10 clubs set an all-time major league low by hitting only .236. The previous low of .239 was shared by the American and National leagues in 1908.

Flyers Top North Stars; Penguins Lose To Kings

By The Associated Press

The Flyers blanked Minnesota 6-0 Thursday night, ending goalie Maniago's shutout streak at three games—one short of the National Hockey League record—and hanging on to first place in the league's West Division race.

In the only other game scheduled, the Los Angeles Kings trimmed Pittsburgh 4-1 to remain two points behind Philadelphia in the scramble for the expansion division pennant.

Maniago, whom the North Stars picked up from New York in last summer's expansion draft, extended his scoreless string to 188 minutes and 38 seconds before Pat Hannigan beat him with a 10-foot shot early in the first period at Philadelphia.

Claude Laforge also scored in the first period for the Flyers and goals by Forbes Kennedy, Gary Dornhoefer, Leon Rochefort and Lou Angotti completed the rout.

While the Flyers were peppering Maniago with 39 shots on goal, Philadelphia goaltender Bernie Parent came up with 31 saves in nailing his second shutout of the season.

Bill Flett's goal late in the second period broke a 1-1 tie at Los Angeles and the Kings wrapped up the victory on third period markers by Bob Wall and Brian Smith.

Salem Tops Ravenna

The Salem Quakers, starting three sophomores and two juniors, evened their record at 3-3 last night with a 53-50 win over Ravenna at Salem.

Two sophomores, Larry Hrvatin and Tom Fisher, led Salem with 23 and 12 points respectively. Jim Rigby had 17 for the losers, now 1-6.

Salem took an 11-6 first period lead and led by between two and nine points the rest of the game.

Rose Bowl Rivals Work And Have Fun

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The newly arrived Indiana football team split the day with work and fun today, while the same was true of its Rose Bowl rival, University of Southern California.

Morning workouts were slated for both teams, the Hoosiers of the Big Ten in Pasadena's Brookside Park, and the Trojans of the Pacific-8 on their own Bovard team.

UCLA, Bradley Collide Tonight

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

One of these nights some team may shoot a phenomenal 80 per cent from the field and make college basketball history by upsetting UCLA and Mr. A.

It may be tonight when the national champion Bruins and their Mr. A., as towering Lew Alcindor is called on the campus, go after their 38th consecutive victory against Bradley in Los angeles.

The Missouri Valley Conference Braves from Peoria, Ill., have an eight-game winning streak going and are primed for an all-out effort against the Bruins who haven't played in two weeks.

UCLA, top-ranked in The Associated Press poll and Bradley No. 10, did not play Thursday night. Boston College was the only team in the AP Top Ten to see action. The eighth-ranked Eagles routed Providence 88-70 in the final of the Boston Garden Christmas Invitational tourney behind Jim Kissane's 27 points and 19 rebounds.

Kansas and Louisville, which dropped out of the AP Top Ten last week, battled through two overtimes before 13,977 at Louisville before the Jayhawks turned the tables on the Cardinals 84-76. Louisville beat Kansas 57-51 at Lawrence several weeks ago.

Jo Jo White threw in 21 points to lead the Jayhawks, who came from behind to tie the regulation game at 60-60. Butch Beard, with 24, and Westley Unseld, with 23, led the Cardinals who rallied to tie the first overtime at 72-72, but got only four points in the second OT when Bruce Sloan and Phil Harmon got hot for Kansas.

Marshall's Thundering Herd won the Marshall Invitational at Huntington, W.Va. by defeating Manhattan 85-78 as George Stone, Bob Redd and Jim Davidson each tallied 21 points.

Arizona State edged Oklahoma 59-58 on Roger Detter's two free throws in the last minute and qualified to meet Michigan in tonight's final of the Sun Devil Classic at Phoenix. Michkigan whipped Oregon State 80-61 in the other first round game behind the 22 points by soph Rudy Ponjanovich and his 20 rebounds.

Utexas at El Paso and San Francisco won the first-round games of the Sun Carnival at El Paso. The Miners walloped Maryland 70-53 and the Dons overcame Southern Illinois 71-55.

Notre Dame beat Utah State 73-72 at Logan on four straight free throws by Jim Derrig in the last 28 seconds. Toledo, playing at home, survived a closing rally by Seattle to beat the Chieftains 87-85 after a three-point play by Mike Murnen put the Rockets ahead for good at 82-80.

Utah made it nine in a row by edging Southern California at home 87-84. Georgia Tech survived a late surge by Texas Christian to beat the Horned Frogs at Atlanta 70-67. TCU got nine points in the last 90 seconds, but lost the ball in the waning seconds when Mickey McCarthy was called for traveling.

Steve Hunt, with 26 points, lead Army over Rice at Houston 64-58. Bryan Clare, with two three-points play in the closing minutes, sparked Denver over Texas Tech at Lubbock 73-63. Soph Jimmy Collins got 15 points in the second half to pace New Mexico State to an 89-76 road triumph over Wichita State. Colorado State U. downed Missouri 64-52 at Fort Collins.

In other games, LaSalle beat N.C. State 68-63, Bowling Green downed Virginia 76-72, Holy Cross took American U. 81-57, Georgetown humbled Fairfield 78-61 and Alabama defeated Arkansas 82-65.

"That's one of the highest honors I've ever had. It's a once in a lifetime thing. It is fantastic. It's really kind of a shock — and a great feeling.

"I can't give my teammates enough credit. I made a lot of mistakes. They are patient all season and helped me a lot."

Oakland's Coach of the Year, John Rauch, also selected for The AP by sports writers and sports casters, warmly applauded Daryle's selection.

Rauch — in only his second year as a head coach — is responsible for the trade that brought Lamonica from Buffalo last spring. He patiently tutored Lamonica in the intricacies of his complex offense system.

Under them, Oakland won the Western title with a 12-1 mark and goes for an AFL record in the regular season finale here Sunday against Buffalo. San Diego set the record at 12-2 in 1961.

Buffalo tied it in 1964, when it won the championship. Lamonica, a reserve quarterback, came off the bench five times to win games in which the Bills were trailing.

In addition to the East Liverpool-Aliquippa game at the M.A. tonight, there are four other area clashes tonight and one tomorrow.

Wellsville hopes to rebound from a 66-34 trouncing by Steubenville Central when it travels to Beaver Falls to engage the Tigers of former East Liverpool coach Frank Chan. Beaver Falls is one of the weaker teams in WPIAL Section 3, but they are still a powerful aggregation, sporting a 4-1 mark so far. The lone loss was to New Brighton, 70-69, with wins coming over Beaver 61-57, Mercer 86-53, Hickory 60-47 and Pittsburgh Oliver 87-41. Last year Beaver Falls was 9-13, 3-11 in Section 3 play. Darrell Jones, Bill Ross and Jerome Johnson are the top returnees for the Tigers. Jones and Johnson are 6-1, Ross 6-3. Roger Peterson, 6-3, and Dan Davis, 6-0, are other standouts.

Bob Dawson's team, 3-2, is led by Tom McClain, averaging 14.6, and Jerry Wyse, hitting 13.2.

Midland, 2-3, also hopes to rebound, having been smothered 74-36 by East Liverpool Friday. The Leopards entertain Burgettstown, a Class B school that won its first game Tuesday, a 48-45 decision over West Allegheny. Losses came to South Side Beaver 77-53, Canon McMillan 86-55, Weirton Madonna 72-65 and Hopewell 101-50. Dave Vanlier is averaging 18.4 to lead Ed Olkowski's team and Howard Leak is next with 14.0.

South Side, 4-2, travels to Sewickley Academy. The Panthers, which have been a high school for only a few years, lost to Neville 58-53 Tuesday. Ron Peden leads John Nace's team with a 19.5 average, and Dan Hartzell is hitting at 12.7 and Tom Doak at 11.7.

Western Beaver, which won its first after seven losses Tuesday, will be hard pressed to make it two in a row. The Golden Beavers host powerful Monaca, 5-0. The Indians have bested Seneca Valley 99-57, Ambridge 97-81, Quaker Valley 105-70, North Catholic 81-45 and Coraopolis 97-49 for a 95.8 ppg mark. Sam Liberatore leads John Dudo's club with a 14.0 average, but close behind are Chuck Kelker at 13.3, Darryl Dye at 12.7 and John Petchel at 11.3.

Saturday night Leetonia travels to North Jackson. Art Kovacs' Bears, off for two weeks, sport a 2-1 mark. Allen Gibson leads the team with a 16.7 average, Ed Casey is at 14.0, Jay Bland 10.7 and Dan Bell 10.3.

Pipers Win 10th Straight; Minnesota Also Wins

By The Associated Press

The Pittsburgh Pipers are putting all kinds of pressure on the Minnesota Muskies, but Minnesota seems to be bearing up under it all right.

The Pipers won their 10th straight American Basketball Association game Thursday night, downing Houston 114-105, but the Muskies beat New Jersey 105-94 to keep its one-game grasp on the Eastern Division lead over red-hot Pittsburgh.

In other ABA games Thursday night, Dallas beat Kentucky 120-99 and Oakland downed Denver 116-94.

The Pipers and Mavericks were tied no less than 14 times in their game at Pittsburgh before a pair of baskets by Art Heyman put the Pipers ahead for good. Connie Hawkins led the Pittsburgh scorers with 29 points and Jerry Pettway led Houston with 23.

Minnesota didn't take the lead for good until early in the fourth quarter. Mel Daniels had 23 points for the Muskies and Tony Jackson had 21 for the Americans in the game in Minnesota.

Dallas' 21-point victory margin was the largest it has ever enjoyed. The balanced Chaparral attack had seven players in double figures with Bob Verga getting 24. Darel Carrier had 28 points to lead the Colonels in a game at Dallas.

Oakland erupted for 38 points in the fourth quarter against Denver in breaking up what had been a close game on the West Coast. The Oaks opened up a 91-87 lead with five minutes to play and then pulled away. The Rockets were held to 19 points in the last period.

Levern Tart, the league's top scorer, paced the balanced Oakland attack with 27 points. Wayne Hightower was high for Denver with 23.

Earl Monroe scored 21 of his 25 points in the second half and Kevin Loughery and Ray Scott added 21 points each to lead the Bullets to victory. Keith Erickson had a career high of 34 points for the Bulls in the contest at Chicago.

Yastrzemski (Who Else) Wins Slugging Title In AL

Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota was third with .558, followed by Al Kaline of Detroit with .541 and Frank Howard of Washington with .511.

Yastrzemski, whose .536 mark topped AL sluggers in 1965, also drew 91 walks, including 11 intentional, and was hit by four pitches. He grounded into just five double plays, compared with the league high of 21 by Baltimore's Brooks Robinson.

Killebrew drew 131 walks to lead the league for the second straight year. He and Bill Freehan of Detroit tied for the most intentional walks with 15 each. Howard struck out the most times, 155.

The champion Red Sox won the team slugging title with a .395 percentage. Detroit was second with .376, followed by Baltimore with .372 and Minnesota with .369.

Cronin announced that 24 major league records and 23 AL marks were broken during the 1967 season. In addition, 19 major league records and 12 AL marks were equalled.

Chicago relief pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm extended five of his individual career major league records. They were most consecutive errorless games (247), most games as a reliever (813), most games won in relief (107), most games finished in relief (515), and most innings pitched in relief (1,570).

Mickey Mantle of New York and Dean Chance of Minnesota broke two major league marks. Mantle's were most career strikeouts (1,613) and most years striking out 100 or more times (8). Chance set his records for a pitcher by striking out 58 times for a four year total of 251.

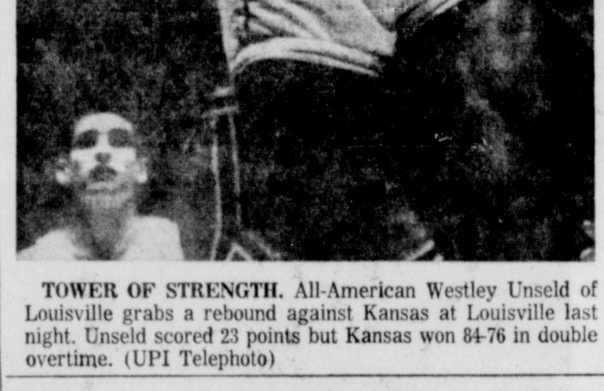

The Yankees set a major league club record with 100 homers, the 44th season in which they have hit 100 or more.

The American League's 10 clubs set an all-time major league low by hitting only .236. The previous low of .239 was shared by the American and National leagues in 1908.

Flyers Top North Stars; Penguins Lose To Kings

By The Associated Press

The Flyers blanked Minnesota 6-0 Thursday night, ending goalie Maniago's shutout streak at three games—one short of the National Hockey League record—and hanging on to first place in the league's West Division race.

In the only other game scheduled, the Los Angeles Kings trimmed Pittsburgh 4-1 to remain two points behind Philadelphia in the scramble for the expansion division pennant.

Maniago, whom the North Stars picked up from New York in last summer's expansion draft, extended his scoreless string to 188 minutes and 38 seconds before Pat Hannigan beat him with a 10-foot shot early in the first period at Philadelphia.

Claude Laforge also scored in the first period for the Flyers and goals by Forbes Kennedy, Gary Dornhoefer, Leon Rochefort and Lou Angotti completed the rout.

While the Flyers were peppering Maniago with 39 shots on goal, Philadelphia goaltender Bernie Parent came up with 31 saves in nailing his second shutout of the season.

Bill Flett's goal late in the second period broke a 1-1 tie at Los Angeles and the Kings wrapped up the victory on third period markers by Bob Wall and Brian Smith.

Salem Tops Ravenna

The Salem Quakers, starting three sophomores and two juniors, evened their record at 3-3 last night with a 53-50 win over Ravenna at Salem.

Two sophomores, Larry Hrvatin and Tom Fisher, led Salem with 23 and 12 points respectively. Jim Rigby had 17 for the losers, now 1-6.

Salem took an 11-6 first period lead and led by between two and nine points the rest of the game.

Rose Bowl Rivals Work And Have Fun

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The newly arrived Indiana football team split the day with work and fun today, while the same was true of its Rose Bowl rival, University of Southern California.

Morning workouts were slated for both teams, the Hoosiers of the Big Ten in Pasadena's Brookside Park, and the Trojans of the Pacific-8 on their own Bovard team.

UCLA, Bradley Collide Tonight

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

One of these nights some team may shoot a phenomenal 80 per cent from the field and make college basketball history by upsetting UCLA and Mr. A.

It may be tonight when the national champion Bruins and their Mr. A., as towering Lew Alcindor is called on the campus, go after their 38th consecutive victory against Bradley in Los angeles.

The Missouri Valley Conference Braves from Peoria, Ill., have an eight-game winning streak going and are primed for an all-out effort against the Bruins who haven't played in two weeks.

UCLA, top-ranked in The Associated Press poll and Bradley No. 10, did not play Thursday night. Boston College was the only team in the AP Top Ten to see action. The eighth-ranked Eagles routed Providence 88-70 in the final of the Boston Garden Christmas Invitational tourney behind Jim Kissane's 27 points and 19 rebounds.

Kansas and Louisville, which dropped out of the AP Top Ten last week, battled through two overtimes before 13,977 at Louisville before the Jayhawks turned the tables on the Cardinals 84-76. Louisville beat Kansas 57-51 at Lawrence several weeks ago.

Jo Jo White threw in 21 points to lead the Jayhawks, who came from behind to tie the regulation game at 60-60. Butch Beard, with 24, and Westley Unseld, with 23, led the Cardinals who rallied to tie the first overtime at 72-72, but got only four points in the second OT when Bruce Sloan and Phil Harmon got hot for Kansas.

Marshall's Thundering Herd won the Marshall Invitational at Huntington, W.Va. by defeating Manhattan 85-78 as George Stone, Bob Redd and Jim Davidson each tallied 21 points.

Arizona State edged Oklahoma 59-58 on Roger Detter's two free throws in the last minute and qualified to meet Michigan in tonight's final of the Sun Devil Classic at Phoenix. Michigan whipped Oregon State 80-61 in the other first round game behind the 22 points by soph Rudy Ponjanovich and his 20 rebounds.

Utexas at El Paso and San Francisco won the first-round games of the Sun Carnival at El Paso. The Miners walloped Maryland 70-53 and the Dons overcame Southern Illinois 71-55.

Notre Dame beat Utah State 73-72 at Logan on four straight free throws by Jim Derrig in the last 28 seconds. Toledo, playing at home, survived a closing rally by Seattle to beat the Chieftains 87-85 after a three-point play by Mike Murnen put the Rockets ahead for good at 82-80.

Utah made it nine in a row by edging Southern California at home 87-84. Georgia Tech survived a late surge by Texas Christian to beat the Horned Frogs at Atlanta 70-67. TCU got nine points in the last 90 seconds, but lost the ball in the waning seconds when Mickey McCarthy was called for traveling.

Steve Hunt, with 26 points, lead Army over Rice at Houston 64-58. Bryan Clare, with two three-points play in the closing minutes, sparked Denver over Texas Tech at Lubbock 73-63. Soph Jimmy Collins got 15 points in the second half to pace New Mexico State to an 89-76 road triumph over Wichita State. Colorado State U. downed Missouri 64-52 at Fort Collins.

In other games, LaSalle beat N.C. State 68-63, Bowling Green downed Virginia 76-72, Holy Cross took American U. 81-57, Georgetown humbled Fairfield 78-61 and Alabama defeated Arkansas 82-65.

Wisconsin Cold May Hurt Rams

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers had a workout slated in the cold crisp Wisconsin air today before taking off for Milwaukee and Saturday's game with the Los Angeles Rams for the championship of the National Football League's Western Conference.

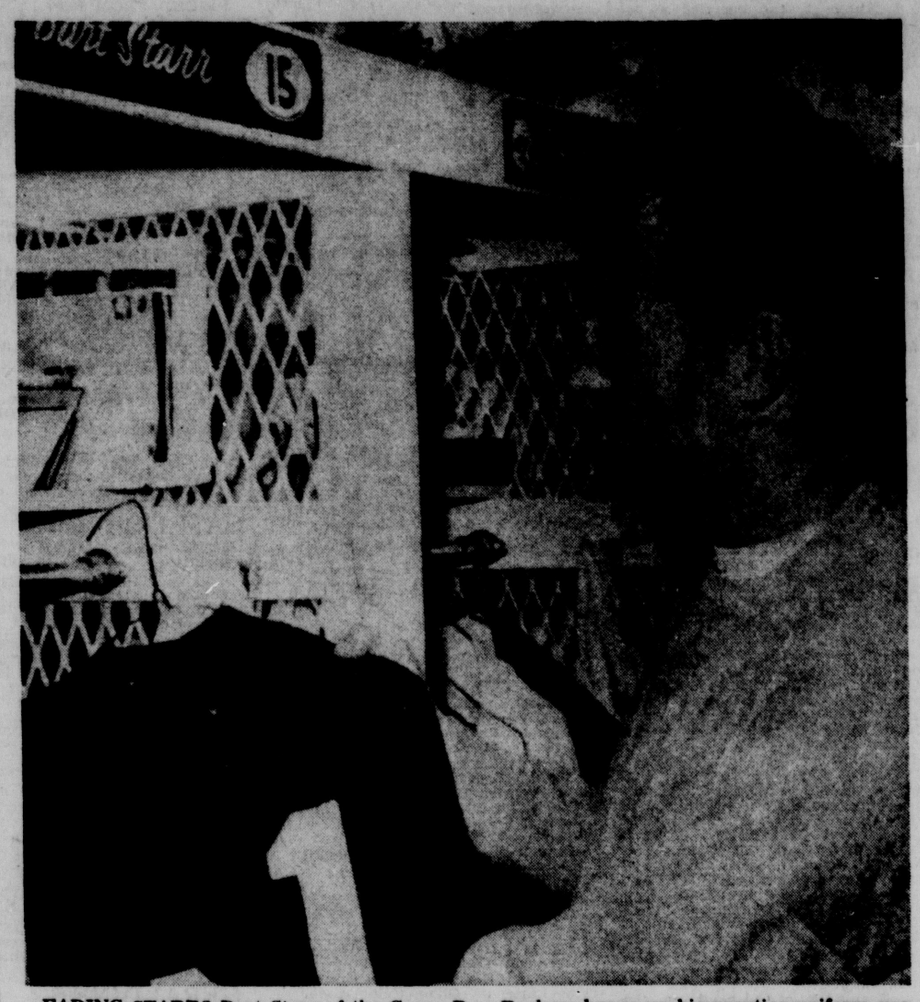

The Rams arrived in Milwaukee Wednesday night as the thermometer registered 20 degrees. Earlier in the day the temperature was a record 57.

Weather conditions may prove an important factor in the title game at Milwaukee County Stadium. The forecast for Saturday is: mostly cloudy and cold with high around 20 degrees and westerly winds about 10 miles per hour at game time.

The fact that the Packers are more acclimated to all kinds of Wisconsin weather may prove to their advantage. Hands stiffen in the cold and frigid winds can slow speedy runners in a very short while.

When the Rams landed in Milwaukee, Coach George Allen said he didn't believe the weather would be a factor in the game unless the field is slick.

The Packers, with a long crippled list, apparently could use whatever advantage is available. They've had to use rookies in place of veterans recently—halfback Travis Williams and quarterback Don Horn, who may see service this weekend.

FADING STARR? Bart Starr of the Green Bay Packers hangs up his practice uniform yesterday in Green Bay. It will be for the last time this year if the Packers lose to Los Angeles in Milwaukee tomorrow. (UPI Telephoto)

W. Reserve Tops United

The loss was the third in five starts for Jack Mills' Golden Eagles, while Western Reserve is 4-1. United led in field goals 25-23, but the home team hit 16 of 21 foul shots to gain the win.

Tom Wood came off the bench to get 20 points for United and Tad Drake added 19. Keck had 17, Mike Owen 15 and Obenhauf 12 for the winners. Western Reserve hit 45 per cent and United 40 per cent from the field, but United led in rebounds 36-34. Bill Kibler had 12 and Owen 10 to lead their teams.

United easily won the reserve game 62-23 as Dana Holmes had 13 for the winners and Rodney Goddard 7 for the losers.

Toledo Outlasts Seattle

By The Associated Press

Three Ohio college teams, anxious to pick up last minute victories before the Christmas holiday, polished off stubborn basketball competition Thursday night.

Toledo's Rockets outlasted an unrelenting Seattle rally to claim an 87-85 victory; Youngstown turned back previously undefeated Wisconsin State 88-83; and Bowling Green defeated Virginia 76-72.

In two other games involving Ohio teams, Kent State snapped a four-game losing streak by romping over hapless San Francisco State 70-54 and Buffalo edged past Ohio Wesleyan 66-62.

The Rockets watched a 22-9 lead vanish to a 44-deadlock at halftime and then fought off inspired Seattle constantly in the second half when the lead was swapped six times.

Six straight free throws in the last two minutes gave Youngstown its victory, the fifth straight for the Penguins. John McElroy's 37 points sparkled the Youngstown attack.

Big Walt Piatkowski's jump shot in the final two minutes gave Bowling Green a 73-72 lead and the Falcons hung on to victory in the consolation game of the Marshall Invitational at Huntington, W.Va. Piatkowski was the game's leading scorer with 26 points.

Kent State deployed a balanced attack against San Francisco State as the West Coast team lost its second in eight outings. Doug Grayson was high man for the Flashes with 19 points.

Rams, Cowboys Picked In Divisional Games

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It is hard to imagine a Vince Lombardi-coached team losing three in a row but the Handpicker is tabbing the aroused Los Angeles Rams to beat the Green Bay Packers Saturday in the big pro football game of the weekend.

Dallas should rise to the occasion in the Cotton Bowl and knock off the Cleveland Browns Sunday in the Eastern Conference final to set up a Ram-Cowboy battle for the NFL title Dec. 31 at Los Angeles.

All are on television (CBS).

Houston, needing only a win or tie over improved Miami Saturday night to eliminate the New York Jets, should qualify for the AFL championship game at Oakland, also Dec. 31.

The regular NFL season ended last Sunday with a 72-31-9 record for this groggy selector. With three to go in the AFL it's 39-14-2 for an over-all total of 111-45-11.

Incidentally, we did pick three of the four NFL division winners in the preseason series with the Rams, Packers and Cowboys coming through. But Pittsburgh? What happened, Bill Austin?

NFL

Los Angeles 27, Green Bay 20-(Saturday)-The Rams had to get lucky with a blocked punt in the final minute to shade the Packers 27-24. Green Bay crippled then and still lists Jim Grabowski as doubtful. Donny Anderson and Ben Wilson to play with injuries. Home field and weather advantage would seem to give Packers the advantage but the Fearsome Foursome chased Bart Starr out of the pocket two weeks ago and should do it again after manhandling John Unitas last week. Rams have momentum. Packers are the old pros. We just have to believe this is the year of the Rams.

Dallas 21, Cleveland 14-(Sunday)-Battle of battered quarterbacks with Doc Meredith playing despite broken nose and damaged knee and Frank Ryan troubled by ankle and arm injuries. When they met opening day Cowboys won 21-14 on two TD passes by Meredith and interception by Chuck Howley. Dallas intercepted Ryan three times and smeared him four while holding Leroy Kelly to 11 yards and Ernie Green to six. Cowboys inconsistent, but best at home. Browns finished strong, forgetting last week's second string effort at Philadelphia.

AFL

Houston 21, Miami 14 (Saturday night)-Oilers need only a tie to wrap up Eastern title. Dolphins gave them real trouble Dec. 3 but Houston won 17-14 despite two TD passes by Bob Griese. Hoyle Granger ran for 111 yards and Woodie Campbell for 141. Defense should win it for Houston.

New York 24, San Diego 21 (Sunday)-If Houston clinches Saturday, forget this one. The only excitement could be Namath's quest for a pro passing record. If Oilers fall, Jets can force tie playoff by win.

Oakland 28, Buffalo 17-(Sunday)-Raiders won 24-20 when it counted. This is a nothing game except for Daryle Lamonica who sat on Bills' bench for years. Raiders already in, Bills out of everything.

Adams May Move Oilers To Seattle

HOUSTON (AP) — The oil man who owns the Houston Oilers, K. S. "Bud" Adams Jr., says he is tired of making up a $300,000 deficit each year for the privilege of watching seven home games in Rice Stadium. Seattle, he says, might be a happier home for his club.

Making his threat to move public Thursday, Adams said his decision is up to Houston fans.

"I'll have a good indication whether they want us to stay after we begin our season ticket sale in February," he said. "We lost more than 4,000 season tickets this year compared with last year. If we were to go down to 7,000 in 1968 there's no question I'd move the team."

The American Football League, which Adams helped found, has awarded a franchise to Seattle, which votes Feb. 13 on a $43 million bond issue to be issued for a stadium somewhat like the Harris County domed stadium, the Astrodome, in which the Oilers do not play because of what Adams considers unreasonable rent.

7-2 Cager Steve Turner Recruited

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Ever hear of Steve Turner? If you're a basketball fan, chances are you will.

At 7-foot-2, Turner is taller than UCLA's Lew Alcindor, still growing and is being courted by most of the nation's major college basketball teams.

In fact, his doctor figures that the senior at suburban Bartlett High School may reach 7-5.

Turner, who can effortlessly touch the backboards, has led Bartlett to a 12-0 won-lost record and the State's No. 1 ranking in The Associated Press high school poll.

"Yes sir, he's the biggest reason our team is No. 1 in the state," declares Bartlett Coach Glenn Essary.

Among those taking notice, he said, are Tennessee, Memphis State, North Carolina, Georgia, Louisiana State, Mississippi, Mississippi State, Georgia Tech, Vanderbilt, Southern Cal, Alabama Auburn, Michigan State, Tulsa, Louisville, Cincinnati "and just about every college in the country."

Steve now weighs 240 pounds and Essary has had him running track and on a weight program since he was in the ninth grade.

Chargers' Post Offensive AFL Rookie Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Post, the San Diego running back who was overlooked for three rounds in the professional football draft, was named the American Football League's Offensive Rookie of the Year today by an Associated Press panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Post, who played brilliantly when Paul Lowe was injured early in the season, attracted 17 of the 27 ballots cast by three-man committees in each of the AFL's nine league cities.

Gene Upshaw, Oakland's tough offensive guard, and Miami's fast developing quarterback, Bob Griese, drew four votes each while Denver running back Floyd Little and Miami's Jack Clancy, a split end, each picked up one ballot.

Post, at 5-foot-9 and 190 pounds, is one of pro football's smallest running backs, but his size never was a handicap. He has gained 647 yards in 156 carries, a 4.1 average, and has scored seven touchdowns.

"When you're smaller," says Post, "You have to have speed and quickness or you're dead. My size hasn't hindered me."

It almost did. Charger Coach Sid Gillman had planned on using the youngster as a backup man at flanker behind Lance Alworth and Gary Garrison, two of the AFL's best at that position.

His speed and size had convinced Gillman that Post would be an ideal man for the job. "When you get a fellow like this, usually if you place him on the outside, he can gain more ground there than anywhere else," says Gillman.

So Post started in camp working behind Alworth and Garrison. He was, to say the least, disappointed.

"I knew those two guys were so great that I'd never get a chance to play," he says. "When they moved me back to the backfield, you can imagine how happy I was."

Backfield Coach Charlie Waller was the man most responsible for the move. Waller had scouted Post when the little guy was playing his college ball at the University of Houston, and hounded Gillman to shift him to the Chargers' running corps.

Crippled QBs Meet In Cotton Bowl Sunday

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — It's crippled quarterback against crippled quarterback Sunday when the Browns of Cleveland invade Dallas for the playoff game in the Eastern Division of the National Football League.

The quarterbacks in question—Frank Ryan of Cleveland and Don Meredith of Dallas — were generally conceded at the top of the heap in the NFL last year. This season, Ryan winds up as No. 7, just enough to edge Meredith, No. 8.

Each of the teams has lost five games, while winning nine, and there is nothing gaudy about the records. But in an oddity of the new four-division split up in the league, the Browns and the Pokes are having a playoff.

"The Browns have to be concerned about Ryan, the way we are about Meredith," said Landry. "Whichever quarterback has the good day—that will do it."

Meredith has had his worst and finest days against Cleveland. In 1965, he threw a long-remembered pass that a Cleveland player caught when he had first down and the victory to go from the Brown one-yard line.

Last year at Cleveland, Meredith threw four interceptions as Dallas blew an unbeaten record up to that point. Then Dallas whipped the Browns 21-14 at Cleveland this season, causing Landry to say as the Cowboy plane cleared the Ohio city's skyline, "Boy, am I glad to get out of this town."

Then, there was what Dandy Don calls his finest hour, and it came against the Browns.

Last season, on Thanksgiving Day fittingly, Meredith all but blew Cleveland off the gridiron. "I've had better days throwing the ball," said the Dandy. "But I don't think I ever had everything working together like it did against the Browns in that one." Dallas won 26-14.

Wisconsin Cold May Hurt Rams

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers had a workout slated in the cold crisp Wisconsin air today before taking off for Milwaukee and Saturday's game with the Los Angeles Rams for the championship of the National Football League's Western Conference.

The Rams arrived in Milwaukee Wednesday night as the thermometer registered 20 degrees. Earlier in the day the temperature was a record 57.

Weather conditions may prove an important factor in the title game at Milwaukee County Stadium. The forecast for Saturday is: mostly cloudy and cold with high around 20 degrees and westerly winds about 10 miles per hour at game time.

The fact that the Packers are more acclimated to all kinds of Wisconsin weather may prove to their advantage. Hands stiffen in the cold and frigid winds can slow speedy runners in a very short while.

When the Rams landed in Milwaukee, Coach George Allen said he didn't believe the weather would be a factor in the game unless the field is slick.

The Packers, with a long crippled list, apparently could use whatever advantage is available. They've had to use rookies in place of veterans recently—halfback Travis Williams and quarterback Don Horn, who may see service this weekend.

FADING STARR? Bart Starr of the Green Bay Packers hangs up his practice uniform yesterday in Green Bay. It will be for the last time this year if the Packers lose to Los Angeles in Milwaukee tomorrow. (UPI Telephoto)

W. Reserve Tops United

The loss was the third in five starts for Jack Mills' Golden Eagles, while Western Reserve is 4-1. United led in field goals 25-23, but the home team hit 16 of 21 foul shots to gain the win.

Tom Wood came off the bench to get 20 points for United and Tad Drake added 19. Keck had 17, Mike Owen 15 and Obenhauf 12 for the winners. Western Reserve hit 45 per cent and United 40 per cent from the field, but United led in rebounds 36-34. Bill Kibler had 12 and Owen 10 to lead their teams.

Toledo Outlasts Seattle

By The Associated Press

Toledo's Rockets outlasted an unrelenting Seattle rally to claim an 87-85 victory; Youngstown turned back previously undefeated Wisconsin State 88-83; and Bowling Green defeated Virginia 76-72.

In two other games involving Ohio teams, Kent State snapped a four-game losing streak by romping over hapless San Francisco State 70-54 and Buffalo edged past Ohio Wesleyan 66-62.

The Rockets watched a 22-9 lead vanish to a 44-deadlock at halftime and then fought off inspired Seattle constantly in the second half when the lead was swapped six times.

Six straight free throws in the last two minutes gave Youngstown its victory, the fifth straight for the Penguins. John McElroy's 37 points sparkled the Youngstown attack.

Big Walt Piatkowski's jump shot in the final two minutes gave Bowling Green a 73-72 lead and the Falcons hung on to victory in the consolation game of the Marshall Invitational at Huntington, W.Va. Piatkowski was the game's leading scorer with 26 points.

Kent State deployed a balanced attack against San Francisco State as the West Coast team lost its second in eight outings. Doug Grayson was high man for the Flashes with 19 points.

Rams, Cowboys Picked In Divisional Games

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It is hard to imagine a Vince Lombardi-coached team losing three in a row but the Handpicker is tabbing the aroused Los Angeles Rams to beat the Green Bay Packers Saturday in the big pro football game of the weekend.

Dallas should rise to the occasion in the Cotton Bowl and knock off the Cleveland Browns Sunday in the Eastern Conference final to set up a Ram-Cowboy battle for the NFL title Dec. 31 at Los Angeles.

All are on television (CBS).

Houston, needing only a win or tie over improved Miami Saturday night to eliminate the New York Jets, should qualify for the AFL championship game at Oakland, also Dec. 31.

The regular NFL season ended last Sunday with a 72-31-9 record for this groggy selector. With three to go in the AFL it's 39-14-2 for an over-all total of 111-45-11.

Incidentally, we did pick three of the four NFL division winners in the preseason series with the Rams, Packers and Cowboys coming through. But Pittsburgh? What happened, Bill Austin?

NFL

Los Angeles 27, Green Bay 20-(Saturday)-The Rams had to get lucky with a blocked punt in the final minute to shade the Packers 27-24. Green Bay crippled then and still lists Jim Grabowski as doubtful. Donny Anderson and Ben Wilson to play with injuries. Home field and weather advantage would seem to give Packers the advantage but the Fearsome Foursome chased Bart Starr out of the pocket two weeks ago and should do it again after manhandling John Unitas last week. Rams have momentum. Packers are the old pros. We just have to believe this is the year of the Rams.

Dallas 21, Cleveland 14-(Sunday)-Battle of battered quarterbacks with Doc Meredith playing despite broken nose and damaged knee and Frank Ryan troubled by ankle and arm injuries. When they met opening day Cowboys won 21-14 on two TD passes by Meredith and interception by Chuck Howley. Dallas intercepted Ryan three times and smeared him four while holding Leroy Kelly to 11 yards and Ernie Green to six. Cowboys inconsistent, but best at home. Browns finished strong, forgetting last week's second string effort at Philadelphia.

AFL

Houston 21, Miami 14 (Saturday night)-Oilers need only a tie to wrap up Eastern title. Dolphins gave them real trouble Dec. 3 but Houston won 17-14 despite two TD passes by Bob Griese. Hoyle Granger ran for 111 yards and Woodie Campbell for 141. Defense should win it for Houston.

New York 24, San Diego 21 (Sunday)-If Houston clinches Saturday, forget this one. The only excitement could be Namath's quest for a pro passing record. If Oilers fall, Jets can force tie playoff by win.

Oakland 28, Buffalo 17-(Sunday)-Raiders won 24-20 when it counted. This is a nothing game except for Daryle Lamonica who sat on Bills' bench for years. Raiders already in, Bills out of everything.

Adams May Move Oilers To Seattle

HOUSTON (AP) — The oil man who owns the Houston Oilers, K. S. "Bud" Adams Jr., says he is tired of making up a $300,000 deficit each year for the privilege of watching seven home games in Rice Stadium. Seattle, he says, might be a happier home for his club.

Making his threat to move public Thursday, Adams said his decision is up to Houston fans.

"I'll have a good indication whether they want us to stay after we begin our season ticket sale in February," he said. "We lost more than 4,000 season tickets this year compared with last year. If we were to go down to 7,000 in 1968 there's no question I'd move the team."

The American Football League, which Adams helped found, has awarded a franchise to Seattle, which votes Feb. 13 on a $43 million bond issue to be issued for a stadium somewhat like the Harris County domed stadium, the Astrodome, in which the Oilers do not play because of what Adams considers unreasonable rent.

7-2 Cager Steve Turner Recruited

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Ever hear of Steve Turner? If you're a basketball fan, chances are you will.

At 7-foot-2, Turner is taller than UCLA's Lew Alcindor, still growing and is being courted by most of the nation's major college basketball teams.

In fact, his doctor figures that the senior at suburban Bartlett High School may reach 7-5.

Turner, who can effortlessly touch the backboards, has led Bartlett to a 12-0 won-lost record and the State's No. 1 ranking in The Associated Press high school poll.

"Yes sir, he's the biggest reason our team is No. 1 in the state," declares Bartlett Coach Glenn Essary.

Among those taking notice, he said, are Tennessee, Memphis State, North Carolina, Georgia, Louisiana State, Mississippi, Mississippi State, Georgia Tech, Vanderbilt, Southern Cal, Alabama Auburn, Michigan State, Tulsa, Louisville, Cincinnati "and just about every college in the country."

Steve now weighs 240 pounds and Essary has had him running track and on a weight program since he was in the ninth grade.

Athletes Of Year

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Pilar Roldan, who won a gold medal in fencing at the Pan American Games, and Juan Martinez, a distance runner, were named Mexican athletes of the year Thursday by Mexican sports writers.

To Manage Seattle

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Joe Adcock, former major league first baseman and ex-manager of the Cleveland Indians, Thursday was named to manage the Seattle baseball team which will play next season in the Pacific Coast League and become an American League expansion team in 1969.

Chargers' Post Offensive AFL Rookie Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Post, the San Diego running back who was overlooked for three rounds in the professional football draft, was named the American Football League's Offensive Rookie of the Year today by an Associated Press panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Post, who played brilliantly when Paul Lowe was injured early in the season, attracted 17 of the 27 ballots cast by three-man committees in each of the AFL's nine league cities.

Gene Upshaw, Oakland's tough offensive guard, and Miami's fast developing quarterback, Bob Griese, drew four votes each while Denver running back Floyd Little and Miami's Jack Clancy, a split end, each picked up one ballot.

Post, at 5-foot-9 and 190 pounds, is one of pro football's smallest running backs, but his size never was a handicap. He has gained 647 yards in 156 carries, a 4.1 average, and has scored seven touchdowns.

"When you're smaller," says Post, "You have to have speed and quickness or you're dead. My size hasn't hindered me."

It almost did. Charger Coach Sid Gillman had planned on using the youngster as a backup man at flanker behind Lance Alworth and Gary Garrison, two of the AFL's best at that position.

His speed and size had convinced Gillman that Post would be an ideal man for the job. "When you get a fellow like this, usually if you place him on the outside, he can gain more ground there than anywhere else," says Gillman.

So Post started in camp working behind Alworth and Garrison. He was, to say the least, disappointed.

"I knew those two guys were so great that I'd never get a chance to play," he says. "When they moved me back to the backfield, you can imagine how happy I was."

Backfield Coach Charlie Waller was the man most responsible for the move. Waller had scouted Post when the little guy was playing his college ball at the University of Houston, and hounded Gillman to shift him to the Chargers' running corps.

Crippled QBs Meet In Cotton Bowl Sunday

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — It's crippled quarterback against crippled quarterback Sunday when the Browns of Cleveland invade Dallas for the playoff game in the Eastern Division of the National Football League.

The quarterbacks in question —Frank Ryan of Cleveland and Don Meredith of Dallas — were generally conceded at the top of the heap in the NFL last year. This season, Ryan winds up as No. 7, just enough to edge Meredith, No. 8.

Each of the teams has lost five games, while winning nine, and there is nothing gaudy about the records. But in an oddity of the new four-division split up in the league, the Browns and the Pokes are having a playoff.

Coach Tom Landry of the host Cowboys puts the championship of the East squarely in the hands, and throwing arm, of the quarterbacks.

"The Browns have to be concerned about Ryan, the way we are about Meredith," said Landry. "Whichever quarterback has the good day—that will do it."

Meredith has had his worst and finest days against Cleveland. In 1965, he threw a long-remembered pass that a Cleveland player caught when he had first down and the victory to go from the Brown one-yard line.

Last year at Cleveland, Meredith threw four interceptions as Dallas blew an unbeaten record up to that point. Then Dallas whipped the Browns 21-14 at Cleveland this season, causing Landry to say as the Cowboy plane cleared the Ohio city's skyline, "Boy, am I glad to get out of this town."

Then, there was what Dandy Don calls his finest hour, and it came against the Browns.

Last season, on Thanksgiving Day fittingly, Meredith all but blew Cleveland off the gridiron. "I've had better days throwing the ball," said the Dandy. "But I don't think I ever had everything working together like it did against the Browns in that one." Dallas won 26-14.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR HELOISE: I don't recall ever reading a hint about soft-boiled eggs. So here's one from me:

Start the eggs in either cold or warm tap water over stove burner turned to "HIGH". When you see or hear the water come to a ROLLING boil, you have three minute eggs.

You have saved the time waiting for the water to come to a boil.

I've used this hint 10 times now, and I'll never soft-boil eggletts any other way again.

If you boil three eggs, remove only ONE first and see if it's "r-u-n-n-i-n-g." By the time you've scooped it out, the next one will be walking, etc. Soon you'll learn your own supreme perfection, and just like Mr. Strat says — no clock watching or bell timers 'cause you can see and hear these eggs.

And for those of you who can't eat yolks because of certain diets: Use an ice teaspoon (it's the perfect size) to scoop out the yolk. Then add one drop of yellow food coloring and stir well. You'll never know the yolks are missing.

And bless our egg man, Mr. Strat.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Instead of using a large toilet bowl brush, I bought a plastic vegetable brush just for this purpose!

This hangs hidden on the pipe under the wash basin. The greatest part about this is it doesn't look unsightly in the bathroom.

I also found that if I use a plastic scouring brush, there's no scratching of the toilet bowl such as that caused by most regular brushes with wire in the center. I almost ruined the toilet bowls in our last two homes this way. The plastic is just great.

"TITTA".

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Not having a toy box or much closet space, I was at a loss as to where my children's toys could be stored in their room.

Then I tried using the bottom dresser drawer which wasn't in use. Now my house is always neat, and if company is expected, I can just close the drawer.

During the day I leave the drawer open so the children can select their toys without having to dump them all over the floor.

MOTHER.

DEAR HELOISE: No psychiatrist or psychologist believes in collective GUILT.

FRIEND.

DEAR HELOISE: To cut thin strips of pre - sliced cheese, put a slice on your cutting board and use a pizza cutter.

It cuts real slick.

A READER.

DEAR HELOISE: Here's a little tip on how to clean out the stem of a coffee pot.

MRS. OMIECINSKI.

DEAR HELOISE: Don't throw away that old coat with the man-made fur lining.

VIRGINIA GRAY.

DEAR HELOISE: The plastic auto seat covers in my car are sure cold these winter mornings. So I use the straw cushion that I used last summer when the seats were too hot!

GEORGE TRAMMELL.

Court Ruling Hits U.S. Power

By STEPHEN M. AUG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has been stripped of its power—at least temporarily—to restrict travel abroad by U.S. citizens.

A three-judge federal appeals court ruling earlier this week limited the government to restricting the travel of the citizen's passport, but not of the citizen.

The ruling came in a single decision on two cases involving:

—Staughton Lynd, a Yale history teacher who visited Hanoi in 1966.

—Jane Wittman, a New York school teacher who traveled to Cuba in 1964.

Miss Wittman's passport was revoked because she refused to give the State Department any assurance she would not use it to travel to Cuba.

In her case, the court said the department could revoke her passport because her sole purpose was to visit Cuba—a nation to which travel by U.S. citizens is restricted.

Lynd's case was more complicated. His passport was revoked after he promised not to use it for travel to North Vietnam. But he refused to promise the State Department that he would not travel to a restricted country—albeit without his passport.

In essence, said the court, while the State Department may take steps to prevent unauthorized use of a passport because it is an official government document, it does not have the power to prevent an individual from entering a restricted nation if he does not use his passport to get there.

The court put it this way: "In short, we think the secretary (of state) has authority to control the lawful travel of the passport, even though Congress has not given authority to control the travel of the person."

Thus the State Department may, for example, require a person going to North Vietnam to deposit his passport for safekeeping with a U.S. embassy in a country along his route. He could pick it up again after he finishes his North Vietnam visit.

The court decision may well force the State Department to return Stokely Carmichael's passport to him if he gives assurance he will not use it to visit a restricted nation. His passport was revoked on his return to this country because he visited, among other places, Cuba and North Vietnam.

The State Department currently lists five nations to which U.S. citizens may not travel: China, Cuba, North Korea, North Vietnam, Syria. The Supreme Court has upheld the department's power to issue such a list.

But in a 1958 decision the highest court upheld the right to travel as one protected by the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution which says a citizen may not "be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law." The liberty includes travel, said the court.

The State Department has 90 days in which to appeal the three-judge court decision to the Supreme Court. No decision on an appeal reportedly has been made.

The department's problems in actually restricting the right to travel might be solved by passage of legislation pending in Congress which would make it a crime to travel to a restricted country—with or without a passport.

After all, they note, how could you subpoena a North Vietnamese immigration official to testify in a U.S. court that an individual did, indeed, visit North Vietnam?

Grants Are Approved For Waste Disposal

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Public Health Service announced Thursday it has awarded grants to help finance 23 municipal projects for improving solid waste disposal programs.

The federal funds totaling $2,492,399 will be used to find better ways to rid the nation of solid waste which includes discarded items from junked cars to garbage.

School Cutbacks Set After Defeat Of Levy

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—The Ravenna Board of Education has ordered cutbacks, effective Jan. 29, following the defeat of a 4-mill operating levy at a special election Dec. 12.

Supt. James A. Whittacker was told this week to cut kindergarten classes in half, close Walnut Street School and reduce transportation. Pupils living within a mile of their schools will have to walk.

Closing the Walnut School will mean moving several classes to another building.

Two Local Residents Get Alumni Degrees

They are G. William Brokaw and Joseph W. Cooper.

Cincinnati conferred Bachelor of Laws degrees on its College of Law graduates until 1963. This year the university's Board of Directors voted to award retroactive J.D. degrees to those who were graduated before 1963.

Career Day Set At Crucible For District Students

The Midland Division of the Crucible Steel Co. will hold its third annual "Crucible Career Day" for area college juniors and seniors Tuesday at the Crucible Management Club in Industry Borough.

During the program, the division's management staff will review industrial job opportunities in sales, production control, finance, purchasing and employe relations. The engineering field will also be covered and will include general engineering, industrial engineering, process engineering and metallurgy.

Projects Listed By Toastmasters

Future events were discussed when the East Liverpool Toastmasters Club met Wednday night at the Ohio Valley Gas Co. building. Frances J. House presided.

The club speech contest will begin Jan. 3, with the winner to advance to area competition. The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. will present a special program in February.

House was toastmaster; James Cunningham, tabletopics; James Steiner, chief evaluator; Harold Sneddon, speech 11, who also was the most improved speaker, and James Buchmann the recipient of the bull - thrower award.

Youth Fined, Jailed During Court Hearing

An East Liverpool youth received a fine and jail sentence Thursday when he appeared befor Eastern District Court Judge D. Barry Dickson at East Palestine on a charge of petty larceny.

Alfonso Foster, 19, of 170 Haywood St. was fined $200 and costs and sent to the County Jail at Lisbon for three days. The fine and costs were suspended.

Pitt Gets $1 Million From Mellon Family

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pitt has received a $1 million grant from the Richard K. Mellon family for space research and engineering.

The Mellons, in making the gift Thursday, directed that $700,000 be used as an endowment with its income going to Pitt's school of engineering, with the remainder earmarked for the school's Space Research coordination Center.

Visit At Rogers

ROGERS — Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Rudibaugh of Niles have concluded a visit with relatives here.

Holiday Events Announced For Hi-Spot Center

On Dec. 28, there will be a special Holly Season dance with the Jerry Lary quartet of Beaver providing music. The members of the quartet are students at Beaver High School and members of the Beaver Bopcat Swing Band. The Holiday Tournament Queen will be honored in a special Queen Spotlight Dance.

The theme song "Only You," a favorite which has been used for 11 years, will be featured.

The doors will open from 9:30 p.m. until 12:00 p.m. There will be a special admission for the dance.

The center will be open Dec. 29 after the game for dancing to records, and also after the game this Friday night Mrs. Spisak said.

No National League pitcher has won 30 games since 1934 when Jerome (Dizzy) Dean won 30 and lost 7 for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

DEAR HELOISE: I don't recall ever reading a hint about soft-boiled eggs. So here's one from me:

Start the eggs in either cold or warm tap water over stove burner turned to "HIGH". When you see or hear the water come to a ROLLING boil, you have three minute eggs.

You have saved the time waiting for the water to come to a boil.

I've used this hint 10 times now, and I'll never soft-boil eggletts any other way again.

If you boil three eggs, remove only ONE first and see if it's "r-u-n-n-i-n-g." By the time you've scooped it out, the next one will be walking, etc. Soon you'll learn your own supreme perfection, and just like Mr. Strat says — no clock watching or bell timers 'cause you can see and hear these eggs.

Just be sure to have enough water in your pan so that it is one inch above your eggs when you put them in.

And for those of you who can't eat yolks because of certain diets: Use an ice teaspoon (it's the perfect size) to scoop out the yolk. Then add one drop of yellow food coloring and stir well. You'll never know the yolks are missing.

And bless our egg man, Mr. Strat.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Instead of using a large toilet bowl brush, I bought a plastic vegetable brush just for this purpose!

This hangs hidden on the pipe under the wash basin. The greatest part about this is it doesn't look unsightly in the bathroom.

I also found that if I use a plastic scouring brush, there's no scratching of the toilet bowl such as that caused by most regular brushes with wire in the center. I almost ruined the toilet bowls in our last two homes this way. The plastic is just great.

"TITTA".

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: Not having a toy box or much closet space, I was at a loss as to where my children's toys could be stored in their room.

Then I tried using the bottom dresser drawer which wasn't in use. Now my house is always neat, and if company is expected, I can just close the drawer.

During the day I leave the drawer open so the children can select their toys without having to dump them all over the floor.

MOTHER.

DEAR HELOISE: No psychiatrist or psychologist believes in collective GUILT.

FRIEND.

DEAR HELOISE: To cut thin strips of pre - sliced cheese, put a slice on your cutting board and use a pizza cutter.

It cuts real slick.

A READER.

DEAR HELOISE: Here's a little tip on how to clean out the stem of a coffee pot.

If you have a skewer that is long enough, use it to push a small wad from a soap-filled pad through the stem.

MRS. OMIECINSKI.

DEAR HELOISE: Don't throw away that old coat with the man-made fur lining.

VIRGINIA GRAY.

DEAR HELOISE: The plastic auto seat covers in my car are sure cold these winter mornings. So I use the straw cushion that I used last summer when the seats were too hot!

Court Ruling Hits U.S. Power

By STEPHEN M. AUG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has been stripped of its power—at least temporarily—to restrict travel abroad by U.S. citizens.

A three-judge federal appeals court ruling earlier this week limited the government to restricting the travel of the citizen's passport, but not of the citizen.

The ruling came in a single decision on two cases involving:

—Staughton Lynd, a Yale history teacher who visited Hanoi in 1966.

—Jane Wittman, a New York school teacher who traveled to Cuba in 1964.

Miss Wittman's passport was revoked because she refused to give the State Department any assurance she would not use it to travel to Cuba.

In her case, the court said the department could revoke her passport because her sole purpose was to visit Cuba—a nation to which travel by U.S. citizens is restricted.

Lynd's case was more complicated. His passport was revoked after he promised not to use it for travel to North Vietnam. But he refused to promise the State Department that he would not travel to a restricted country—albeit without his passport.

In essence, said the court, while the State Department may take steps to prevent unauthorized use of a passport because it is an official government document, it does not have the power to prevent an individual from entering a restricted nation if he does not use his passport to get there.

The court put it this way: "In short, we think the secretary (of state) has authority to control the lawful travel of the passport, even though Congress has not given authority to control the travel of the person."

Thus the State Department may, for example, require a person going to North Vietnam to deposit his passport for safekeeping with a U.S. embassy in a country along his route. He could pick it up again after he finishes his North Vietnam visit.

The court decision may well force the State Department to return Stokely Carmichael's passport to him if he gives assurance he will not use it to visit a restricted nation. His passport was revoked on his return to this country because he visited, among other places, Cuba and North Vietnam.

The State Department currently lists five nations to which U.S. citizens may not travel: China, Cuba, North Korea, North Vietnam, Syria. The Supreme Court has upheld the department's power to issue such a list.

But in a 1958 decision the highest court upheld the right to travel as one protected by the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution which says a citizen may not "be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law." The liberty includes travel, said the court.

The State Department has 90 days in which to appeal the three-judge court decision to the Supreme Court. No decision on an appeal reportedly has been made.

The department's problems in actually restricting the right to travel might be solved by passage of legislation pending in Congress which would make it a crime to travel to a restricted country—with or without a passport.

Although some government lawyers believe such a law would be constitutional, they concede the crime might be difficult to prove.

After all, they note, how could you subpoena a North Vietnamese immigration official to testify in a U.S. court that an individual did, indeed, visit North Vietnam?

Grants Are Approved For Waste Disposal

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Public Health Service announced Thursday it has awarded grants to help finance 23 municipal projects for improving solid waste disposal programs.

The federal funds totaling $2,492,399 will be used to find better ways to rid the nation of solid waste which includes discarded items from junked cars to garbage.

The projects range from a bulk refuse crusher at Buffalo, N.Y., to developing a 20-year collection and disposal plan for New Orleans.

School Cutbacks Set After Defeat Of Levy

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—The Ravenna Board of Education has ordered cutbacks, effective Jan. 29, following the defeat of a 4-mill operating levy at a special election Dec. 12.

Supt. James A. Whittacker was told this week to cut kindergarten classes in half, close Walnut Street School and reduce transportation. Pupils living within a mile of their schools will have to walk.

Closing the Walnut School will mean moving several classes to another building.

Two Local Residents Get Alumni Degrees

They are G. William Brokaw and Joseph W. Cooper.

Cincinnati conferred Bachelor of Laws degrees on its College of Law graduates until 1963. This year the university's Board of Directors voted to award retroactive J.D. degrees to those who were graduated before 1963.

Career Day Set At Crucible For District Students

The Midland Division of the Crucible Steel Co. will hold its third annual "Crucible Career Day" for area college juniors and seniors Tuesday at the Crucible Management Club in Industry Borough.

During the program, the division's management staff will review industrial job opportunities in sales, production control, finance, purchasing and employe relations. The engineering field will also be covered and will include general engineering, industrial engineering, process engineering and metallurgy.

Projects Listed By Toastmasters

Future events were discussed when the East Liverpool Toastmasters Club met Wednesday night at the Ohio Valley Gas Co. building. Frances J. House presided.

The club speech contest will begin Jan. 3, with the winner to advance to area competition. The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. will present a special program in February.

House was toastmaster; James Cunningham, tabletopics; James Steiner, chief evaluator; Harold Sneddon, speech 11, who also was the most improved speaker, and James Buchmann the recipient of the bull - thrower award.

Youth Fined, Jailed During Court Hearing

An East Liverpool youth received a fine and jail sentence Thursday when he appeared befor Eastern District Court Judge D. Barry Dickson at East Palestine on a charge of petty larceny.

Alfonso Foster, 19, of 170 Haywood St. was fined $200 and costs and sent to the County Jail at Lisbon for three days. The fine and costs were suspended.

Pitt Gets $1 Million From Mellon Family

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pitt has received a $1 million grant from the Richard K. Mellon family for space research and engineering.

The Mellons, in making the gift Thursday, directed that $700,000 be used as an endowment with its income going to Pitt's school of engineering, with the remainder earmarked for the school's Space Research coordination Center.

Visit At Rogers

Holiday Events Announced For Hi-Spot Center

Mrs. William Spisak, Hi-Spot director has announced the holiday schedule for the youth center.

On Dec. 28, there will be a special Holly Season dance with the Jerry Lary quartet of Beaver providing music. The members of the quartet are students at Beaver High School and members of the Beaver Bopcat Swing Band. The Holiday Tournament Queen will be honored in a special Queen Spotlight Dance.

The theme song "Only You," a favorite which has been used for 11 years, will be featured.

The doors will open from 9:30 p.m. until 12:00 p.m. There will be a special admission for the dance.

The center will be open Dec. 29 after the game for dancing to records, and also after the game this Friday night Mrs. Spisak said.

No National League pitcher has won 30 games since 1934 when Jerome (Dizzy) Dean won 30 and lost 7 for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Emergencies call for an "Extra Hand"

BE PREPARED to perform a public service in time of disaster. When wind damage or storms leave your home and neighborhood with fallen trees, broken timbers, etc., — a chain saw is your indispensable aid in cleaning up the area.

Exclusive design features and two year guarantee on all Remington chain saws. Prices start at $150.00.

Remington OUTCUTS, OUTLASTS THEM ALL!

Emergencies call for an "Extra Hand"

BE PREPARED to perform a public service in time of disaster. When wind damage or storms leave your home and neighborhood with fallen trees, broken timbers, etc., — a chain saw is your indispensable aid in cleaning up the area.

Come in and find out such emergencies. (Of course, you'll find many other uses for your chain saw once you buy it.)

Exclusive design features and two year guarantee on all Remington chain saws. Prices start at $150.00.

Remington OUTCUTS, OUTLASTS THEM ALL!

Junior Editors Quiz on ICE CREAM BARS

ANSWER: Ice cream is made from milk and cream with sugar and flavoring added, as well as small amounts of some stabilizer such as gelatin. In some cases, eggs are added. When the ice cream has been mixed and stirred, it is called a mix. To make chocolate-covered bars, the mix is run from the freezer to a mold (2). The mold shapes the bars. Then the sticks are put in (3). The mold goes into a brine tank which is very cold (4). Passing into a tank of water (5), the bars are loosened from the mold. They go on to a chain drive convoy where they are held upright and dipped into liquid chocolate (6). Next, they go into a cooling system and then into bags all done automatically by machinery. What happens then? You take over. You may just look and bite (A); in summer, swing and bite (B); in winter, read and bite (C); just any old time, have a party (D) or give your dog a treat (E). (F) shows some new ideas in ice cream bars other good tasting things have been added, such as toffee.

SANTA and the PIGWIDGEN

By Lucrece Beale

"Merry Christmas to all!"

CHAPTER 17

Claus rushed back to the castle to delay the contest. The Pigwidgen was impatient. He knew only he could lift the box of magic because it was screwed to the top of the North Pole. He was anxious to defeat Claus at last.

"But give me a change of clothes!" begged Claus. "What I am wearing is not suitable for so serious a contest."

"Oh, very well," said the Pigwidgen crossly, and he ordered clothes brought to Claus.

Nothing large enough to fit could be found. Finally the pygmies discovered a bolt of red cloth. Quickly they cut out and stitched together a red suit. It was a fine and handsome outfit but, unfortunately, too large. Claus stuffed several pillows under his coat to make it fit. Then, looking like a roly poly red rubber ball, he followed the Pigwidgen to the lake.

THE TINY box sat on top of the ice. Claus bent over. He wrapped his hands around the box. He gave a mighty heave. The box did not move. Claus pried. He pushed. He pulled. The box did not move.

The Pigwidgen cried, "You have lost! Now you will turn to stone!"

Claus smiled. He knew that it was Patrick Tweedleknees who had done it. The elf had broken under the ice near shore and had swum underwater to the pole. All the time Claus was heaving, Tweendleknees was under the ice sawing on the pole until the tip broke free.

"And what of the curse that has put all the children in the land to sleep?" asked Claus. "And the curse that keeps all elves underground?"

"YOU MAY break them," said the Pigwidgen. "The power is yours. My people are yours. This land is yours. But there is one thing you must know. No human being who has come to this land can leave. Though you will live forever you can never go home again."

"Never?"

Claus was very sad. What was the good of living forever and having so much magic power if he could not do what he had loved the most: to sit in his little workshop at home and make toys for the children of the village?

Tweedleknees appeared. He tugged at Claus' big red trousers. "It is a good land," he said gruffly. "The elves can move here from their underground caves. The pygmies can stay here. We can all make toys and once a year you can take them not only to your own village but to children everywhere. All the world will love you and call you Saint Nicholas or Santa Claus."

CLAUS brightened. "I can fill a sled with toys and the reindeer can fly me," he said happily. "I will send for Mrs. Claus and she can make sugar plums and sweet meats to stuff in stockings."

"And always wear red because that red suit has brought us luck," said Tweedleknees.

"But," said the Pigwidgen, "what of the message you must give in order to visit the world?"

"That's easy," said Claus. "I shall deliver our toys on Christmas Eve and my message will be 'Merry Christmas!' "

And that is the tale of how Saint Nicholas came to be the Santa Claus we know today. It may be true or it may not. It really doesn't matter. The message is the same:

"Merry Christmas to all!"

200 On Hand For Concert At Wellsville

The concert of Christmas music by the Wellsville High School band Wednesday night in the all-purpose room of MacDonald School was attended by some 200.

A novelty number was the narration of " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas" by Joe Caporossi, a high school faculty member, to a group of children, including Betts Beresford, Angie DeFalco, Mary Sue Horoszko, Justine Garee, Lori Steffen and Karen Lanam, gathered around him on the stage.

The band provided background music and Santa Claus arrived down the chimney at the appropriate time in the poem. He distributed gifts to the children in the scene, a gift from the junior band to Robert Westcott, director, and candy canes to the audience. Decorations in the front of the room were in keeping with the poem.

Patterson Group Honored By 'JA' For Its Program

The P.I.J.A. Junior Achievement company counseled by Patterson Industries, Inc., has been designated "JA company of the month" for November because of its efficiency in conducting its business organization.

The award is made on a point system based upon sales, attendance, reports, up-to-date board meeting minutes, tours and over-all business organization, JA officials pointed out.

P.I.J.A., which manufactures a pen desk set, is headed by Nancy Sturgeon, 17, as president. Nancy is a student at East Liverpool High School.

The J.A.P.C.O. company counseled by J. C. Penneys, People's Drugs and the First National Bank placed second in the standing for November.

Ohio Soldier Killed, One Missing In Viet

WASHINGTON (AP)— Army Pfc. Richard E. Mehl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mehl, Mansfield, Ohio, has been killed in action in Vietnam, the Defense Department reported Thursday.

Another Ohioan was listed as missing in action. He is Army Pfc. Virgil L. Hiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lon E. King of Milford.

Judgment Reversed In Salem Man's Case

LISBON —The Ohio Supreme Court has reversed the judgment of the Seventh District Court of Appeals in the state's case against Frederick C. Minamyer, 55, of Salem.

A Common Pleas Court jury convicted Minamyer May 20, 1964, of a charge of sodomy. He was never sentenced and has been under bond pending appeal. The Appellate Court upheld the trial court.

Attorneys say the reversal means the case comes back to the county for another trial. Prosecuting Atty. J. Warren Bettis said a retrial depends on his ability to locate the witnesses.

Clarkson Area News

CLARKSON — A Christmas party and gift exchange will be held tonight at the Clarkson Grange meeting, with Karen McCoy, youth chairman, and Becky Seachrist in charge of the entertainment. Santa will be present.

There will be no business meeting.

SANTA and the PIGWIDGEN

By Lucrece Beale

"Merry Christmas to all!"

CHAPTER 17

Claus rushed back to the castle to delay the contest. The Pigwidgen was impatient. He knew only he could lift the box of magic because it was screwed to the top of the North Pole. He was anxious to defeat Claus at last.

"But give me a change of clothes!" begged Claus. "What I am wearing is not suitable for so serious a contest."

"Oh, very well," said the Pigwidgen crossly, and he ordered clothes brought to Claus.

Nothing large enough to fit could be found. Finally the pygmies discovered a bolt of red cloth. Quickly they cut out and stitched together a red suit. It was a fine and handsome outfit but, unfortunately, too large. Claus stuffed several pillows under his coat to make it fit. Then, looking like a roly poly red rubber ball, he followed the Pigwidgen to the lake.

THE TINY box sat on top of the ice. Claus bent over. He wrapped his hands around the box. He gave a mighty heave. The box did not move. Claus pried. He pushed. He pulled. The box did not move.

The Pigwidgen cried, "You have lost! Now you will turn to stone!"

Claus shook his head and heaved once more. Suddenly the ice split, there was a snap below the water and Claus raised the box high over his head.

The Pigwidgen turned pale. "You have lifted the North Pole itself!" he gasped incredulously.

Claus smiled. He knew that it was Patrick Tweedleknees who had done it. The elf had broken under the ice near shore and had swum underwater to the pole. All the time Claus was heaving, Tweendleknees was under the ice sawing on the pole until the tip broke free.

The Pigwidge said mournfully, "All my power is now yours."

"And what of the curse that has put all the children in the land to sleep?" asked Claus. "And the curse that keeps all elves underground?"

"YOU MAY break them," said the Pigwidgen. "The power is yours. My people are yours. This land is yours. But there is one thing you must know. No human being who has come to this land can leave. Though you will live forever you can never go home again."

"Never?"

Claus was very sad. What was the good of living forever and having so much magic power if he could not do what he had loved the most: to sit in his little workshop at home and make toys for the children of the village?

Tweedleknees appeared. He tugged at Claus' big red trousers. "It is a good land," he said gruffly. "The elves can move here from their underground caves. The pygmies can stay here. We can all make toys and once a year you can take them not only to your own village but to children everywhere. All the world will love you and call you Saint Nicholas or Santa Claus."

CLAUS brightened. "I can fill a sled with toys and the reindeer can fly me," he said happily. "I will send for Mrs. Claus and she can make sugar plums and sweet meats to stuff in stockings."

"And always wear red because that red suit has brought us luck," said Tweedleknees.

"But," said the Pigwidgen, "what of the message you must give in order to visit the world?"

"That's easy," said Claus. "I shall deliver our toys on Christmas Eve and my message will be 'Merry Christmas!' "

And that is the tale of how Saint Nicholas came to be the Santa Claus we know today. It may be true or it may not. It really doesn't matter. The message is the same:

"Merry Christmas to all!"

200 On Hand For Concert At Wellsville

The concert of Christmas music by the Wellsville High School band Wednesday night in the all-purpose room of MacDonald School was attended by some 200.

A novelty number was the narration of " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas" by Joe Caporossi, a high school faculty member, to a group of children, including Betts Beresford, Angie DeFalco, Mary Sue Horoszko, Justine Garee, Lori Steffen and Karen Lanam, gathered around him on the stage.

The band provided background music and Santa Claus arrived down the chimney at the appropriate time in the poem. He distributed gifts to the children in the scene, a gift from the junior band to Robert Westcott, director, and candy canes to the audience. Decorations in the front of the room were in keeping with the poem.

Patterson Group Honored By 'JA' For Its Program

The P.I.J.A. Junior Achievement company counseled by Patterson Industries, Inc., has been designated "JA company of the month" for November because of its efficiency in conducting its business organization.

The award is made on a point system based upon sales, attendance, reports, up-to-date board meeting minutes, tours and over-all business organization, JA officials pointed out.

P.I.J.A., which manufactures a pen desk set, is headed by Nancy Sturgeon, 17, as president. Nancy is a student at East Liverpool High School.

The J.A.P.C.O. company counseled by J. C. Penneys, People's Drugs and the First National Bank placed second in the standing for November.

Ohio Soldier Killed, One Missing In Viet

WASHINGTON (AP)— Army Pfc. Richard E. Mehl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Mehl, Mansfield, Ohio, has been killed in action in Vietnam, the Defense Department reported Thursday.

Another Ohioan was listed as missing in action. He is Army Pfc. Virgil L. Hiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lon E. King of Milford.

Judgment Reversed In Salem Man's Case

LISBON —The Ohio Supreme Court has reversed the judgment of the Seventh District Court of Appeals in the state's case against Frederick C. Minamyer, 55, of Salem.

A Common Pleas Court jury convicted Minamyer May 20, 1964, of a charge of sodomy. He was never sentenced and has been under bond pending appeal. The Appellate Court upheld the trial court.

Attorneys say the reversal means the case comes back to the county for another trial. Prosecuting Atty. J. Warren Bettis said a retrial depends on his ability to locate the witnesses.

Clarkson Area News

CLARKSON — A Christmas party and gift exchange will be held tonight at the Clarkson Grange meeting, with Karen McCoy, youth chairman, and Becky Seachrist in charge of the entertainment. Santa will be present.
